HENRY EDGERTON CHAPIN

ON the opposite page will be found a half-tone likeness of Dr. Henry Edgerton Chapin, the next Editor of the TOMAHAWK. Born in Wilbraham, Massachusetts, May 9th, 1859, Dr. Chapin springs from a long line of colonists whose names are intimately connected with the early history of America. Samuel Chapin, the original of St. Gaudin's celebrated statue, "The Puritan", came to Springfield, Massachusetts, early in the 17th century and from him the subject of our sketch is a lineal descendant.

In the grammar and high schools of Springfield young Chapin received his early education and later entered upon classical studies in the Collegiate Institute of that city. Turning his attention to scientific investigation he successfully graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College with the degree of B. Sc., in 1881, and later received the same degree from Boston University.

Following this he taught in secondary schools and also engaged in journalism for several years and then entered upon post graduate work in Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore where he specialized in chemistry and biology. Leaving the university he became Instructor in Science in the Pennsylvania State Normal School for two years and in 1891 was called to Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, as Professor of Biology and Geology and remained in this position for nine years.

In 1900 New York City called him to accept a position as Teacher of Chemistry, Biology, and allied sciences in her high school system. For ten years he was a member of the Council and President of the Department of Botany in the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and has lectured before it from time to time. This organization is a very important link in the educational system of Brooklyn and has several thousand members, conducts many courses of instruction in several departments of learning, and receives liberal appropriations from the City of New York each year.

Brother Chapin received his degree of M. Sc. in 1893 and that of Doctor of Science in 1908.

At the close of the Civil War, Chapin was just old enough to read and became passionately fond of the literature relating to that period. His fondness for military matters was in a measure gratified when he entered the Massachusetts Agricultural College, which in common with the other land grant colleges, are national as well as state institutions. Military instruction was furnished by the United States Government throughout the entire course. Soon after his graduation practical use of this instruction was made by our subject in one of the New York Military Academies where he became Instructor in Military Science and Tactics, and Commandant of Cadets.

Years later he was commissioned by Governor McKinley (afterwards President of the United States) as Captain in the Ohio National Guard. He had resigned his commission some years before the Spanish War which ended too quickly for him to realize his ambition to become the colonel of a volunteer regiment intended to see service at the front.

His connection with scientific and learned societies is attested by charter membership in the Ohio Academy of Science, Honorary Fellow of the Society of Biological Chemistry, London, member New York State Museum Association. He was offered membership in the Authors' Club of London. He is joint author of Elementary Zoology and Laboratory Guide, used in colleges and secondary schools. He has also done considerable research work along zoological lines.

The following appears in "Who's Who in America".

Chapin, Henry Edgerton, Biologist; born at Wilbraham, Mass., May 9, 1859; son Samuel W. and Maria (Damon) Chapin; B. Sc., Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., and Boston University, 1881; post-graduate student chemistry and biology, Johns Hopkins, 1886-7; M. Sc.,

Michigan Agricultural College, 1893 (Sc. D., McKendree College, 1908); married Eudora M. Hoffman, of Athens, Ohio, June 29, 1893. Taught in secondary schools and engaged in agricultural journalism, 1881-86; teacher Pennsylvania State Normal School, 1888-90; professor biology, Ohio University, 1891-1900; instructor in biology and physiography, high schools, New York, 1900-. Lecturer; member Council Brooklyn Institute Arts and Sciences (president department of Botany, 1904-14); honorary fellow Society Biological Chemistry, London; charter member Ohio Academy of Science; Member New York Council Alpha Sigma Phi, University Club (Brooklyn); president Massachusetts Agricultural Club of New York, 1910-11. Joint Author: Chapin and Rettger's Elementary Zoology and Laboratory Guide, 1896; also scientific monographs. Address: 49 Lefferts Ave., Richmond Hill, New York City.

Dr. Chapin was a charter member of the College Shakespearean Literary Society that later became the C. S. C. Fraternity and still later Gamma Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi and it is largely due to his untiring efforts that this chapter has become so well established and maintained its rank as such.

THE FIGHT AT ST. JULIEN

YOU say that the First contingent
 Are bums, and rotters, and snydes;
 You say that we sullied our honor,
 And a whole lot more besides.
 We are probably all you call us,
 But you must admit we're men,
 So I smile when I hear you bragging—
 For we fought at St. Julien.

We were a bit wild and roughish,
 Though a soldier isn't a lamb,
 And we drank and squandered our money,
 And none of us cared a damn.
 So you thought us as black as painted,
 But you'll change your opinion when
 You meet the souls of the Germans
 That died at St. Julien.

When you've learnt the lust of battle,
 When your bravest and best have gone,
 When seventy per cent. are stricken,
 And the rest kept fighting on—
 You cease to mind the ravings
 Of an editorial pen,
 When you've tasted blood and slaughter
 At a fight like St. Julien.

For though the First contingent
 Are bums, and rotters, and snydes,
 The dregs of the nation's manhood,
 And a whole lot else besides,
 Though we ruined your reputation
 And blackened your name, but then—
 We held the line for the Empire
 At the fight at St. Julien!

(H. SMALLEY SARSON, in the Dead Horse Corner Gazette, published "somewhere in France").

KAPPA CHAPTER, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

HENRY BALDWIN MERRILL, '16, Chemistry course, is Kappa Chapter's best bet among the honor men of the past college year. Besides being captain of the conference champion cross-country team and a member of the regular 'Varsity track team, "Baldy" has been elected  $\Phi$  B K,  $\Phi$  A Y, and A X  $\Sigma$ . The last two fraternities mentioned are respectively honorary and professional chemical fraternities.

RALPH MAXWELL BOHN, '16, Ag., has maintained a high scholastic average during his four years at the University of Wisconsin. An appreciation of this steady work has been shown by his election to A Z, honorary agricultural fraternity.

KENNETH RICHARD BURKE, '16, Chemical engineering, the wisest leader Kappa Chapter has had within the last college generation of four years. Twice elected H. S. P., "Ken" has ever shown his great power in shaping the destinies of our chapter. It's too bad there isn't room to say more about him.

NORMAN COLUMBUS LUCAS, '16, Journalism, entered the University of Wisconsin as a junior in 1914. Since that time he has been elected to  $\Sigma$   $\Delta$  X, honorary journalistic fraternity. During his last semester he was employed on the desk in the office of the Daily Cardinal.

STEPHEN CHARLES GRIBBLE, '17, Chemistry course, together with "Baldy" Merrill, has been elected to  $\Phi$  A Y, the honorary chemical fraternity.

CARL HERMAN BERGER, '17, Letters and Science, scholastic average for the past year about 93, entered the University of Wisconsin as a junior. He shines in dramatics, as is shown by the fact that he was chosen to play leading man's part in the Junior Play. Bro. Berger can play a part in French or in German as well as in English. During the last school year he has been elected to Edwin Booth, men's honorary dramatic society and was also a member of the editorial staff of the Daily Cardinal.

GEORGE MILTON FULLER, '17, Commerce course, has distinguished himself by his uniformly commendable scholastic work and by his re-election to the University of Wisconsin Glee and Mandolin Clubs.

CARL WILLIAM FAIRWEATHER, '17, Law, elected to both the Edwin Booth society and to the University of Wisconsin Glee Club.

EDWIN SCHMIDT, '18, Engineering, captain-elect of next year's 'Varsity swimming team, wearer of the "W", member of Star and Arrow, honorary athletic society.

JOHN OGDEN MERRILL, '18, Architectural engineering, holder of Kappa's highest average, 95.6, for the past year. Bro. Merrill's average must be among the highest, if not the highest, of all averages obtained by all the sophomores registered in the university at the present time. We are sorry that he is going to leave us for Boston Tech.

LAMBDA CHAPTER, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

ROLAND L. LOISEAUX.—Brother Loiseaux, '18, has been active in literary work on the campus during the two years he has been at Columbia. He was a candidate for Spectator Board during the last term of his Freshman year and was elected near the close of the term to the Associate Board. In May of this year he was promoted to the News Board. He has served all this year as president of the French Club, and under his administration the Club has had an unusually successful season. Brother Loiseaux was one of seven men elected from twenty-one candidates to Philolexian Literary Society at the spring election.

HOWARD WARE LOOK.—Brother Look, '17, is the only letter man that Lambda has at present. Brother Look was a member of the class track team in his Sophomore year, and won his numerals. He was a member of the Cross Country team this year, and at the close of the season was elected to captain next year's team.

LAURENCE HERBERT NICHOLS, '18, has just finished two years of service with the Glee Club, and was awarded this year non-athletic insignia. Brother Nichols in his Freshman and Sophomore years led his class in the annual Inter-Class Song Contest. He was elected to Philolexian Society in May, 1915. He served as property manager of the Philolexian show in November of last year, and has been elected play manager for next year. Brother Nichols has been the house steward this year.

HOWARD W. PALMER, '17, has been active in campus work, serving as vice-president and president of Philolexian Literary Society, during the past year. He entered the competition for the Associate Board of Spectator in September, was elected to the Associate Board in October, promoted to the News Board in February, and further promoted to the Managing Board in April, a record equalled by no other Spectator man and largely due to previous practical newspaper experience. He served on the play committee of Philolexian Society in November, took part in the play, and served as vice-president and chairman of the program committee of the society until January, when he was elected president for the spring term. He was a member of the Philolexian Debating team which met the Philomathean Society of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in March. He was also awarded non-athletic insignia for Spectator work.

ARRIGO RIGHI, '18, at the Columbian elections landed one of the most enviable jobs on the campus, that of business manager of the Columbian, the year book of the Junior class. He worked hard the past year and was unanimously recommended for the position by the retiring board. Brother Righi has served as business manager of several enterprises on the campus, notably the French and the Italian Club plays, the French Club dance, and the Intercollegiate Italian Club dance, in which all of the Italians in New York colleges co-operated. He was an active member of both the French and Italian clubs, and served as secretary of the latter.

