CALIFORNIA THEN AND NOW*

By Herbert H. Mensing

N JUNE 20, 1853, a school was opened by Henry Durant in Oakland, California, in a building formerly used as a Spanish fandango house. A more suitable site, consisting of four square blocks, was soon secured nearby, however, and here the Contra Costa Academy endeavored to prepare its students in a future college, for the establishment of which attempts were then being made. Plans for such a college to enable the students of the academy to continue their study upon graduation were presented at a joint meeting late in 1853 of the Presbytery of San Francisco and the Congregational Association of California. The College of California was founded, and on April 13, 1855, was incorporated under the laws of the state. It was not intended, however, to begin instruction at the college until a sufficient class had been prepared at the school, so that the latter continued its existence until 1860, when the college was formally opened under the principalship of Reverend Isaac H. Brayton.

In the meantime, forces having for their aim the establishment of a university were already at work. The California Constitution of 1849 had recognized the importance of such an institution, and during the following decade many proposals looking toward its establishment were submitted to the state legislature.

The great impetus to the movement came in 1862. By accepting the provisions of the Morrill Act of that year, California agreed to establish at least one college where the leading object should be to teach subjects pertaining to agriculture and mechanics. Meanwhile, the College of California had acquired a tract of land of rare beauty, an ideal college site, four or five miles north of Oakland. Then, in 1867, the directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical Arts College provisionally selected a tract for their prospective institution a mile or two north of this. Thus, the two institutions were brought into a neighborly contact, and it was not difficult, now that the times were ripe, to relate the ideas underlying them. It was realized that what was needed was neither the state technical school nor the private cultural college, but a university, belonging to and representing the community at large.

*Editor's Note: A series of articles was begun some time ago relating to the history and progress of institutions wherein Phi Pi Phi maintains chapters. In subsequent issues, space did not permit the continuation of the series, but it is hoped that we shall be able to present a brief history of the institutions not already covered.

The legislature was overwhelmingly in favor of such a proposal and the hearty approval of Governor Haight was secured, so that with the signing of its charter on March 23, 1868, the University of California became a reality. The College of California immediately donated its land to the state, and in 1864 the university removed from the college site in Oakland to the new and permanent location to the north, which was named Berkeley in honor of the author of those immortal line:

"Westward the course of empire takes its way;
The first four Acts already past.

A fifth shall close the drama with the day;
Time's noblest offspring is the last."

Two sets of colleges were established at first, the college of letters, inherited from the College of California, and the five colleges of applied science (agriculture, chemistry, civil engineering, mechanics, and mines) fulfilling the requirements of the Morrill Act. Out of this small beginning the university has continued to steadily expand and now includes the following units:

The colleges of Letters and Science, Commerce, Agriculture (including the branch at Davis, California, and other experiment stations throughout the state), Mechanics, Mining, Civil Engineering and Chemistry at Berkeley;

The schools of Architecture, Education, Jurisprudence, Librarianship, and Medicine (first and second years) at Berkeley;

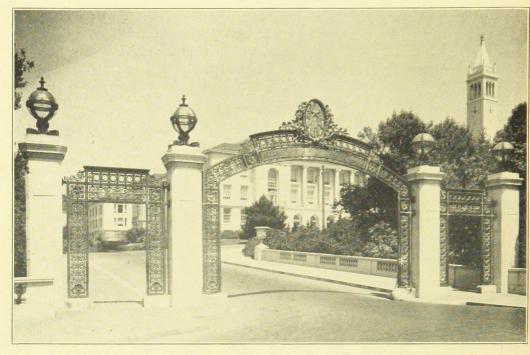

The museums of Paleontology and Vertebrate Zoölogy at Berkeley;

The California School of Fine Arts, Hastings College of the Law, the School of Medicine (third, fourth, and fifth years), College of Dentistry, and the California School of Pharmacy at San Francisco;

The museums of Anthropology, Archæology and Art in San Francisco;

The Lick Astronomical Department (Lick Observatory) at Mount Hamilton and the branch thereof at Santiago, Chile;

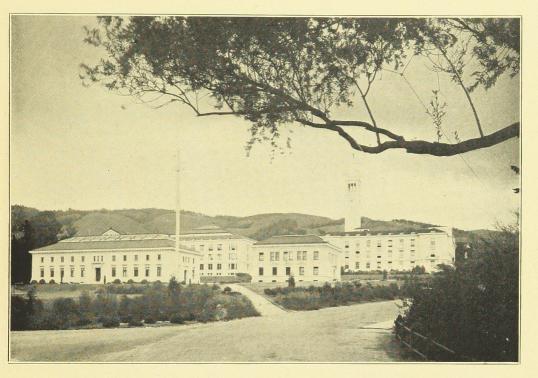

The southern branch of the university at Los Angeles, including a College of Letters and Science, and a Teachers' College.

SATHER GATE AND WHEELER HALL, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

The site of the University of Berkeley comprises about 530 acres, arising at first in gentle and then in bolder slopes from a height of about two hundred feet above sea level to one of about thirteen hundred feet. It has a superb outlook over the bay and city of San Francisco, the neighboring plains and mountains, the ocean, and the Golden Gate.

The largest building on the campus is Wheeler Hall, just inside Sather Gate, where students registered in the College of Letters and Science attend most of their classes. Adjoining is South Hall, the headquarters of the College of Commerce. The Engineering classes are held for the most part in LeConte Hall, Gilman Hall, the Mechanics, Chemistry and Civil Engineering Buildings, and the Hearst Mining Hall, all situated on the north and east of the campus. The professional School of Jurisprudence holds all of its classes in Boalt Hall, near Sather Gate, while on the northwestern end of the campus, in Hilgard and Haviland Halls, respectively, the College of Agriculture and the School of Education hold forth.

The Henry Morse Stephens Union, erected in 1922, is owned by the Associated Students, and contains a co-operative store, as well as clubrooms and office space for student activities. The Associated Students also own the massive California Memorial Stadium, where as many as one hundred thousand persons have viewed a single gridiron contest.

In the revised California Constitution of 1879, provision was made to establish the University of California at the head of the state's educational system. The Vrooman Act of 1887 provided for an annual tax of one cent on each hundred dollars for the support of the university, and ten years later the legislature unanimously duplicated the income provided by the act of 1887, giving the academic requirements of the university a revenue of two cents on each one hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the state. The university is the beneficiary of numerous endowments, scholarships, and gifts, prominent among the donors being Phoebe Apperson Hearst, her son, William Randolph Hearst, Jane K. Sather, and Charles Franklin Doe. The university library approximates some 600,000 volumes, most of which are housed in the magnificent edifice erected in 1908 at a cost of $750,000, as a memorial to Charles Franklin Doe.

The university faculty includes many eminent authorities, and the opportunities offered for intensive study have attracted students from all over the world. In the field of athletic competition California has repeatedly held a place in the sun, and recently its football team won national recognition by passing through five consecutive seasons without suffering a defeat. Student selfgovernment and the observance of the honor spirit during examinations has proved successful since 1899.

The estimated value of the fixed assets of the university, including real estate, improvements, and equipment, is at present slightly more than $21,600,000. The departments at Berkely boast of an enrollment (October, 1926) of 9,808 students and 2,014 officers and assistants. The branch at Los Angeles contains about half as many again, so that the university, with upwards of 14,000 students, is easily one of the largest in the world.

Since the university maintains no dormitories, the number of social fraternities at California is necessarily large, sixty-three such organizations being recognized at the present time. Nearly all of the national social fraternities have established chapters there.

A RETROSPECT OF THETA

I MMEDIATELY after the close of the World War in 1918, there was a considerable influx of disabled veterans to the University of California to prepare for vocational study. In the following year about thirty or forty of these, conscious of a common bond of brotherhood, such as is characteristic of all men in the service, met and organized what was known as the Associated Federal Students Club of the University of California.

The group was very loosely organized, however, there being no obligations or ceremonies of any sort, and the "members" were free to leave at any time. The one stipulation was that all new men desirous of living at the clubhouse must have met with the approval of the other members. All of the members had seen overseas service, and had suffered some disability or other in the war, and many were the battles that were fought over again around the fireplace during the long evenings. Here were men quite familiar with the hard school of experience, men who had been face to face with the drab moments of life. Most of them were older and more matured than is the average college man of today, and loyalty, sagacity, and tolerance were exemplified in abundance.

The club flourished admirably during the next two years, as more and more veterans received their discharges and came to the university to complete their education. Toward the end of 1921, however, it became apparent that the "supply" of disabled veterans entering college was, of necessity, being diminished, and must soon become exhausted. The members realized that, if the organization was to be perpetuated, new members would have to be recruited from other fields. Accordingly, the Associated Federal Students Club was reorganized as a local social fraternity or house club, to which the name Alkamoi, derived from the Greek word meaning "courage," was given. On May 1, 1922, the Alkamoi Club was officially recognized by the university.

New members were initiated to fill the gaps left by graduation, and, by the time the fall semester had opened in 1923, the club was on a sound financial basis and looking forward to a prosperous year. But it was not to be. One month later, on September 17, came the great Berkeley fire, with its resulting property damage amounting to thousands of dollars, and the brothers spent the afternoon fighting fire and assisting those who had been rendered homeless. Their own house was saved, but was so badly damaged that they gladly accepted the hospitality of a neighboring sorority for the next two nights, enjoying the novel experience of sleeping on mattresses strewn all over the living room floor. Their own abode was again made habitable, but the tremendous rise in realty values occasioned by the fire resulted in the house being sold by its owners, and the Alkamoi Club was without a nome.

The members scattered, some to hotels, some to apartment houses, and some to private homes, so that the club was spread out all over San Francisco, Oakland, and Berkeley. Weekly meetings were held at the students' union on the campus, but recruiting new members was impossible, and much that had previously been gained was lost. However, by dint of hard work a new house was secured the following semester and, although too small to accommodate all of the brothers, nevertheless served as a headquarters and a home until something better could be found. It was here that the members became acquainted with Warren F. Lewis, district supervisor for Phi Pi Phi, and through him petitioned for membership in the national organization. A charter was granted, and on May 15, 1924, the Alkamoi Club of the University of California became Theta chapter of Phi Pi Phi. installation was made by our worthy National President, Brother Clarke, who was at that time serving as National Vice-President.

Since that time Theta has met and successfully solved various other problems and has continued to grow and develop into an important element in the fraternity group at California. The membership has gradually passed from the older, more experienced type to a younger set of fellows as yet unacquainted with the ups and downs of life. But the former have left us a birthright that will be forever cherished in the memories of Theta, and have given us, to quote Brother Gentle, "a heritage of patriotism, democracy, and level-headedness."

PROMINENT IN PHI PI PHI

ALFRED MILLER FUNK, secretary of Eta chapter, has been chosen for membership in Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholarship fraternity. He was chosen as one of the twelve best students of a senior class of about six hundred. Funk is the sixth member of Eta to be elected to Phi Kappa Phi since the installation of Eta in 1924. The others were Walter C. Green in 1924; Allen V. Astin and Seth W. Pixton in 1925; J. Winston Alter and William

Alfred M. Funk, Eta

Cecil Ockey in 1926. The record is the best of any of the fraternities at the University of Utah.