EDMUND BURKE THOMPSON, JR., '18, was another successful candidate for the Columbian Board last spring, giving us a representation of two on a board of 14, where there were thirty candidates. Brother Thompson was a candidate for editor-in-chief, and lost by a very close margin. He has been active in other literary work on the campus during his first two years. He was elected to Spectator in the spring of 1915, and although a Freshman, was practically managing editor of the paper during the summer session. He conducted the Spectator trip to the Pacific coast during the summer of 1915. He was elected to the Philolexian Society last winter, and will serve next year on all of the important standing committees.

As we go to press the world is saddened by the death of the sweet singer, James Whitcomb Riley. All intelligent men must feel keenly the loss of the man whose versatility is probably wider than that of any poet of modern times. From dialect to Shakespeare, the answer is the same,—a master hand had moulded the figure that a master mind had made. We cannot help but suggest that his own epitaph is beautifully expressed in the stanza from The Old Trundle Bed,—

"The voice of my mother to lull me to sleep,
With sweet fairy stories their memories keep,
As fresh as the lilies that bloom o'er the head,
Once bowed o'er my own, in the old trundle bed."

A REVIEW,—A PROPHECY,—A DREAM! WHICH?

WITH this issue Volume 13 closes and with it passes the editorial control of THE TOMAHAWK. A brief review of the tasks assumed, discharged, and transmitted may be in order for the benefit of that army of alumni members whom we can reach in no other way.

At the Convention in San Francisco the entire control of THE TOMAHAWK, both financially and editorially was placed in my hands with the assurance that if I did not make good in my agreement to bring the magazine out on time I would be called strictly to account. I was asked at the time to commit myself as to whom I expected to appoint as Editor but the conditions to be eliminated were far too onerous to be done by mere fiat of resolution or verbal promise. THE TOMAHAWK had for the previous term been putting in its appearance from the press from three to four months late,—its editorial policy had been antagonistic rather than co-operative with the administrative policy of the Fraternity,—and its literary features were observed more in the breach than in the rule. I asserted my determination to reform the publication in its literary form and the regularity of its appearance. Both of these designs have been realized.

Upon my return from the Convention less than 30 days remained in which to select a new board of editors, secure the "copy", and get the practical work started if the first issue under the present management was to appear on time. To carry on a voluminous correspondence with different men for the various positions, select the desired man of experience, skill, and ability for Editor, get in the Chapter Letters, and put things in shape within the limited time was impossible unless I stepped into the breach myself. To do so was extremely distasteful to me, as well as fraught with danger of being misunderstood. Not only did I know it to be my own desire that someone else should act as Editor but also I knew full well that it was the unexpressed wish of the fraternity as a whole that it should be so. The situation was the gravest of my entire career in the discharge of my manifold duties. The result was I took off my coat and went to work.

The November TOMAHAWK went to press on the 3rd of that month and was in the mails on the 20th,—the February number was in press on the 1st and in the mails the 23rd, the May number in press May 1st, and in the mails the 19th. The literary features of the magazine reached the plane I have so long desired for it in the February number and this standard we hope to maintain during the balance of my term. Nor are these the only features where we have scored strongly. Every Chapter Letter was in its place in every issue of this year, a record never reached before. In this respect we have scored a one hundred per cent. record.

As soon as the November number was in press I set about resolutely to secure the services of a distinguished member of the fraternity for editor. I successively offered it to Past Grand Senior President, Homer Baxter Sprague, who declined it with thanks and nominated either President Andrew Dixon White of Cornell, or Hon. William W. Crapo, one of the earlier editors of the Yale Tomahawk. Both of these gentlemen declined to assume the responsibility of directing its destinies. After a great deal of negotiation I succeeded in inducing Dr. Henry Edgerton Chapin to accept the post upon condition that I should finish out the year which had already ran far upon its course. Thus, at last I was able to realize concretely my own plans and the wishes of the fraternity.

In the matter of the duties of the Publication Managership I have not been so successful. I have been unable to secure anyone willing to assume the responsibility for the financial obligations of the paper. The result has been to compel myself to retain these duties much against my will, and I see no hope of any relief until after the next Convention, when my entire control of THE TOMAHAWK and the Fraternity itself must pass to other hands. I have made it clear that under no circumstances will I consent to retain my present position after September, 1917. To this end I am working in co-operation with the Grand Prudential Committee to have the Constitution so amended as to transfer to it the full responsibility of management of the offices I have created and direct. This will complete ten years active, enthusiastic, and progressive control during which time I have seen phenomenal growth of membership, chapters, and influence.

WHAT I HOPE TO SEE

I hope to see the clerical work of the fraternity, which has now become a business in itself, transferred to the control of the Grand Prudential Committee with power on the part of that organization to employ during its pleasure the necessary ministerial officer to keep the records and attend to the correspondence, reports, and other matters of the fraternity in an office supplied and furnished for him at its expense. This man will need from the start the services of a competent stenographer familiar with indexing, and the general clerical work of the fraternity. Such a man will cost from $1,500.00 to $1,800.00 per year, office rent from $600.00 to $900.00, stenographer from $780.00 to $900.00. Additional clerical help may be needed at odd times. This plan will give us a permanent headquarters with someone in charge at all times prepared to attend to all fraternity matters instant. I want this officer under the absolute control of the Prudential Committee with authority on its part to discharge him the instant he gets too big for the job or fails to do his duty. In this way only will we get the highest efficiency. The Chairman of the Grand Prudential Committee will be the chief executive officer over him and with stated meetings of the Committee all matters needing deliberation will receive proper attention.

TRAVELING SECRETARY

I hope that this iniquity will never be foisted upon A  $\Sigma$   $\Phi$  Fraternity. It is an institution that is in the last analysis useless and costly. The only man benefitted by it is the one fortunate enough to hold the position itself. He can neither stay long enough in his travels with different chapters to get at any real difficulty if any exists, nor has he the authority to deal with it if he found it. This position usually carries a salary of \$2,500.00 per year and an additional travel account of at least a thousand dollars more. If any real difficulties exist in any chapter let it be attended to by the alumni of that chapter and I vouch that it will not only be quickly but also well done. The old boys are the ones whose hearts are reached quickly and practically when the cubs get into any trouble that threatens their prosperity.

DISTRICTS OR PROVINCES

This is another iniquity that I hope we shall never see established in our fraternity. The instant this institution creeps in the fraternity adopting it becomes a number of fraternities within the greater one. District conventions are held and spend as much of the chapters' and members' money as combined would pay for a national convention. Province No. 1 seeks to hold the Presidency, No. 2, the Secretaryship, etc., and the result is honey-combed with politics. With the traveling secretary above named thrown into the equation the political ring becomes a permanent one. The combined evils of the two cost more every year than a national convention of the whole fraternity.

Let us by all means steer our course clear of these alluring but deceptive institutions. We are and have ever been a national fraternity in every sense of the word. Let us adhere to this plan in the future and let the national matters be decided in national conventions and leave our chapters to maintain the largest autonomy compatible with good government. The alumni of each will be sufficient safeguards for its welfare and continued efficiency. Chapter matters are local and concern mostly those who belong to them, but fraternity matters are the interest and business of all. There are no sections whose interests are greater or less than others and the district or province division is highly artificial.

THE FUTURE OF THE TOMAHAWK

Few of our members realize that this too is becoming a business in itself. After seven years persistent work as Publication Manager I am perhaps experienced enough to advise that the future maintenance and control of this magazine should be entrusted to a paid publisher who shall receive the entire income therefrom in return for his work as editor and publisher and the payment of all its bills.

It has been suggested that the work of soliciting subscriptions, advertising, printing, and distributing the magazine should be transferred to the new Prudential Committee and the ministerial officer it shall name. To do so will be to divide responsibility for editorial policy and financial obligation and will bring us back into the ruts from which we escaped at the San Francisco Convention.

To maintain its efficiency and have it keep pace with the ever fluxing present two things are essential,—first, a financial income that is sufficient to meet its requirements,—and second, an editor with sufficient ability, experience, and character to impress his personality upon the welfare of the aggregation and command the respect of his contemporaries in others. When these results are obtained they should be stable and rest upon sound foundations. There is but one way to secure these and that is to select the man who will devote sufficient of his time to make the magazine what it should become and assume all responsibility for its financial outlays in return for its entire income from all sources made sufficient to attract a man of the type we want. How shall we do this? Let us survey the ground and then devise a plan.

With no paid editors, publication managers, or employees of any kind the TOMAHAWK is just about able to pay its way at present. Its income of approximately $1,200.00 is entirely absorbed in printers' bills and postage. After 1917 I would advise its subscription price to be raised to $1.50 per annum, and the establishment of a life subscription for all active members of $25.00 each to be invested and the income turned over to the editor and publisher. From active members the income would be increased to approximately $1,350.00 by 1917, and gradually thereafter until we had attained our normal growth in chapters. The income from the alumni subscribers would be for a time largely the result of the editor's effort in canvassing the men already out, while the life subscriptions would gradually widen with the changing years and in time the TOMAHAWK would be not only well established in the fraternity but its income would be sufficient to insure its independence and stability. Better still every alumni in time would be a subscriber, not by the charity of the fraternity, but by virtue of his own investment.

As the life subscribers passed away the fund would be depleted by the transfer of the corpus of their investments to the Fraternity Scholarship Funds that in time would insure a scholarship in every institution where we are now and will later be represented. Thus our members would be perpetuating their interest in the Fraternity throughout their own lives and adding to the sum of human happiness after they were gone.

Alumni and active members, I should have preferred to have reached you in some other way than through the exoteric publication of your fraternity and not a few of you will doubtless criticise me for writing this article, but there is no other way in which I can reach so wide an audience that is directly concerned. I want the combined wisdom of the men widely scattered to back me in the efforts to make the constructive work of making this fraternity a power in the college world begun under my command to be widened and carried further afield by those who are to succeed to most if not all of my present functions. The spirit of our founders of 1845 is ever alive and moving forward in us. Let us pass it onward as a sacred trust in the same way in which it has come down to us.