Funk is majoring in mechanical engineering, one of the most difficult courses at the university. In addition to being an excellent student, he is one of the mainstays of the chapter, being both secretary and dean of pledges. He is also active in the Utah Engineering Society of which he is yellmaster, and is a member of Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity.

THE EDITOR'S WORD OR TWO

CHICAGO is delightful in June and all members of the fraternity should make a determined effort to be in Chicago, June 23, 24, and 25.

The convention of 1925 was unanimous in deciding that the convention of 1927 should be held again in this great city and so the National Council has set the dates as previously announced to avoid conflict with graduation ceremonies in order that all members may be able to be present at as many meetings of the convention as possible.

The convention committee has not been appointed but it will be composed of members of the Chicago Alumni Club and representatives of each of the chapters located within Chicago and suburbs. With past experience in handling the convention all delegates and visitors are assured of an even better time than at the last convention. There will be a banquet to which will be invited executives of other national fraternities, and the convention will close with a ball. There will be plenty of room at the Alpha, Beta, and Gamma chapter homes and all are convenient to the lake so that we should enjoy cool weather.

The principal business of the convention will be for further improvement of the internal fabric of the fraternity. Uniform methods of chapter accounting, budgeting, pledge handling and education will be among the topics of discussion. It will be a meeting worth while.

NO REPORT of the Interfraternity Conference meeting held in New York City in November is given in this issue. A partial report is not as valuable as the complete report and the National Council felt that there were so many good things in the Year Book that a copy has been sent to each active chapter. Each member of the chapters should make it a point to read the reports contained in the Year Book.

UNIVERSITIES and colleges are regarding the Greek letter fraternities as permanent institutions more and more as the time goes on. The officials of all institutions realize that the fraternities are playing a major rôle in the development of their own institutions from an economic standpoint as well as socially. Nearly every month this office receives a communication from a college or university requesting our experience regarding financial assistance given by colleges and universities in the construction and maintenance of fraternity homes.

North Carolina State and the University of California, Southern Branch, are considering setting aside a portion of the campus for future home sites of chapter houses. Baldwin-Wallace has recently voted to set aside a portion of the college campus for chapter homes of the national fraternities of that institution. The plan provides certain properties now owned by the college be set aside for the chapters and until new houses can be erected that present houses be rented to the fraternities. Architects are engaged in preparing plans for the new homes which will be consistent with the style of the other college buildings. The capacity will be for thirty men. Twenty-five per cent of the total cost must be met by the fraternity at the time they take advantage of this plan. The alumni and active members of Mu chapter should perfect plans which will give them the opportunity of being the first fraternity to build a new chapter home.

THE EDITOR desires to compliment Brother Mensing of Theta chapter for his contributions to this number. All work submitted was so carefully prepared that no alterations were required and his chapter letter is the best ever submitted.

THE DECEMBER number of The Quarterly did not contain the scholastic report of Mu chapter for the second semester of last year. We are gratified to mention the report in this issue.

THOSE individuals and chapters who have placed orders for the eleventh edition of Baird's Manual, we must ask that they be a little more patient. We hope that within the month the orders can be filled. This is a book that each chapter should have in its library.

NEW SELECTION METHODS ARE NEEDED

C INCE the World War the registration of all colleges and universities has increased to unheard-of figures. Obviously the fraternities have not been able to expand fast enough to meet the increase. As a result, the artificial distinction between fraternity member and independent student has been widened, which bothers the thoughtful alumnus not a little. Almost without exception deans and presidents of leading institutions welcome the establishment of new chapters, because they recognize the value of group companionship and, incidentally, group control. Even the fraternities recognize the need of more fraternities and under the auspices of the Interfraternity Conference new fraternities are being encouraged to organize. How times have changed!

But, as a matter of fact, the independent student, which is to say, the non-fraternity man, does not resent the condition by which a small percentage become fraternity members, and a large percentage do not. I doubt if he would wish to change it if he could! What he does resent, and rightfully, is the utterly unfair basis upon which the selection of fraternity membership is now made. In most colleges the freshmen are inspected, rejected, or accepted during the opening days of school, before they have had any chance to fit into their new surroundings. It's unfair, because the boy who knows the ropes, and who has had a father or brother there before him, has a tremendous advantage over the unknown student who arrives unheralded and unsung.

The only fair selection possible will come when the fraternities recognize the common sense of sophomore bidding in place of freshman rushing. On that basis the student will have had a year in which to find himself, and the fraternities will have had a year to look him over. The frosh would have the crowd with which he fits in best, the chapter would have the man they really want, and the beautiful but dumb would have been sifted out with the two sets of semester examinations.

That the present method of selection is hectic and unfair, and undignified goes without saying. That it is a distinct worry to the thoughtful alumnus is evident when such a warm friend of college fraternities as Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, has this to say in the November issue of College Humor:

I have always claimed that if some member of each organization, with nothing else to occupy his time, should be sent to a cross street with the buttons in his pocket and should pledge the first dozen white freshmen who came his way, he would run in a better bunch scholastically and socially than is done by the present complicated processes.

CAROLINA FORBIDS PLEDGE BREAKING

THE Interfraternity Council at the University of North Carolina has adopted drastic rules aimed at fraternity proselyting. It is provided by the council that no man who breaks his pledge with one fraternity may ever afterward join another. Likewise, no fraternity may drop a pledge without the approval of the council upon penalty of a fine of $100.00 and refusal of permission to pledge for a period of twelve months. The same penalty applies to any fraternity which initiates a man who has broken his pledge with another fraternity.

ALUMNI CLUBS OF PHI PI PHI

CHICAGO

THE recent meetings of the Chicago Alumni Association of Phi Pi Phi have been devoted to a more or less informal get-together. The meetings are held once a month at the High Noon Club at 6:30. Weekly luncheons are held at the Hotel La Salle every Thursday at noon.