INTER-FRATERNITY CONFERENCE DINNER

The First Annual Inter-Fraternity Banquet limited to 1,000 fraternity men will be held at the Hotel Astor, Saturday evening, December 2, 1916, at 7:00 o'clock. The committee in charge has allotted ten tickets only to  $\Lambda \Sigma \Phi$  and three of these have already been taken. Any member active or alumni, who desires to attend must apply for his ticket on or before October 1st, at which time all unsold tickets will be returned to the committee. Price, \$5.00.

This dinner will doubtless attract a greater aggregation of college men than any previous effort and will form a fitting close to the Inter-Fraternity Conference that convenes at 9:30 A. M. of the same day at the University Club, 54th Street and Fifth Avenue. Tickets will be allotted in the order of application and are now ready for distribution.

WAYNE MONTGOMERY MUSGRAVE.

GRAND PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE

CYRIL JOSEPH CURRAN

Chairman, Grand Prudential Committee

BROTHER CURRAN was born in Rochester, New York, on the third of December, 1890. He was graduated from Cathedral High School, in that city, in June, 1908, and in the Fall of that year, entered the University of Notre Dame, at South Bend, Indiana. While at that institution, he served during different years as secretary, vice-president and treasurer of his class. He was elected to the editorial board of the Notre Dame Scholastic in his Junior year, and served as such until his graduation. He was chosen by his class to be editor-in-chief of the 1912 Dome, the University year book. He was valedictorian of his class in 1912, when he was graduated.

He entered Columbia Law School in the Fall of 1912, and pledged himself to Lambda Chapter in January, 1913. He was elected H. S. in November of that year, and H. S. P. in March, 1914, in which capacity he served until the following November. He was elected to the editorial board of the Columbia Law Review during his second year at the University and became one of its revising editors in 1914. He was chosen by the chapter to be its delegate at the San Francisco Convention in 1915.

Brother Curran took his Bar examinations in June, 1915, and was admitted to practice in November, 1915, upon his return from the Pacific Coast. He is now practising law at 24 Broad Street, New York City, and is associated with the firm of Hornblower, Miller, Potter and Earle.

NATHAN EDWARD VAN STONE

Member, Grand Prudential Committee

BROTHER VAN STONE was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut, May twentieth, 1890. His preparatory work was begun in the Bridgeport High School, and completed in Worcester Academy, where he received his diploma in 1908. In the following Autumn, he entered the University of Michigan, where Theta Chapter was just beginning her interesting career. He was initiated early in his Sophomore year, and immediately began the career of service to Theta and to Alpha Sigma Phi, which has culminated in his present position.

In 1911 he went to Battle Creek, where he served for a year as an instructor in chemistry. He returned to Michigan in 1912, and was chosen Manager of Theta's new house. In addition to this considerable responsibility, he acted for the University as an Assistant in general chemistry. In 1913 he was elected treasurer of the chapter, and has served in that capacity ever since. In the same year he was appointed by the University authorities an Assistant in organic chemistry, which position was held by him until 1915, when he became the holder of a Fellowship. He received his Bachelor's degree in 1914, his Master's in 1915, and his Doctor's in June, 1916.

Brother Van Stone is a member of Phi Lambda Upsilon, the honorary chemical fraternity, and sits in the executive council of that organization. He is also a member of Gamma Alpha, the graduate scientific fraternity.

He has borne more than his share, perhaps, of the responsibilities of Theta Chapter. His perfect good nature and great administrative skill have made it easy to place great burdens upon him. Report has it that finances are never a matter to be brought up and worried about in the chapter's meetings,—so capably has "Van" performed his duties as treasurer. His proved worth and splendid enthusiasm has made him invaluable to the National Fraternity.

MALCOLM HAVENS BISSELL

Member, Grand Prudential Committee

BROTHER MALCOLM HAVENS BISSELL was born October eleventh, 1889, at Norwalk, Connecticut. He was prepared for college in French and German schools, and finally in Trinity School, in New York City, where he finished in 1906. In the same year, he entered the class of 1910 at Dartmouth College, but he left the following year, and began the study of electrical engineering at Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University. He received his Ph. B. degree in 1911, and after a short period went to Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, where he became connected with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. In 1912, he departed for Chicago, where he served as engineer for the Chicago Telephone Company for the better part of a year. In 1913, he returned to Pittsburg, and re-entered the engineering department of the Westinghouse Company, at the same time registering as a graduate student in the University of Pittsburg. He became an instructor at the University shortly afterwards, and remained such until the Fall of 1914, when he returned to Yale, a graduate student, and a candidate for the Ph. D. degree in geology. In June, 1915, he was married to Miss Ella Mary Taylor, of Pittsburg.

Brother Bissell has been a loyal supporter of Alpha Sigma Phi wherever he has been. Alpha Chapter counts him one of her most faithful members, and enthusiastic officers. He guided the chapter through a year of great prosperity in 1915, as H. S. P., and his advice and enthusiasm are now valued as among the finest influences the chapter has. He is bringing his skill for organization, his long experience with fraternity affairs, and his many splendid qualities into the councils of the Grand Chapter, and those who know him are sure that interests of our beloved fraternity were never entrusted to more worthy hands.

COLLEGIATE

In a disastrous fire at Purdue, both the armory and the Sigma Phi Epsilon house were destroyed.

The enrolment at the University of Oklahoma this year reached 2,000, making an increase of 250 per cent in the last four years.

The chemistry building at Cornell was destroyed by fire February 13th, with a loss of $300,000. The chemical laboratory at Williams was also burned last December.

Amherst has received a gift of $250,000 for a new library building. The donor's name is not announced.

History reveals that many well known universities are very ancient, while others are very recent.

The University of Salamanca, Spain, was founded in 1240.

Cambridge University was founded by the Bishop of Ely in 1257.

The oldest German university is that of Prague, Bohemia, in 1348.

The University of Cracow, Poland, was opened in 1364 and endowed in 1400.

University of Upsala, Sweden, was opened in 1477, that of Copenhagen, Denmark, two years later.

The University of San Marcos was founded at Lima, Peru, in 1551. It is the oldest in the new world.

The oldest Scottish institution is that of Edinburgh in 1582, while Trinity College, Dublin, was chartered nine years later by royal grant.

Harvard in 1636; William and Mary in 1693; Yale in 1702; the University of Pennsylvania in 1740; the College of New

The first town school in America was founded in Hartford before 1642: but the first common school established by law was in Massachusetts in 1645.

Ohio University, at Athens, Ohio, celebrated its hundredth year in June. It is the oldest west of the Alleghenies.

In England the leading universities are represented directly in parliament. In the United States, 380 members in both houses claim 173 different institutions as their alma maters. The University of Michigan leads with 27, Virginia has 20, Harvard 19, Yale 13, Wisconsin 10. Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Princeton 3 each, while Johns Hopkins and Stanford have none.

Speaking at University of Pennsylvania chapel exercises, Provost Edgar Fahs Smith indorsed the fraternity idea and advised members of the freshman class to join one of the college Greek letter societies. Doctor Smith's addresses preceded the annual "rushing" of freshmen for fraternities.

"I have been through the life you are now living," said Doctor Smith, "and I know what fraternity affiliation means to a man in later life. Join by all means! Fraternities are not places where bad habits are acquired; they are not centers of evil. They are democratic centers where students can satisfy their natural desire to intermingle. Some fraternities have been given bad names unjustly. If you meet a bad fraternity man, blame him, not his organization. You freshmen cannot imagine what a fraternity means to a man after he leaves college."

Σ Φ Ε has taken over Kappa Epsilon, a local at Ohio Wesleyan University. Eleven national fraternities are represented at Wesleyan.

Fraternities are facing serious opposition at Mercer University, Macon, Ga. A non-fraternity organization has taken steps to have the trustees abolish all secret societies.

Each chapter of Φ Γ Δ has a publication. The booklets are issued from one to four times a year.

The first Sunday in November is observed by Σ Ν as "Memorial Sunday." Wearing the fraternity flower, the rose, the members of each chapter attend church in a body.

Φ Γ Δ has decided to abandon its plan of calling for dollar dues from its alumni. The scheme has been found unpopular and impractical.

Among the fraternities that have adopted the alumnus adviser system are Κ Σ, Φ Κ Ψ, Φ Γ Δ, Δ Χ and Φ Δ Θ.

Κ Α Θ has placed a ban on the use of the word "sorority." Only the more dignified term, "fraternity," is allowed.

No member of Π Β Φ can hold a chapter office or act as delegate to a convention unless her school work is in good standing.

Α Χ Ω has revised its membership requirements by dropping all musical qualifications.

Δ Δ Δ has simplified its constitution and made it public.

Κ Σ has launched a campaign for 8,000 alumni subscriptions to its magazine.

Four sororities—Α Δ Π, Δ Δ Δ, Π Β Φ and Φ Μ make life subscriptions compulsory.

About seven years ago fraternities were prohibited at Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C. Through the efforts of Judge P. B. Hamer, Κ Α (South), the rule has been repealed.

At the last annual convention of Δ Χ the annual dues were raised from $5 to $10 in order to provide for a traveling secretary and a sinking fund.

Α Ρ Χ, the only national architectural fraternity, was founded in 1914 by the union of local societies at Michigan and Illinois. The first convention was held Christmas week, 1915, at Champaign.

$\Delta \Sigma \Phi$ , founded as a non-sectarian fraternity, is ridding itself of chapters in which Jews predominate and is gradually taking on a more comprehensive scope. Last year five new chapters were instituted, giving a total chapter roll of twelve.

The University of Virginia offers free sites to fraternities that will build on the campus.

In New York state fraternities ten years old or over can cause the arrest of non-members caught wearing fraternity pins—providing the culprits are members of the sterner sex.

The following extract from the Delta Eta chapter letter to the Delta of  $\Sigma N$  probably was not intended that way: "Since Nebraska is still 'wet' we enforce rules regarding liquor." A strict construction placed on this statement might indicate that when Nebraska goes dry the  $\Sigma N$  house will become a rendezvous for bootleggers.