Alumni members of Phi Pi Phi in Chicago are strongly urged to attend as many meetings as possible. Several important things are now under way and a goodly supply of men are needed to carry them through.

Address all communications to Harry Meislahn, 923 E. Sixtieth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

CLEVELAND

No communication from the Cleveland Alumni Association of Phi Pi Phi has been received. Will the secretary of that organization please communicate with the editor?

MILWAUKEE

The newly formed Milwaukee Alumni Association of Phi Pi Phi has done much to keep the spirit of the fraternity active among the men of our city. Business meetings have been held every month since early fall and the process of organization is now complete.

One of the objects of the association is to provide a means for the men of Phi Pi Phi to get together socially. A dance, a theatre party, several bowling and card parties have already been arranged and other social evenings are scheduled.

Stanley Hetland, Zeta, '24, was the first member of the association to break out in matrimony. Stan was married in November to a South Bend girl.

The Milwaukee association will be very glad to hear of any Phi Pi Phi men from any of the chapters now staying or living in Milwaukee.

ALPHA—Northwestern University

First semester work at Alpha chapter has progressed rapidly and well and the chapter has several men active in campus work.

Brother Klein received a dislocated shoulder in the first football game of the year which kept him from receiving his letter, but we expect lots from him in the next two years on the "Fighting Wildcat" team.

Pledges Irons and "Bud" Smith won their freshman numerals in cross country. Pledge Irons won the annual cross country run and captured fifth place in the Chicago Tribune cross country run. Pledge Smith garnered second place in the cross country and he is also freshman representative of the athletic association.

Pledge Koier is working hard to receive his numeral from the "frosh" wrestling squad. He grapples in the lightweight class. He is also chairman of the reception committee for the Naval Ball, which is to take place March 4. Pledge Richards and Brother Blome were chosen to lead the wings of the Naval Ball. Pledge Richards is working on The Daily Northwestern and is also the university reporter for the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Brothers Lauesen and Dessert were lost through graduation at the close of the semester. Brother Lauesen was one of the charter members of Alpha and at present is president of the house corporation. Brother Dessert was a letter man, receiving his emblem in wrestling. Brothers Enright, W. McMillan, T. Muller, Forrester, and Widby, are completing their last semester of undergraduate work.

Brother Enright is senior track manager and Brother Widby is column conductor on The Daily Northwestern. Brother Thurm Muller is president of the all-university interfraternity council, vice-president of the senior class and vice-president of the Commerce Club.

Brothers Allen and McMillan are studying law at Kent College. Brother Rideout is enrolled in Northwestern Medical School for his third year and is living at the Phi Rho Sigma house. Brother Kiesow is studying law at Northwestern and is president of the sophomore class. He is also a member of Gamma Eta Gamma, professional law fraternity.

BETA-UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

On January 15 Beta chapter initiated Herbert Beardsley and John Freeman. Herb is one of the best of our intramural basketball players. John is an ardent worker on The Cap and Gown, the annual publication at the university, and is a member of Torch, a freshman group.

Beta also announces the pledging of Kenneth Trotter and David Prosser.

GAMMA CHAPTER
TROPHIES OF THE CHASE

At the present time we have ten men participating in intramural basketball. Captain Sam Rice, Nor Root, Ken Trotter, Dave Prosser, Herb Wahl, and Don Mack are a speedy set of cagers that are hard to whip.

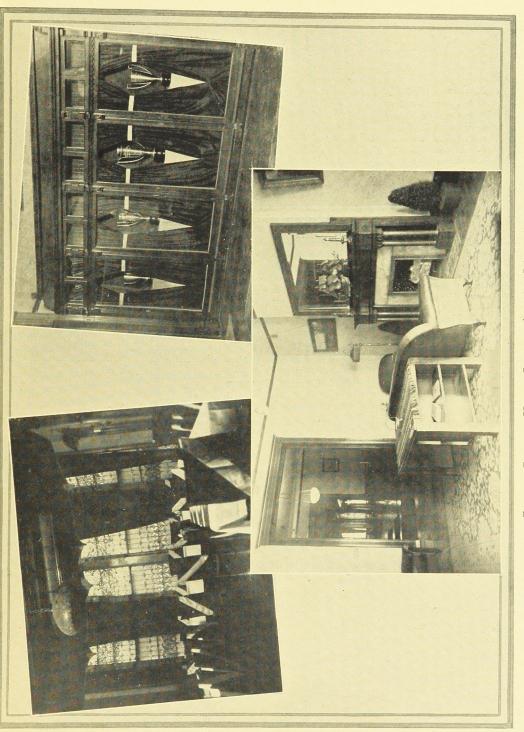

John McDonald continues to pull down his usual number of A's and is undoubtedly a candidate for Phi Beta Kappa. Jackson, Root, and Rice tie as a close second to Mac-Donald. Freeman and Beardsley hold scholarships as a result of their excellent work in high school.

Doc Stoehr, since the last writing, has been promoted to the position of assistant trainer. He is also on the varsity wrestling team.

Three of our most promising freshmen were taken into membership in the Green Cap, freshman honorary society. These freshmen, Root, Freeman, and Beardsley, are now in the dancing class preparatory to the Blackfriars' next production.

Our "Formal" was held at the Illinois Women's Athletic Club on January 29. The entire thirteenth floor was the scene of the event. Beta was honored by being the first fraternity to hold a social affair in the new building. Much of the success of the affair was due to the chairman, Jimmy Root.

A CORNER OF THE MUSIC ROOM

We regret the loss of Brothers Daugherty and Kraft through graduation.

For the eighth straight year Gamma has won the Interfraternity basketball championship of the school. This gives Gamma permanent possession of her second cup in the sport. Five games were played in the tourney with an average score of 32 to 8. Since the series has passed into history four random games have been played with independent teams just for the sake of the sport. They were close games, at times too close for comfort, but we won three and tied the other one.