President Guy Potter Benton, of the University of Vermont, past Grand President of Phi Delta Theta has been elected National President of Tau Kappa Alpha the national oratorical and debating fraternity.

In the May Key of Kappa Kappa Gamma the Chapter Letters were in rhyme confined to eight lines for each. The experiment is interesting, but shades of Shakespeare, what poetry.

"Some of the sisters are again agitating the question of whether a sorority is a sorority or a fraternity. Far be it from us to mix in where angels are doing the treading, but perhaps we may mildly suggest that a sorority is a sorority, because—as Eve said to Adam—that's what it is. Now understand us, girls, we have not the slightest objection to your calling it a fraternity. Help yourselves. You can have anything we have if you want it. You have our poor permission to call your beautiful frocks 'trousers' if you please. But, honest, what's the use?"

A T  $\Omega$  Palm.

The June Crescent of Gamma Phi Beta contains the picture of 10 members who made  $\Phi B K$  in 1915-16, and 14 pages of honor grades made by its members. All honor to  $\Gamma \Phi$ 's.

Delta Tau Delta held a smoker in Washington, May 12th, in honor of two of its distinguished alumni, Hon. Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives and Hon. James R. Mann, Republican leader. Truly a remarkable combination.

An interfraternity council has been formed at Syracuse. One of its first acts was to abolish all underclass societies, including T N E.

In accordance with faculty ruling, the sororities at Northwestern do not have houses.

There are three sororities at the University of Pittsburgh—Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Delta Delta, and Zeta Tau Alpha. All have entered within a year.

Beta Theta Pi placed a chapter in Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., in March. The student body numbers about 250. Phi Delta Theta also maintains a chapter there.

The last issue of the Theta Delta Chi Shield gives the names of 59 members who are in military service in the European war, as well as four who have fallen in battle. The fraternity has chapters at McGill and Toronto universities.

Delta Kappa Epsilon has secured the former Yale Club on West 44th Street, New York, for its Metropolitan headquarters.

QUO VADIS QUILS AT MISSOURI

All fraternity men will rejoice at the news that the mother chapter of Quo Vadis at Missouri has disbanded. Nothing did more to discredit college fraternity men in the Missouri Valley than the activities of Quo Vadis, the general public failing to distinguish between the real thing and the pewter imitation.

The Missouri chapter, or Jack London Jungle, was founded on the principle "a thousand miles without a red"—that is, each member must beat his way 1,000 miles without money. The motto was "Please, Mum," and the flower the dog fennel. The honorary members included Jack London, Homer Croy, J. Eads Howe and other well-known tramps.—The Phi Gamma Delta.

At Bowdoin College, 340 of the 400 students are fraternity members. A local there is now petitioning Sigma Nu.

A THOUGHT FOR OUR SENIORS

What lasts? That which is genuine. This is the reason why a man's fraternity and the little badge that is the visible pledge of his allegiance mean so much to him through life. The world may bring its laurel crowns, the tentacles of ultimate defeat may drag him down; but either in enjoyment or in reminiscence the cup of brotherhood is his to quaff.

The very latest in fraternities, Φ M Σ, is explained by Banta's Greek Exchange:

The fraternity has three aims: 1. To attract the young man to Sunday school class, hold him there, and eventually lead him into church membership. 2. To build up the young man in every way that God intended; physically, mentally and spiritually. 3. To form a closer union between the young men in the various Sunday schools. The fraternity is interdenominational. Any Sunday school is entitled to a chapter. The minimum age limit is sixteen years, but there is no maximum limit. Many pastors and superintendents come in as charter members, others as sustaining members (the honorary degree).

What a refreshing antithesis to the monotonous wrangle over the fraternities' right to exist, to know that Northwestern university is building houses at a cost of from $20,000 to $30,000 each for the fraternity, or other student groups. They are building six quadrangles with seven houses each and the terms as given by The Scroll are these:

1. No charge is made for the ground.
2. The cost of the house may be paid in sums to suit each fraternity, so that the payment each year is not less than one ninety-ninth.
3. The houses being on university property, there will be no taxes.
4. The university agrees to furnish heat and light at cost from the university heating and lighting plants.

A fifth advantage is that the university, being a partner in the houses, may better exert a restraining influence on any possible excesses among the students who occupy the houses, and might be better disposed to champion the fraternities in case of opposition, legislative or otherwise.

The conditions existing at Illinois between fraternity and nonfraternity men are conspicuous for the lack of all ill-feeling. The spirit of democracy, for which the university is noted, is exemplified fully in the friendly relations which exist between the fraternity man and the so-called "barb." The student body is for Illinois first. Because a man is not wearing a badge or a pledge pin does not signify that he is to be shunned. On the contrary, some of the biggest and best-liked men here are not fraternity men. The two honorary societies of the junior and senior classes, Sachem and Mawanda, respectively, are composed of about one-fourth nonfraternity men. It has often been said by men outside that the conditions existing at Illinois between the fraternity men and nonfraternity men are ideal and tend only toward democracy.—K Σ Caduceus.

At the beginning of this year Δ K E moved into its new house, erected at a cost of about $16,000. Three of the fraternities now own their own homes in Fraternity Row—Φ Δ Θ, Σ X and Δ K E.—Miami University correspondence, Beta Theta Pi.

“You stronger, older men, be fostering but firm. Not what a chapter takes in, but what it turns out, is its measure of success. The fraternity must take such a grip on the life of each member as to bring him to graduation a bigger, broader, more tolerant, more humane, more humble and more likable man than he entered.”—Edgar R. Brown, Middlebury, '93, Delta Upsilon Quarterly, June, 1916.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT

The other day we were talking with a national officer of another fraternity and in referring to a certain fraternity he said that he did not know much about its chapters or its national standing but that he had always had a high opinion of it on account of the type and character of five or six of its alumni whom he knew.

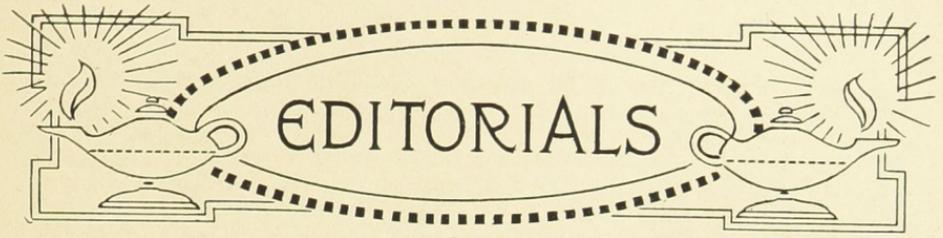

Fundamentally this is what really gives a fraternity its rank—much more than do handsome houses or number of chapters. A fraternity is made by, and of, its members. But it is not enough for a fraternity to turn out each year a few brilliant men—and a lot more of second or third class. The general high average of its personnel is the factor in the estimation of the world—just as it is the secret of a harmonious, healthy, progressive chapter.—The Rainbow of Δ T Δ, June, 1916.

There always seems to be something stirring at the University of Missouri. Without a doubt, the Missouri students love excitement, for the minute anyone starts something of an argumentative nature in the "open column" of the Daily Missourian, the ready writers respond for days with their pros and cons. Last fall much excitement brewed over the escapades of the disreputable Quo Vadis society, which finally pulled up stakes and disbanded, to the great relief of all good fraternity men, after the news had been published all over the United States on two separate occasions that students had had their feet cut off under freight trains while bumming their way "a thousand miles without a red" in order to qualify for membership in this "fraternity."

No sooner had the atmosphere cleared of this Quo Vadis excitement, than a scurrilous publication, called The Research, put in an appearance and started another hub-bub. The first issue of The Research, published anonymously, ripped into the athletic affairs of the university, charged unfair methods, and attacked the personnel of the athletes. The second Research, signed by W. C. Martin, as editor, proceeded to tear the college fraternities to pieces, charging, among other things, immoral conduct on the part of individual fraternity men and organized immorality in several fraternities. Martin was a senior in the Arts department, a Phi Beta Kappa student, and for two years in succession winner of the $100 Field poetry prize, who came to regard himself as a mentor of affairs in the university and attempted to propagate his reforms by means of a defamatory pen.

Martin's attack on fraternities started a live discussion in the aforementioned "open column" of the college paper. Several students and alumni applauded him and said the whole matter should be investigated and the fraternities ousted. Others, of course, rose to the defense of the fraternities. A movement was begun to try Martin before the Student Senate on a charge of "reckless and inexcusable publication of defamatory charges against fellow students." A majority of the senior law class passed resolutions protesting that the Student Senate was influenced by the fraternities and that Martin should be tried before an "impartial body of students." While Martin's trial was being agitated, he suddenly appeared in the local hospital with a circumstantial story of how he had been attacked in the street by four men, injured internally in a struggle, bound and gagged, his face painted with iodine and his hair slashed, and hauled in an automobile into the country, where, unconscious, he was dumped into the snow. This incident raised a big to-do. The Pan-Hellenic Association passed a resolution disclaiming all knowledge and responsibility for the attack, denouncing it and offering $50 reward for the proof of who had a hand in it.

In due time came the denouement. Martin refused to appear before the Student Senate, saying he would produce his evidence at the proper time and before the proper parties. The Student Senate found him guilty and asked that he be required to make a public apology in the college paper and discontinue The Research, or be expelled from the university. The matter was taken up by the President of the University and Committee of Deans, who examined Martin's "evidence" and found it nothing but unsupported hearsay. He was adjudged guilty of "reckless and inexcusable publication of defamatory charges against fellow students," and thereupon expelled from the university. An investigation was then made of the Martin kidnapping escapade and interviews with the farmer, doctor, hospital attendant, policeman and others with whom he came into contact at the time of the alleged attack revealed that his story of the attack was a tissue of exaggerations and falsehoods and that he was in the hospital upon his own request. Thus endeth another of Missouri's agitations.

The men to whom this issue of the TOMAHAWK is dedicated have signally honored themselves and reflected credit upon the fraternity thereby. We rejoice to see no face missing from the chapter roll but in several instances we feel that someone has been negligent in failing to report all that the chapter is entitled to claim.