Gamma has a most intriguing bunch of pledges. The neophytes held an informal party for the actives the Saturday of Thanksgiving week. But the actives wouldn't tell the pledges that it was good for all the mercenary accumulations in the world.

Some of the freshmen already have distinguished themselves. Red Shoan became class treasurer; Porky Rohrer, a gentleman from Indiana, has about cinched a place on the varsity swimming team. In addition to his aquatic activities he plays a cornet in the orchestra. Ray Stellar is a sophomore and plays a vociferous game of basketball on the house team. But the last word in basketball is Fred Tell, a freshman, who is center on the house team and on the varsity. He was all-Chicago high school center for two years and no one ever gets the jump on him or eclipses his shooting in a fast game. George Smith, another sophomore, plays a violin and waxes hot in the orchestra.

Honorary fraternities have pledged and ere this goes to press they will initiate. Ted Samuelson has been elected to Scarab, honorary architectural fraternity. Rowdy Youngberg is round shouldered from the excess weight imposed by a Tau Beta Pi key and a Phi Lambda Upsilon key.

During Christmas vacation, under the guidance of Johnny Newstrom, the house took on a new aspect. The whole first floor was sanded and refinished. Parts of the second floor were renovated also.

DELTA—UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

The past semester has been a most satisfactory one for Delta. We began the year with nineteen members and twenty pledges and have increased the number of each since then.

On December 11, we initiated nine of our pledges, bringing our active membership to a total of twenty-eight. Those initiated were: G. H. Reuss and L. A. Reuss, Bethany, Illinois; O. P. Clark, Georgetown, Illinois; M. R. Beckstrom, Moline, Illinois; J. L. Picard, Urbana, Illinois; G. H. Jones, Effinghame, Illinois; E. G. Fruin, Gridley, Illinois; E. F. Stimpert, Panola, Illinois; L. D. Pfoff, Foosland, Illinois.

Brother Van Zandt visited with us over the week end of initiation.

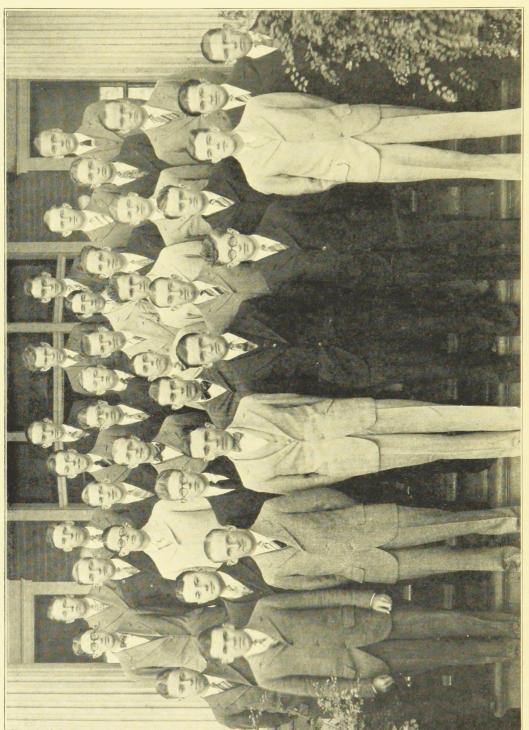

Our latest pledging was that of Harold W. Cole of Dalton, Illinois. "Sparky" Verplank is one of the four founders of Sigma Iota Epsilon, recently organized Industrial Administration Honorary Fraternity, and has been elected treasurer. The Fraternity has a scholastic requirement of 4:00 and was organized because those students of the Industrial Administration curriculum are not eligible to membership in either Tau Beta Pi or Beta Gamma Sigma. Brothers Lowe and Roberts are also charter members.

"Red" Pfeiffer has been elected to Pi Tau Sigma, Mechanical Engineering honorary, and Sigma Tau, Engineering honorary, besides being a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary. "Slim" Martin has been elected to Sigma Epsilon, Railway Engineering honorary.

Hal Pattison came through in freshman football and received numerals and is now out for track. Picard's hopes for a letter in football this year were lost when an injured leg kept him out for most of the season. Joe Blackmore is now on the freshman swimming squad and has hopes for a numeral.

"Howy" Watson is still climbing in the Ag School and his latest achievement is that of president of the Hoof and Horn Club. Eddie Krebaum is now out for the rifle team, and George Kessler is out for track.

On January 8 we held an informal barn dance with appropriate decorations and cider and doughnuts were served. Although it was rather cold the "dates" were "taxied" on a hay frame which proved a rather

EPSILON-WASHBURN COLLEGE

Walter Davis earned a "W" in football again this year at the guard position. This is Brother Davis' third year on the team.

Otis Darner earned his "W" at the quarterback position and as the drop kicker for the Washburn team.

George Wilbur earned a "W" last year as a tackle on the Washburn team but was injured early in the season this year and so could not make his letter this year.

Epsilon chapter announces the pledging of Loren Hancuff and C. C. Vernon, both of Topeka.

We announce the engagement of Miss Eleanor Pearson, of Topeka, to Brother Marshall Mayberry, now in Oklahoma teaching school.

Brother Harold McKay was the Washburn Y.M.C.A. delegate to the national conference of the Student's Christian Association held in Milwaukee the latter part of December. Brother McKay is a member of the Local College Y.M. Cabinet.

Washburn has experienced a string of pre-season hard luck this year. One of the letter men of last year was ruled ineligible by the conference committee and another prospect for the team broke his arm in practice. These two will not be able to play this season and one is temporarily out with a sprained ankle. The first conference game will be with Baker, Friday, January 14, in Topeka.