HONORS

A glance at the list will demonstrate that honors are pretty well distributed over the whole field of college life and activity. In scholarship many men have distinguished themselves signally but these were not entirely alone the criteria that applied in deciding whether or not a man's name went on the honor roll. We yield the chaplet of victory to the winners in many efforts of varying character that these may form the exemplar and precept to underclassmen needing inspiration. Last fall we said, "Work while you work and play while you play." Evidently many of our brethren adopted this as their slogan of effort and the results are indeed gratifying.

* * * *

Many whose names are not upon the honor roll for 1916 nevertheless are going into the world to take their places with men. What have they to offer as a justification for their years spent in the cloister of the classroom and the activities of the campus? Indeed this must equally apply to those more fortunate who have already won honors as well. Useless indeed, my brother, if your personality has been lost and you go out into the busy haunts of life a colorless organism devoid of spirituality. Life is at best but an opportunity to practically apply in home, in mart, in forum, that which is best in you in the task of making the world better because you are a part of it. Tenets of faith are useless if your religious life ends there. Deeds become crystallized thoughts only when guided by the best impulses of ethics, morals, and spiritual concepts. If you have given the best within you to your alma mater, your fellows, and your associates you have made an excellent start and the value of your example will not be lost. If you have given less than this the eclat of intellectual, social, political, or institutional accomplishment or marks of approbation are sadly dimmed. You have had an opportunity but you have not risen to it. Do not forget this rule of conduct:

“Life is a mirror for king and slave,
It is just what you say and do,
Then give to the world the best that you have,
And the best will come back to you.”

We acknowledge receipt of Chapter Annuals from Delta, Epsilon, and Nu Chapters. It is to be regretted that only Delta

 Chapter printed hers on paper of the proper size to bind in with the TOMAHAWK. All of these publications are of especial interest to their alumni but all give general information concerning the fraternity as well. We sincerely hope that in the not far distant future every chapter of this fraternity will publish an annual and distribute it among their alumni and sister chapters.

Elsewhere we call attention to the opportunity to attend the big Inter-fraternity Conference Dinner to be held at the Hotel Astor, New York City, at the close of the annual Inter-fraternity Conference on December 2, 1916. The seating capacity is strictly limited to 1,000 and representative college and fraternity men of the highest standing will furnish the gymnastics for the occasion. Seven tickets at $5.00 each await the first applicants for the privilege of attending the dinner. It will be a national event worthy of our best traditions. Subscriptions close October 1st.

On Page 224 of the Delta Upsilon Quarterly for June, 1916, appears a statistical table purporting to give accurate information regarding a number of fraternities. The date of the founding of A  $\Sigma$   $\Phi$  Fraternity is given as 1907 instead of 1845, the membership at 1,347 instead of 2,358, active chapters 16 instead of 17, inactive 0. The only portion correct is the last. We do not question the good faith and desire to give accurate information ascribed in that article to Brother O. H. Cheney, Secretary of the Inter-fraternity Conference, and of Brother Walter P. McGuire, Editor, to publish the truth, but we commend to their careful perusal the article appearing in our February, 1916, TOMAHAWK on Pages 146-7-8 for a review of their sources of information. It may save them the humiliation of making similar mistakes in the future. We hope their information regarding our fellow Greeks is not so distorted as their publication regarding our fraternity.

With the December issue Brother Henry Edgerton Chapin, to whom we have introduced you in the earlier pages of this issue, assumes editorial control of the TOMAHAWK. While Brother Chapin owes his selection and appointment to ourselves in our capacity as the chief executive officer of the Fraternity, we have made it plain to him that he is in no way to consider himself dominated or to be influenced thereby. He has equally made it plain to us that under no other circumstances would he accept the position of chief Editor. Yet we expect to work in perfect harmony together, for Dr. Chapin is a man of such sterling qualities and wide experience as spells success far in advance of his concrete efforts. Moreover, he is thoroughly in accord with the policy of expansion and transition of ministerial authority in the Fraternity advocated by us for the future control of the institution, that we look for an added and very effective ally. The TOMAHAWK has four more issues under his able leadership before the Chicago Convention in September, 1917. We expect him to make his work epochal in our history and development.

With this issue our swan song is published. We owe grateful acknowledgments to that corps of faithful chapter correspondents for their co-operation and assistance. Not a chapter letter was missing throughout the year, while Rho Chapter has an extra in this issue, a striking contrast to previous efforts where even less chapters were involved. To Fred Lawrence Babcock, our Exchange Editor, we pay our tribute for work well planned and splendidly executed. Xi Chapter may well be proud of him. Charles Adelbert Trafford, Jr., has rendered yeoman service in the field of his activities. Harvard can well be congratulated on having such men on her roster, and Beta Chapter is justly honored as well. Henri Casimir Jacques in charge of the Alumni News is worthy of the continued respect of his chapter, and Lambda is always proud of "Heinie." But equally we render homage to one who has had no official connection with the year that is closing, Cleaveland Jocelyn Rice of Alpha Chapter. If every alumni secretary of this Fraternity would duplicate the work and kind co-operation of Brother Rice the efforts of our successor, Brother Henry Edgerton Chapin, would be minimized. To the contributing editors we also render our heartfelt thanks. Some of their papers have not yet appeared, but time will furnish the opportunity to publish them. But Homer Baxter Sprague's article is a monument to a life of useful effort and a real contribution to American literature.

We have fulfilled our pledge to the Convention relative to the prompt appearance of the publication. This issue will reach you before you are hardly used to writing "August" in beginning your letters, and we believe the attractive features of the magazine have been in every way preserved. We have agitated the establishment of a Life Subscription Plan that will make the income adequate to really furnish the magazine to such subscribers from their own investments and not from the charity of the Fraternity treasury. We hope this will in time become compulsory to all actives and optional to such present alumni as wish to enroll. THE TOMAHAWK is like a ship, launched but not anchored. May its future voyage prove to be in a steady wind and flowing sea. Ye editor bids you adieu with no regrets at the parting. He needs the long earned rest, the fraternity realizes its desires, and all are happy.

MYSTIC CIRCLE

CHAPTER LETTER

Rho Chapter is about to bid farewell to its infant home, the scene of many commmorable events in its history, including its installation into the Mystic Circle of Alpha Sigma Phi. By the time the August number of THE TOMAHAWK leaves the press we will be fully established in our new location at 1103 Fourth Street Southeast, the late home of Sigma Chi, who have erected a house of their own. We will have as next-door neighbors Alpha Omicron Pi and Kappa Sigma, while across the street Kappa Kappa Gamma have recently completed a fine new chapter house.

Our new home is a vast improvement over our former abode, having an imposing and stately appearance and being favorably situated in the midst of "Greek Letter Row". The house has been completely remodelled and will be fully equipped from stem to stern by the first of September. It is on the whole a fine acquisition and we shall be more than glad to welcome any of our brother "Sigs" who may have occasion to pay us a visit.

Our spring informal, held at Ye Fireside Inne, proved a most delightful affair. We are quoting the foremost authorities when we say that a "swell time was had by all". Brothers R. H. Kenyon (Lambda) and C. H. Beglinger (Kappa) numbered among the patrons and helped to insure the party's complete success.

On April 19th we welcomed into the fold three excellent men: John Francis Murphy of Minneapolis, Conrad Gilbert Johnson of Duluth, and Clifford William Pickle of Madison, Minn.

The May election resulted in the selection of the following officers: William Wallace Butler, H. S. P.; Victor Alonzo Dash, H. J. P.; George Montgomery Hicks, H. S.; Ivan Crawford Lawrence, H. C. S.; Fredo Albin Ossanna, H. E.; Joseph Dennis Sullivan, H. M.; and Conrad Gilbert Johnson, H. C.

Brother Sydney Allen Patchin had fulfilled with credit and distinction the office of H. S. P. up to this time and to him we are greatly indebted for our present strong organization.

The Interfraternity Baseball Tourney found us in a rather delicate position. We entered the race at the last minute with no previous experience or practice together, but we emerged from the fray with light hearts and clear consciences for we had plugged hard and shown them we meant business. Our last game with the Alpha Delts resulted in a 13-2 victory over our opponents, Brother Sullivan at the mound and Brother Harper behind the bat, working together in masterful style. "Home Run" Carlson leaned into a couple for two scorchers at critical moments when the bases were full. Our previous games had been closely contested but luck broke against us. We hope to clean things up next season.

At the close of school this spring Brothers Ossanna and Jaroscak were chosen to represent the University on one of the two Extension Debating Teams, and came back from their tour heavily laden with laurels, having won all of the six debates. Both these men have distinguished themselves in the field of Oratory this year, having been members of the winning Sophomore team in the Annual Freshman-Sophomore Debate for the $100 Peavy prize. They also won places on the Intercollegiate Debate Squad and the intersociety debating teams, Ossanna on the Forum and Jaroscak on the Shakopean Squad. Brother Ossanna won second prize in the Annual Freshman-Sophomore Oratorical, and Brother Jaroscak placed third in the Forensic League Oratorical Contest. We are looking for big things from these men next year.

We are represented in the field of journalism by Brother Overmire, who has been chosen Editor-in-Chief of the 1918 Gopher, the annual Junior publication. Brother Johnson is the world's greatest living authority on correct haberdashery for all occasions, his wardrobe constituting the main feature of interest on the second floor of the chapter house. We are indebted to him for the immaculate appearance of several of our brethren. Brother Butler created a sensation in the role of "Dromio", in the Shakespearean production, "The Comedy of Errors", while Brother Lawrence has been stepping into the limelight of the vaudevillian stage as the "Norsk Nightingale".

In athletics Brother Sullivan has shown his worth as captain of the "Sig" baseball team besides having played a leading rôle on both the Law Championship Football and Basketball teams. "Home Run" Carlson, of "Sig" baseball fame, served in the capacity of Captain of the Engineering Football team in addition to playing on the Engineering Baseball team. Brother Dash was prominent in both Agricultural Football and Baseball. Brother Gaumnitz was rewarded for his strenuous efforts and remarkable work in the tank, by being elected Captain of the 'Varsity Swimming team.

Brother Denzil R. Young, one of our alumni of Alpha Theta Psi, who loomed up as a most formidable offensive player on the winning Law Football team last fall, has been practising law in Montana since his graduation in January. When the call to arms came in June, Brother Young, who is a Sergeant in Battery "D", Minnesota National Guard, forsook the "toga" to don the olive drab and now is doing guard duty somewhere along the border. During his brief sojourn at Fort Snelling, previous to his departure for the border, we assembled all our available men and put Brother Young through such a rousing initiation that we fear his duties to Uncle Sam had to take a back seat during the period of convalescence. Brother Pickle is also one of our number to be called to the colors in protecting the Mexican border.

The annual encampment of the University of Minnesota Cadet Corps, June 1-8, found nine of our number on duty at Fort Snelling. At the close of camp the promotions were announced and Alpha Sigma Phi was well represented on the favored list. Brother Dash was elevated to the rank of Cadet Major, Brother Pickle to Cadet Captain, Brothers Overmire, Lawrence, Johnson and Pledge Friar were made First Lieutenants. Brother Dash was a member of this year's Intercollegiate Outdoor Rifle Team, Brother Lawrence of the Indoor Intercollegiate Rifle Team, both of whom have won the title of "Expert Rifleman" through their superior marksmanship. Brothers Carlson and Dash are members of Scabbard and Blade, Honorary Military Fraternity, while Brothers Lawrence and Overmire have won places on the University Crack Squad.

One of the biggest events on the campus this year, the Quadrennial Mock National Convention, found "Sigs" holding down the big jobs. Brother Butler, who has been prominent in nearly all phases of campus activity, was elected chairman of the General Arrangements Committee and represented the Democratic Party on that committee. Brother Jaroscak was chosen to represent the Republicans while Brother Ossanna upheld the interest of the Forensic League. There were but five men in all on the committee representing the political interests of the entire University.

Brother Butler's famous speech nominating Woodrow Wilson is sure to go down in the annals of history as a masterpiece. After three ballots and a most stormy and riotous session, President Wilson carried the convention, a two-thirds majority having been required. Brother Sullivan's efforts on the Democratic Platform Committee did much toward producing a platform which stands out as a political work of art and a credit to the Party.

We feel that our efforts this year have been well rewarded and have produced a group of congenial men whose outstanding quality has been that of pulling together. In our new house we intend to make a flying start next year and all but one of our number will be back in ranks. We have been favored by visits from several of our brothers of other chapters: Brothers Smith of Epsilon, Merrill of Kappa, and Feezer of Beta. Do not fail to call on us Brother "Sigs"; you will be most warmly and cordially welcome.

IVAN CRAWFORD LAWRENCE.

Last year, while in California, some sneak thief stole one of the handbags from Brother Cleaveland Jocelyn Rice, (A '10) while he was stopping in Los Angeles. As soon as they heard it Brother Wallace of Delta and Van Stone of Theta (both of whom had helped him to handle his luggage during the numerous changes from Chicago to San Francisco) assured him that no self-respecting thief would long deprive him of it because he would spend more for porters than it was worth if it contained pure gold. Their prophecy has come true. The bag itself was returned the other day with most of its contents removed, but the thief has been unkind enough to donate to Cleve 23 varicolored neckties, a gold wedding ring, a "phoney" engagement ring, a hair brush, and a camera. Once again truth is vindicated. It is stranger than fiction.

Whitney Elmer Stoneburner, (E '13) is Principal of the High School at West Jefferson, Ohio.

We cannot reproduce the whole, but it contains the names of one governor, seven congressmen, two candidates for congressional nomination, one for the United States Senate, one of Zane Grey, the American novelist, six judges, three professors, one Federal Reserve Bank Director, many prominent lawyers, one member of the Ohio Legislature, several famous physicians and editors of medical papers. It is a notable number and contains inspiration for its members from a very large number of notables.

DEATHS

JOHN J. GRIFFITH, Yale '62

JOHN J. GRIFFITH, Yale '62, Alpha '60, was born in Brooklyn, New York, February 18, 1842, a son of Walter S. Griffith, founder of the N. Y. Home Life Insurance Co. Prepared at Phillips Andover for college and at 16 entered Yale with the Class of '62. In 1861 he enlisted in the Union Army and after the close of the Rebellion returned to New York where he remained a few months and then removed to Chicago where he continued to make his home until 1903, when he removed to Detroit, Michigan, where he died on November 19, 1915, from Bright's disease and heart troubles.

He is survived by his widow and a host of friends. Through the kindness of Mrs. Griffith we are able to reproduce a photograph of Brother Griffith taken some years ago. At her request the original is to be deposited in the archives of Alpha Chapter as a memento of his love for Yale and as a tribute to his beloved fraternity.

GEORGE WASHBURN SMALLEY (A '51)

GEORGE WASHBURN SMALLEY (A '51) was for more than a third of a century the London correspondent of The Tribune, and his letters, over the familiar signature "G. W. S.," attracted widespread attention. Of these letters Edmund Clarence Stedman once wrote: "Their writer enjoys a peculiar distinction among American journalists. Certainly no other has sustained a higher literary standard, or in his department a public and professional reputation of equal note. His brother writers at one time or another may see cause to dissent from his outspoken comments and opinions, but they all read his letters with the interest felt by the public at large, and with recognition of their ability, sincerity and abundant resources of information, and they take a certain pride in the position so long maintained abroad with force and dignity by an American of their own craft."

Mr. Smalley was born in Franklin County, Mass., of good Old Colony stock, on June 2, 1833. He was educated at Yale, entering that institution in 1849 and graduated in 1853 in a class composed of many men who afterward made their mark in the world. It was said of him that in the classroom his gifts and thorough equipment soon became apparent, and though he was somewhat indifferent to honors, it was evident that such as he cared for were within his reach.

IN FAMOUS YALE CLASS

He was a born classicist, and also he was noted for his athletic prowess, which in those days was an uncommon thing. As stroke of the Yale four he rowed against Harvard in the first race on Lake Winnepesaukee. In his university course Mr. Smalley stood at the front with such men as Andrew D. White, Charlton T. Lewis, James M. Whiton, Randall Lee Gibson, Wayne MacVeagh and others who distinguished themselves.

Leaving Yale, Mr. Smalley read law at Worcester, Mass., in the office of George F. Hoar, afterward for many years United States Senator from Massachusetts: He took a course at the Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1856. He practised in Boston until just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

CIVIL WAR CORRESPONDENT

He wrote a series of letters for The Tribune on the life of the negro south of Mason and Dixon's line, and was still in the South when the war started. He asked to be sent to the front, and served as war correspondent from November, 1861, until October, 1862, when he became a member of the editorial staff of his paper, remaining in that capacity until 1867. Mr. Smalley's description of the battle of Antietam, published in advance of other newspapers, was perhaps not equalled by any effort of the kind during the entire war.

Mr. Smalley had become warmly affiliated with Wendell Phillips, and in 1862 married Miss Phoebe Garnaut, who was the niece and adopted daughter of Phillips. He went to Europe in 1866 and wrote his impressions of the Austro-Prussian War. A year later The Tribune sent him to London as foreign correspondent, and Mr. Smalley's advent was speedily followed by a radical change in the news collecting methods of both the American and English press.

When hostilities started between France and Germany, he attached himself to the German army headquarters and gained the respect and confidence of Bismarck and his general staff. The historian Kinglake wrote that the success of Mr. Smalley in establishing at this time a London-New York alliance for war news was "an era in journalism of Europe."

As a newspaper writer it was his lot to chronicle and comment upon and often to predict the political changes of Europe. It was his duty and privilege to describe the notable pageants, to characterize the art, the drama and the literature of the Old World for the benefit of the New, and in all these fields his sources of information were first hand. He was ever on the closest terms with persons of note, and he kept in touch with those closely informed and possessed of the essential facts.

BRITISH SOCIAL FIGURE

Mr. Smalley lived for many years in the select region of Hyde Park Square and his home was an ideal type. There many of the foremost men and women of Great Britain and of his own country were received and enjoyed hospitalities in which he was assisted by his gifted wife. In turn the Smalleys were welcome guests at many of the best houses in England. Such intimate relations with men of big affairs afforded Mr. Smalley unusual opportunities. He held the confidence of the successive ministers and ambassadors from this country to the Court of St. James's. He never overstepped the bounds of propriety in the transmission of news or lessened the dignity of either his social or newspaper status.

For many years Mr. Smalley enjoyed the strict confidence of Mr. Gladstone, and he participated in several of the Midlothian campaigns. In some of his letters his studies of the "grand old man" were extremely illuminating.

CRITIC OF THE ARTS

His taste and authority in art, music and the drama and in the making of fine books was of value to connoisseurs.

In 1868 he compiled the speeches of John Bright; in 1890, "London Letters." The two volumes comprise a series of forty critical sketches of men with whom he came into close personal contact. Some of the names in the list are Bismarck, Bright, Beaconsfield, Darwin, Carlyle, Mill, Browning, Arnold and others. Of that work, Edmund Clarence Stedman wrote: "These personalities are followed by unique notes on the social life of England and notes on Parliament, by descriptions of pageants and by miscellanies on political, social and literary themes. The work furnishes a conspectus of the chief people and events of modern times, and is notable for its force and purity of English style."

As evidence of the place that Mr. Smalley made for himself in journalism it may be noticed that the Library of American Literature contains more of Mr. Smalley's writings than those of any other journalist of his generation.

In 1895 Mr. Smalley published "Studies of Men," and in 1909 the "Life of Sir Sidney Waterlow, Bart." The first series of Anglo-American Memories appeared in 1911 and the second series in 1912. The letters were published first in The Tribune.

Mr. Smalley came to America in 1895, and until 1906 acted as the American correspondent of The London Times. When he retired from active journalism he returned to England to live, and had a house at 44 Park Lane.