Langdon Morgan was elected captain of the fraternity basketball team to enter in the intramural contest. There is a cup given for the champion fraternity team and we are out for no less than that. Games will start immediately.

While making ten hours of A and six of B in the economics department at Washburn, Blair Branham, June, '27, is taking outside studies. He is taking a course of home economics under the supervision of his mother and the supervision of a great deal of time and experimenting. Blair's lab assistants seem well and hearty which would indicate he has abilities in this line as well as in others. Blair's father is not so optimistic about it, for he has the family well insured. Blair is planning to continue his education after graduating from Washburn by going to an eastern school. Blair has made very good grades in his work here and we are sure his record in the East will be an enviable one.

Howard Browning, June, '27, is working in the chemical testing department of the Santa Fé. Howard has made arrangements to finish his school work outside. While in school, Howard was majoring in chemistry and was assisting in the chemistry laboratory.

Earl Engler, also a charter member of Epsilon, has made two or three visits to the chapter house in the last month. Earl has traveled extensively since he left Washburn and has returned here for a time to be with his parents.

Alfred Johnson and Walter Urban made a dash for the wide open spaces soon after school closed for the Christmas vacation. They made their getaway in their "Struggle Buggy" we mentioned a month or so ago. Alfred's home is in Ellsworth and Walter's is in Sylvan Grove and on their return they claimed to have reached those far off places. They would have gone on to the coast but the crane which is on the side of their ???? got cold feet. Johnson says that they bought a second hand tire in St. Mary's for a dollar that made the entire trip, but that he remembers distinctly six blowouts.

Otis Darner, who has made a most enviable scholastic record, kicked the dropkick that made the Baker-Washburn Thanksgiving game a tie and enabled Washburn to close the season at the 500 mark. Darner has been in a good many games this season and has shown up well. He plays quarterback and did some of the punting in the later games.

Brother Walter Davis appeared in some of the conference teams published since the close of the season and was one of the dependables on the Washburn team, playing in every game.

John Gates, one of the pledges, has been placed on the first printed list of the varsity basketball squad. Gates has had a great deal of experience in basketball on the town team of Mankato where he hails from, but Dutch Longberg is trying to make a guard out of him when forward or center have been his positions. The first write-up in the Topeka paper said of Gates, "His chief court characteristic is dropping the ball through the loop from a little short of the center. Gates is six feet two inches tall and can, no doubt, cover a large territory at the guard position."

Wendell Hubbard, a pledge from Hugoton, is also trying for a varsity position. He has been out but a short time and it remains to be seen what he will do. Forward is his choice position.

We announce the initiation of Otis Darner and George Wilbur.

Epsilon entertained with a dance Friday, January 7, at the Woman's Club. Professor and Mrs. N. E. Saxe, Susan M. Guild, and Mrs. Harriet Buckley chaperoned the party.

Keep your eyes open for prospective pledges and write to us often. If you are in Topeka, do not fail to visit the chapter house.

Mother Buckley would like to say "Hello" to you personally and extends her best wishes to you through the bulletin. Merton French

ZETA—UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN No letter received.

ETA—UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

During the past two months Eta has begun the publication of a newsletter, Phi Pi Phax, designed to inform alumni of current activities of the chapter and to promote greater interest in the fraternity. The paper, which is mimeographed, is distributed to all alumni, actives, chapters of Phi Pi Phi, and national officers. Phi Pi Phax has so far proved but an experiment but it has also proved pleasing to the alumni, several of whom have written to the chapter in praise of it. Robert F. Scheiber is editor.

It also gives Eta no little pleasure to know that Phi Pi Phax has received favorable comment from Lambda, and that the brothers at Case have had so much enterprise as to send their felicitations by radio. One of the Sigma Nu chapter here picked up the message on his receiving set and informed us of it. He is an amateur operator of no little ability and has offered to send a return message at such time as we may desire.

One of the best parties it has been the pleasure of the chapter to enjoy was given before the close of the fall quarter by the Mothers' Club. The party was attended by mothers and sons only, and culminated in a great surprise, the presentation of a Christmas gift from the mothers. The gift consisted of a handsome set of initiation robes, which will be given their first trial during the latter part of January when four pledges will be initiated.

Eta opened the winter quarter in an appropriate manner, holding an informal dancing party at the chapter house on January 3, the first day of school. The party was well attended, Merrill Bennion, genial alumnus, acting a sole patron. Mrs. Bennion was to have attended but a case of measles developed by one of the children kept her home. The chapter will hold a second dancing party on January 29 in honor of new initiates.

A review of scholastic averages of the brothers at the end of the fall quarter showed Alf Funk leading by a length or so in the competition for the chapter scholarship award. Funk's average was well above 2.6 while that of his nearest competitor was 2.4.

At present the brothers have a number of things to occupy their minds. Rushing of freshmen will begin in two months and many plans must be made for it. The chapter will also hold open house prior to the junior prom in February and is planning for the annual formal dinner dance in March.

THETA—UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

Theta has just completed another eventful semester. Our formal dance, held at the Montclair Country Club on November 19, the eve of the annual big game with Stanford, was a tremendous success, and was by far the most outstanding social function ever sponsored by the chapter. Forty-eight couples were swayed by the melodic strains of a ten piece orchestra, in an irresistible atmosphere created by giant oriental lanterns and a myriad of panels and draperies to match. Small wonder that one of the fellows decided right then and there that to remain single would be folly. Indeed, several of the brothers had that far-away look in their eyes which so often is the first sign of capitulation to the charms of feminine loveliness, and one really couldn't blame them a bit. Kenny Messenger and Hal Sorg, who handled the affair, were rewarded for their untiring efforts by the praise and thankful acknowledgment of those present.