THOMAS JEFFERSON HUGUS

THOMAS JEFFERSON HUGUS, the son of Jacob and Priscilla Hugus, was born October 12, 1845, at Little Mills, Tyler County, W. Va. He entered Marietta College in 1867, and was initiated into Alpha Sigma Phi in his freshman year. He graduated in 1871 with honor rank. He studied law in the office of Daniel Peck of Wheeling, and was admitted to the Bar in 1872. On April 10, 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Annie V. Wright, the daughter of John and Eleanor Wright. Seven children were born of this marriage—four sons and three daughters. He was a judge of the criminal court in Wheeling for twelve years. He was a faithful member of the Methodist Church. Loyalty was a characteristic of the man.

The Bar Association of Wheeling met after his death and passed resolutions from which the following is taken: "Judge Hugus' life was filled with useful activity. As a lawyer he was able, energetic and conscientious. Possessed of more than ordinary attainments, he rendered to his clients such service as only the well-equipped lawyer can give. As a judge he was an ornament of the Bench and an exemplar to the members of the Bar. Kind and courteous in his demeanor toward all with whom he came in contact, it was a pleasure to practice in his court. Filled, as he was, with sympathy for the sufferings of the unfortunate, his judgments were tempered with mercy. Possessed of a probity that was part of his very nature, he discharged his duties without fear or favor. As a citizen, Judge Hugus commanded the respect of the whole community in which he lived. Interested in the public welfare, he gave much of his time and aid to the service of the public and for the moral and material betterment of the community. He was a devoted husband, a loving father and a kind friend.

"In the death of Judge Hugus this Bar has lost one of its most useful members, and Ohio County one of its most distinguished and loyal citizens."

JOHN CAMPBELL BROWN, '65

entered Yale in 1861 from the Western University of Pennsylvania (now the University of Pittsburgh), and became a member of Linonia and the Glyuna Boat Club, and served on the Wooden Spoon Committee. His societies were Delta Kappa, Alpha Sigma Phi, Psi Upsilon, and Scroll and Key. Returning to Pittsburgh after graduation, he took up the real estate business, soon becoming a member of the firm of John C. Brown & Company. Since 1882 he had been connected with the Sheriff's Office at Allegheny County. He was unmarried. FREDERICK JONES BARNARD, '63

FREDERICK JONES BARNARD, '63, died, after a prolonged illness resulting from a series of apoplectic shocks, in Worcester, Mass., on October 11. He was born in Worcester, August 24, 1841, the son of Ebenezer Lovell and Caroline (Sweetser) Barnard, and received his preparation for Yale in the schools of his native town. His scholarship appointments at Yale were a Dissertation in Junior year and a Dispute the following year. He spoke at Junior Exhibition and at Commencement, and was a member of Kappa Sigma Epsilon, Alpha Sigma Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Phi Beta Kappa. After spending some time in Worcester studying law in the office of Mr. Peter C. Bacon and several months in the field as a member of Company F, Sixtieth Massachusetts Infantry, Barnard entered the Harvard Law School, where he was graduated with the degree of LL.B. in 1866. From that time until the failure of his health he practiced law in Worcester, for several years being connected with the firm of Bacon & Aldrich. For a number of years he served as register in bankruptcy, resuming his private practice upon the abolishment of that office. He was married on May 13, 1875, to Anna Colburn, daughter of Rev. Burritt Augustus Smith, a graduate of the College in 1843, and Mary G. (Colburn) Smith and half-sister of Herbert A. Smith, '89. Four children were born to them: Ruth Colburn (Mrs. Alexander Bowler); Frederick Jones, who died in infancy; Anna Dawes, and Frederick Merriman, a graduate of Harvard with the degree of B.A. in 1910. Mrs. Barnard died about six years ago. Barnard was buried in Rural Cemetery, Worcester.

JOHN CHARLES MALONY, '10 M

DR. JOHN CHARLES MALONY, '10 M., died suddenly, from heart failure, at his home in Dundee, N. Y., on August 1. He was born in 1886 in Lakemont, N. Y., the son of Dr. John Montgomery Malony and Josephine (Huson) Malony. His father, who received the degree of M.D. from Georgetown University in 1870, has been for many years engaged in practice as a physician and surgeon in Dundee, where he has served as health officer and coroner. Upon his graduation from the Dundee High School, Malony entered the Yale School of Medicine in 1905, but was compelled to withdraw in his first year on account of illness. He returned in 1906, and completed his work with the Class of 1910 M. He was a member of Alpha Sigma Phi and Alpha Kappa Kappa, and served as an associate editor of the year book issued by his Class in its Senior year. After serving an internship of two years at the Hospital of St. Raphael in New Haven immediately after his graduation, he returned to Dundee, where he had since practiced. He belonged to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. On December 25, 1912, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Beam of Dundee, who survives him with their infant daughter, Helen. Besides his parents and three sisters, he leaves three brothers: William Redfield Proctor Malony (B.A. 1900, LL.B. Georgetown, M.L. Georgetown 1904); Frederick Fletcher Malony, '01 M., and Harry James Malony, a non-graduate member of the College Class of 1911, who graduated from West Point in 1912.

Editor's Note.—It seems but yesterday since we bade John Malony farewell at dear old Yale. Few of his fraternity brethren knew him better than ourselves. In every movement where the betterment of his fellows was concerned the generous impulses of his soul were always touched. We drop a tear upon his grave,—an evergreen upon his memory,—and a perpetual regret that he was not spared to live his useful life to the allotted three score years and ten.

FRANCIS DELAFIELD, '60

DR. FRANCIS DELAFIELD, '60, died in Noroton, Conn., on July 17. He had been in poor health for some time, and a week before his death was stricken with apoplexy. The son of Dr. Edward Delafield, by his second marriage, to Julia, daughter of Colonel Nicoll Floyd, he was born on August 3, 1841, in New York City. His father, a graduate of the College in 1812, took his medical degree at Columbia in 1816, and practiced his profession in New York City for many years. He was one of the founders of the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, and from 1858 until his death in 1875 served as president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. The son received his preparatory training in private schools in New York City, and at Yale was successively a member of Alpha Sigma Phi, Psi Upsilon, Scroll and Key, and Phi Beta Kappa, and received a Dissertation appointment in Junior year and an Oration in Senior year. In 1863 he was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia, and then for some months continued his medical studies abroad, in Paris, Berlin, and London. He began practicing medicine in New York City upon his return to this country, at the same time continuing his investigations in pathology. His efforts in this direction won him great prominence, and his writings upon the subject are accepted as standard authorities. His first important work, "A Handbook of Post-Mortem Examinations and Morbid Anatomy," which first appeared in 1872, was later rewritten and greatly enlarged, in collaboration with Dr. T. Mitchell Prudden, '72 S., being published in 1885, under the title of "A Handbook of Pathological Anatomy and Histology." This is now in general use as a textbook in medical colleges. In 1878 appeared his "Manual of Physical Diagnosis," and his book, "Diseases of the Kidneys," was written in 1895. Another achievement was his classification of the group of diseases generally treated under pulmonary consumption. Probably his most important contribution to the field of medical science was "Studies in Pathological Anatomy," published in 1882, and covering a long period of research. Since 1868, when he became a lecturer on pathological anatomy in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, he had been a member of the faculty of Columbia University. In 1875 he received an appointment as adjunct professor of medicine under Professor Alonzo Clark (B.A. Williams 1828, M.D. Columbia 1833), and upon the latter's retirement in 1892 was elected his successor. In 1892 he became professor of the practice of medicine, being made professor emeritus nine years later. Delafield was for a number of years attached to the staff of Bellevue Hospital, at first as a member of the house staff, later as attending physician, and finally as consulting physician. He had served also as pathologist to Roosevelt Hospital and surgeon to the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary. In 1890 he was honored with the degree of LL.D. by Yale, and in 1904 Columbia conferred a similar degree upon him. He held membership in the New York County Medical Society, the New York Academy of Medicine, the Pathological Society, and the Association of the American Physicians, being the first president of the latter organization. His clubs were the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, the Morris County Golf, the Riding, Century, Yale, and City, and he was a member of the St. Nicholas Society. He was married on January 17, 1870, to Miss Katharine VanRensselaer, who died in 1901. They had two daughters, Elizabeth Ray and Cornelia VanRensselaer, and a son, Edward Henry, all of whom survive. Delafield's uncle, Joseph Delafield, received a B.A. at Yale in 1808.

HENRY WINN, '59, died at his home in Malden, Mass., on January 24. He was born in Whitingham, Vt., December 8, 1837, the son of Reuben Winn, who served at one time in the State Senate of Vermont, and a descendant of Edward Winn, who came to this country from England in 1635. His mother was Betsey, daughter of Captain Samuel Parker. Winn received his preliminary education at the Shelburne Falls Academy, and in college belonged to the Nautilus Boat Club, Linonia, Sigma Delta, Alpha Sigma Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Phi Beta Kappa, and received Oration appointments. During the year following his graduation he taught at the Worcester (Mass.) High School, and at the same time studied law in the office of Dwight Foster (B.A. 1848). He also spent some time at the Harvard Law School, and after his admission to the bar acted as assistant to the attorney general of Massachusetts. In 1861 he went to Washington, D. C., to accept an appointment as clerk to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate. On his return to Boston he resumed his duties at the State House, and at this time drafted the savings bank tax act, which was the foundation of the corporation tax system of the state. Winn for a while served in the Civil War as major of the Fifty-second Massachusetts Regiment, which he had organized. Returning to Massachusetts in 1863, he practiced law a number of years. His elder son, Philip Henry, who studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology from 1884 to 1886, survives, but the younger, Sydney Yale (M. D. Harvard 1894), died a few months ago. On November 30, 1880, he was married a second time to Julia Eva, daughter of Orlando Merrill of Durham, Maine. Her death occurred June 27, 1908.

He was the son of Alexander Hamilton and Elizabeth (Geib) Wallis, and was born November 25, 1842, in New York City. His paternal grandparents were John and Mary Ann (Geib) Wallis, and his mother, a cousin of her husband, was the daughter of John and Margaret (Lawrence) Geib. When he was four years of age, his family moved to Jersey City, N. J., and he received his early education in the public schools of that city, later attending a private school at Bloomfield, N. J., and the Hasbrouck Institute in Jersey City. His final preparation for Yale was made under Rev. Samuel Jones in Bridgeport, Conn. In college, he belonged to Linonia, Delta Kappa, Alpha Sigma Phi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon, and was one of the founders of the Glyuna Boat Club, being its second captain. He began the study of law at Columbia in the fall after his graduation from Yale, taking his LL.B. there two years later. He was admitted to the bar in May, 1865, and then spent about six months in the office of Marsh, Coe & Wallis and a year in that of Scudder & Carter in New York City. In 1866, he formed, with William G. Wilson, Harvard 1862, the firm of Wilson & Wallis. He practiced under this name until the death of his father in 1879, when their two firms were consolidated under the name of Marsh, Wilson & Wallis. On the death of Mr. Luther R. Marsh in 1888, the old title of Wilson & Wallis was resumed, continuing until 1905, when Wallis retired from practice. Since that time he had lived on his farm at Colchester, Conn., his home having previously been in East Orange, N. J. In addition to his professional interests in New York, Wallis was a member of the Jersey City firm of Wallis, Edwards & Bumstead, his associates being Messrs. William D. Edwards and William B. Bumstead. For many years he was one of the trustees of the Brick Presbyterian Church of East Orange, serving for a long time as president of the board. He was a director of the First National Bank of Jersey City, the United Electrical Company of New Jersey, and of the Jersey City Gas Light Company (in which he served successively as vice-president and president), the Peoples Gas Light Company of Jersey City, and the Hudson County Gas Light Company of Hoboken, N. J., later being chosen, on the merger of the three last-named corporations, a director of the Hudson County Gas Company. He was several times a candidate for local office, and some years ago served as excise commissioner of East Orange. Wallis was for several years before his death agent for his Class of the Alumni University Fund, and while he had this office a greater proportion of the living members of the Class were contributors to the Fund than of any earlier Class and many later ones. He was also for thirty or forty years one of a committee of three which always arranged for the Class reunions. On October 13, 1868, he was married to Alice, daughter of Nathaniel and Emeline (Graham) Waldron of Philadelphia, Pa., who died December 9, 1899. By this marriage, there were four children: Emeline Waldron (Mrs. James Carr Dunn of London, England); Alexander Hamilton, who in 1895, two years after his graduation from Yale College, received the degree of LL.B. at the New York Law School; Nathaniel Waldron, '97, and Clinton Geib (Ph.B. 1897). Mrs. Wallis' nephew, William D. Waldron, graduated from the College in 1903. Wallis was married in 1905 to Miss Josephine Bell Taylor of East Orange, by whom he had a son, John, and a daughter, Helen Elizabeth. Mrs. Wallis and all of his children survive.

On April 17, 1863, he was appointed assistant assessor of internal revenue, and held that office until its abolishment in 1870. During the next two years, he conducted the Peekskill Messenger, the Republican newspaper of the town. A year later, he became connected with the law department of the Equitable Life Assurance Company of New York, continuing there about ten years. From 1885 to 1900, he was associated with a brother in the manufacture of Hudson River brick. He retired from business in the latter year. He was a member of the National Geographic Society, the University Club of Peekskill, and the Yale Alumni Association of Westchester County. He belonged to the Second Presbyterian Church of Peekskill; was elected an elder in 1876, and clerk of the session in 1886, and held that office at the time of his death; for nearly ten years, he was superintendent of the Sunday School. His marriage took place on July 20th, 1864, to Julia Montgomery, daughter of Albert and Emma Louise (Hassert) Wells and sister of Henry Albert Wells, '58. Mrs. Frost died July 19, 1883, and their oldest child, John Wells, on May 6, 1865. #### ISAAC PLATT PUGSLEY, '64

ISAAC PLATT PUGSLEY, '64, died at his home in Toledo, Ohio, on June 3. His death followed the brief illness caused by an attack of apoplexy. The son of David Crosby and Ann Caroline (Platt) Pugsley, he was born in Goshen, N. Y., June 5, 1843, and was fitted for college at the Binghamton Academy and the Susquehanna Seminary in Binghamton, N. Y. He held the Hurlbutt Scholarship in his Freshman year at Yale, and the following year was awarded a third prize for excellence in English composition. His Junior appointment was an oration, and he delivered the Valedictory at Commencement. He was a member of Kappa Sigma Epsilon, Alpha Sigma Phi, Psi Upsilon, Skull and Bones, Phi Beta Kappa, and Brothers in Unity. He was attached to the bark Midnight as acting assistant paymaster in the United States Navy for a little over a year following his graduation, and after that taught in New York City for about six months. Beginning the study of law in Binghamton, he moved to Toledo in the spring of 1868, and soon afterwards was admitted to the bar there. For nearly fifteen years he was associated in the practice of his profession with Messrs. Charles Kent and John T. Newton, as a member of the firm of Kent, Newton & Pugsley. He became an executor of Mr. Kent's estate upon the latter's death in 1908, and since its settlement had been retained as counsel. From March until October, 1883, he filled a vacancy as judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and, being elected to the bench of that court in November, 1888, served as judge until November, 1903. At that time he retired, and resumed his private practice. He went abroad in 1906, and spent several months in travel in Europe. He had not married.

WILLIAM EDWARD FOSTER, '60

WILLIAM EDWARD FOSTER, '60, died in Buffalo, N. Y., on August 25. He was born in New Haven, Conn., June 4, 1839, his father being Eleazer Kingsbury Foster, a graduate of Yale College in the Class of 1834, who practiced as a lawyer in New Haven for a number of years, representing that city in the General Assembly for several terms, and serving later as judge of probate, state's attorney for New Haven County, and register in bankruptcy. He was the son of Eleazer Foster (B.A. 1802) by his wife, Mary (Pierpont) Foster, who was a great granddaughter of Rev. James Pierpont, a member of Yale's first board of trustees. Foster's mother was Mary, daughter of William C. Codrington. In Sophomore year at college he was awarded a first prize for excellence in declamation and a first prize in the Linonia debate, and he received a Colloquy appointment Junior year and a Dispute at Commencement, when he was one of the speakers. His societies were Delta Kappa, Alpha Sigma Phi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon. He began to study law directly after graduation, at first in Auburn, N. Y., and later in his father's office in New Haven, but in the spring of 1861 he discontinued his studies to accept a commission on the staff of the quartermaster general of Connecticut. He resigned in July, 1862, to become a paymaster in the navy, being assigned to duty on the Memphis, and held that position until the close of the Civil War. On returning to his native town, he again took up his studies, shortly afterwards being admitted to the bar. After practicing for only a brief period, he went to Florida, remaining until June, 1868. From November of that year until March, 1870, he was located in Lynchburg, Va., as editor and part owner of the Daily Republican. Since that time he had been engaged in the editorial conduct of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, at first as associate editor and from 1878 as editor-in-chief. In 1911 he retired from active newspaper work, although still retaining his position as managing editor. He belonged to the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Buffalo Club, and the Buffalo University Club. In 1905 Foster was elected president of the Yale Alumni Association of Buffalo, and served for the next three years. He was married on August 14, 1862, to Sarah Eliot, daughter of Frederick Joel Betts (B.A. Williams 1821) and Mary Ward (Scoville) Betts, and sister of Frederick H. Betts, '64, and C. Wyllys Betts, '67. Of their three children, the son, Frederick Betts, died when fifteen years of age, and the older daughter, May Husted, in 1890. The other daughter, Louise Holbrook, married Mr. Albert S. Thompson of Buffalo. Foster's two brothers were graduates of Yale, Eleazer Kingsbury Foster in the College Class of 1863, and John Pierrepont Codrington Foster with the degree of B.A. in 1869, M.D. in 1875, and Honorary M.A. in 1909. The latter's sons, Allen Evarts and William Edward, 2d, are members of the Classes of 1906 and 1907 S., respectively.

EDWIN HENRY YUNDT, '59

EDWIN HENRY YUNDT, '59, died, after an illness of several months, at his home in Blue Ball, Pa., on October 6, from hardening of the arteries. He was born January 8, 1838, in Blue Ball, the son of Henry and Maria Magdalena (Kinzer) Yundt. In preparing for Yale he attended for a while the Moravian School at Lititz, Pa., and then went to the academy conducted by Anthony Bolmar and William F. Wyers at West Chester, Pa. He entered Yale as a Freshman in 1855, and during his course was a member of Linonia, Sigma Delta, Alpha Sigma Phi, and Psi Upsilon. He was one of the Cochleareati for the Wooden Spoon Exhibition, a member of the Class Committee for Presentation Day, and received Dispute appointments. After graduation he studied law in Lancaster, Pa., under Isaac Ellmaker Hiester (B.A. 1842), to whom he was related, and was admitted to the Lancaster Bar September 18, 1861. He practiced law with notable success until 1878, when, owing to an impaired nervous condition, he retired from active practice, and soon returned to the place of his birth, where he built a comfortable home and remained until his death. He led a secluded solitary life, reading much and watching with interest the course of events. He had never married. Yundt had several times declined nominations for public office. For five years he served as editor of the Lancaster Bar. Of his seven sisters and two brothers, one brother, Horace Archibald Yundt (B.A. Franklin and Marshall 1859), a lawyer of Reading, Pa., and three sisters survive him. His other brother, Winfield Scott Yundt, graduated at Jefferson Medical College in 1866, and served in the Army as a surgeon. Yundt was a great-uncle of W. Brooke Dunwoody, '11.

THE SOUL

It is the Soul's prerogative, its fate,
To shape the outward to its own estate,
If right itself, then, all around is well;
If wrong, it makes of all without a hell.
So multiplies the Soul its joy or pain,
Gives out itself, itself takes back again.
Transformed by thee, the world hath but one face.
Look there, my Soul! and thine own features trace!
And all through time, and down eternity,
Where'er thou goest, that face shall look on thee.