Henry McFarland was recently selected as a candidate for the 1927 Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford, and Theta is quite proud of the honor. Brother McFarland is at present taking graduate work in political science.

Our Mothers' Club has now held several meetings and has a membership roll of nineteen. The meetings are held monthly at the chapter house, and the mothers living away from the bay region, and therefore unable to attend meetings, are kept constantly informed of plans by the secretary. The effect of the feminine touch which the mothers lend to the chapter house is already quite noticeable, and many plans have been made whereby they will continue to be of invaluable assistance to the fellows.

Warren Eveland, our chapter dean, was the fellow who "lost" his badge at the formal, and the lucky lady is none other than a sister of Hal Sorg, our Beau Brummel vice-president.

The names of Frank Misch in civil engineering, Pete Parker in economics, and Herb Mensing in political science, were included on the scholastic honor roll of the university, published in October.

Our versatile chapter president, Lee Groezinger, has been elected to the presidency of the Circle C society and successfully piloted the varsity soccer team to its first championship since 1920.

Frank Misch and Herb Mensing were on the Junior Day committee, and Brother Misch is also the new treasurer of the Circle C society. Stock Needham has received his appointment as an assistant soccer manager for 1927-28, and Anglo Bailey will undoubtedly receive a similar appointment in gymnastics.

Ty Eddy, who will be our rushing chairman for the spring semester, has won a place on the 130-pound basketball squad, and Irv McKee is going to make a mighty strong bid for a berth on the freshman crew. Ray Borgfeldt and Ty Eddy will also be sophomore baseball managers.

Johnny Ironside continues to represent the chapter on the inter-fraternity council, and besides is kept busy writing letters to the "only girl" away off in eastern Canada. Knight Biggerstaff lost his heart in Los Angeles, it seems, but Stu Carrier still insists that the presence of women is distractive to one coming to college to study. It is surely a great life if one doesn't weaken.

Theta extends its best wishes to our brother chapters for the New Year.

Theta chapter officers are: president, Lee Groezinger; vice-president, Kenny Messenger; secretary, Carl Schick; house manager and treasurer, Hal Sorg; sentinel, Stock Needham; chaplain, Knight Biggerstaff; dean, George Bennitt; alumni secretary and reporter, Herb Mensing.

IOTA—WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON COLLEGE

Since the last letter from Iota, we have pledged Rowland Reiner, St. Louis, and welcomed into brotherhood Donald Huxley, Baltimore, and Lester Olson, Trenton.

Brother John Pittenger, who is not attending school this year, has dropped in to pay the chapter a visit several times. Six of the brothers have been elected to membership on the college glee club.

Just for fun we threw three dances up until the time of writing this, and even now there are whispers of a crowning event to be tossed on St. Valentine's Day. The dance before the Christmas vacation was honored by the presence of Brother Dick Allen who left us four years ago to act as booking agent for the Redpath Lyceum bureau.

Brother Chuck Snyder recently paid us a flying visit.

Iota chapter extends its deepest sympathies to President Guhl whose father died during Christmas vacation.

Tubby Miller visited the house during the Christmas season and after various entanglements with sundry bed clothes departed a sadder but wiser youth.

LAMBDA—CASE SCHOOL OF APPLIED SCIENCE

With the final examinations staring the boys in the face, all is not joy around the house. The freshmen have been refused permission to do any night work outside of studying. When this crisis is over and no casualties result, everyone will breathe easier.

We have been very unfortunate in losing a good man, Koteles, through his inability to keep the dean satisfied. Outside of a few wayward frosh, the scholarship of the house is excellent. The actives stand second among the fraternities, and only one one-hundredth of a point behind the leaders. An extra strong spurt and we will lead.

A house party was held New Year's eve and most of the fellows attended the ringing out of the old year. Brothers Brooks from Yale and Morey, from Detroit, were guests at the function.

We are tangling with Mu chapter once again on Saturday evening on our basketball floor. The last meeting, which was on the gridiron, ended o-o. As we had a combined dance that same evening, it may have been for the best.

Brothers Mabry and Heiser are two of the twelve men on the basketball squad. This is Heiser's first attempt at the court game, and he is making good. He has been the mainstay of the fraternity team, and through his efforts we have managed to break into the win column in the interfraternity league.

Brother Reiff, aside from his duties at the house, is chairman of the interfraternity entertainment committee, and is a very useful and busy man.

Keen rivalry exists among the chess experts. Matthews is taking on all comers, and is going strong. The trouble with the chess games is that the spectators are soon doing all the playing for the players. Eaton and Ellms excel in this branch of indoor sport.

A father's night approaches and all extra cigars are being collected. The fertile brain of Brother Erickson will provide us with suitable suggestions for entertainment, and we expect to have Brother Monoghan here with his illustrated lecture on his trip around the world.

In closing, let us say that we are looking forward to greater prosperity for Phi Pi Phi this coming year.

H. G. Mabry

MU—BALDWIN-WALLACE COLLEGE

Social predispositions of Phi Pi Phi were evident when we assembled at the house on the evening of October 11, last. I wonder why cider and doughnuts taste so much better when one gets a bite of his partner's share? Freshman girls were quite in evidence since the sororities meet also on Monday night.

Guest night for the men of the freshman class was Monday, November I. It is perhaps significant to the brothers of Phi Pi Phi that all the male members of Theta Alpha Phi, the national honorary dramatic fraternity, are members of Mu chapter. Consequently, minor dramatic productions, interspersed with musical selections very favorably impressed our audience. We have eleven pledges of highest rank in the class intelligence tests given to all college entrants.

One week from pledging the neophytes were formally pledged at a steak dinner. At present they are pursuing the rudiments of fraternity education, while performing such duties as become neophytes under the able direction of Brother Wendell McKee, assistant dean of pledges.

Verily, Brothers, I say unto ye, if you don't have a brother on your faculty as our Brother Burns, professor of dramatics and debate, then you surely do miss his wife's cooking. Monday, November 22, saw the gang at their home conducting the regular business meeting. Mrs. Burns returned at 10:00 P.M. from her sorority meeting and then—we will remember that feed for a while yet. Here's to the Burns!

Friday, January 21, we danced at the Lakewood Country Club. A few members of Lambda chapter helped make the evening merry.

Thomas Surrarrer and Frank Lindow have parts in the play, "Anne Pedersdotter," presented January 21, in which two of our alumni, Carl England and Paul Mayer, have leading rôles.

Brothers Green, Henry, and Smith represent us on the basketball team.

Addison Wynne recently passed examinations to Annapolis Naval Academy. We're sorry he's leaving but expect at some future date he'll keep his country at peace with Nicaragua.

The presidents of the fraternities of Baldwin-Wallace met and have undertaken plans for reciprocal fraternity entertainments. We expect this to do much in furthering harmony among our fraternal organizations.

It's only three below zero here tonight. My ink has frozen up, so, au revoir, brothers, until next issue.

JOHN THOMPSON

LAMBDA

We are pleased to announce the initiation of Brothers Udy, Johnson, and Torreson, all alumni of our old local. Udy is located in London, Ontario, Canada, and Johnson has returned from Chicago to his home in Conneaut, Ohio. These two were initiated at an alumni gathering held on November 19, 1926, the night before the annual Case-Reserve football game. Torreson, who has recently returned from Australia. where he has been for the last two and a half years, was initiated on January 2, 1927. He will leave this country again on February 7, when he is going to Peru to find out some more about the earth's magnetic field for the Carnegie Foundation in Washington, D. C. His Peruvian address will be Huancavo Magnetic Observatory, Huancavo, Peru, where he will be located until early in 1929.

Brother Morey has returned from Detroit, where he was taking a course with the American Blower Company, and will be located in Cleveland hereafter. His address is 12412 Phillips Avenue.

John R. Martin, honorary member of Lambda on the Case faculty, has recently been made assistant professor in physics. He has been relieved of much of his class work, and will be engaged in research work, principally in the realm of acoustics and sound, under the direction of Professor Dayton C. Miller, world-renowned authority on sound, acoustics, and ether drift.

We understand that Brother Bayne, who has been in New Jersey for some months past, was sent rather unexpectedly to Louisiana. At present, his exact address is a mystery at the chapter house.

Brother Karl Keller is with the General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York, and is doing research work in the radio division which follows his undergraduate course. He is living at 103 Nott Street, and would be glad to hear from his friends.

Brother Muetzel is still with the Cleveland Union Terminal Company, working on the Union Station project.

Warren Brooks, who is doing postgraduate work at Yale while enjoying a teaching fellowship, visited the chapter during the holidays.

Mu

Brothers Joseph Henderson and Eugene Williams graduated from Boston Theological Seminary at the end of the first term in mid-year.

In the greatest array of alumni talent ever to perform at Baldwin-Wallace were Brothers Carl England and Paul Mayer, who had leading rôles in an alumni play presented at the college on January 21. These brothers made names for themselves in dramatic activities while in college. Brother Mayer is now doing postgraduate work at the Baldwin-Wallace Seminary, while Brother England as an instructor of English at Case, is attempting to broaden the minds of some of our scientist brothers of Lambda.

Brother Stiefel, pursuing postgraduate work at the University of Chicago, lives at 1357 E. 57th Street, and Brother Taliak, working out his M.D. at the University of Michigan, resides at 110 N. Thayer Street, Ann Arbor. These brothers would like to hear from their fraternal acquaintances.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Burch announce the marriage of their daughter, Lillian May, to Mr. William Hoag Kessler on Saturday January 15, 1927, at Berkeley, California. Brother Kessler is a member of Theta chapter.

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Bernice Schur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schur, of Kenilworth, Illinois, to Alfred H. Labahn, on December 30. Mrs. LaBahn is a member of the University of Illinois chapter of Delta Zeta. Brother LaBahn is a member of Delta chapter.

The marriage of Miss Evalonne Killian of San Francisco, California, to Laurance C. King on August 20, 1926, has been announced. Brother King is a member of Delta chapter. They are at home at 520 Buchanan St., San Francisco.

The engagements of Miss Gertrude Swisher of Cleveland, Ohio, to Virgil Jump; Miss Elizabeth Black Kent, Ohio, to Joe Henderson; Miss Ora Schmidt, of Wisconsin, to Walter Stiefel; Miss Margaret Paillon of Cleveland, Ohio, to Carl England, and Miss Lydia Roehm of Berea, Ohio, to Robert Lennox have been announced. All the men are members of Mu chapter.

The marriage of George Mayer on Christmas morning, 1926, has been announced. Brother Mayer is a member of Lambda chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. Elven K. Bauman have announced the arrival of Elven Kasper on December 21, 1926. The proud father was a charter member of Epsilon chapter.

The marriage of Russell Allen, Alpha, to Miss Cleone Lindquist has been announced. Brother Allen withdrew from Northwestern University last spring to assist his father, Judge Allen, in his successful campaign for reelection.

The engagement of Miss Helen Rutledge to Brother

The Magic of a Vanity

HE charming grace of the tri-arched lines delights the eye. Framed in an embellishment of richly chased design, the rose motif crescents an jorient lattice of white enamel. It is tastily fitted with both loose powder container and rouge, with puffs and mirror.

Beautiful—thin—compact and light—who can resist its charm, or the magic which its touch can give.

A beautiful colored folder of popular compacts has been prepared to assist you in your selection
