

Expansion in the 1990s: how far can the Phoenix fly?

— By Jeffrey R. Hoffman
N.C. State '76

One hundred and forty-five years ago, Alpha Sigma Phi's first expansion effort was born.

Early records of the Fraternity indicate that our effort at expanding beyond the mother chapter took place in 1847 when a group of Yale (Alpha Chapter) brothers launched Beta Chapter at Harvard University. Chapters quickly followed at Amherst/Massachusetts and on to Marietta, laying the groundwork for the national brotherhood we enjoy today.

From secret halls, and whispered passwords, to organized drives to recruit potential brothers on virgin campuses, Alpha Sigma Phi has always been blessed with a burning desire to share our brotherhood with young men throughout the nation.

Every year new chapters and expansion opportunities crop-up. Colonies are announced. And the curious classification of "interest group" is bantered about in the various national publications.

Some are familiar, as once closed chapters reactivate: Alpha Zeta (UCLA), Nu (UC-Berkeley) and Gamma Theta (Miami, FL).

Some are not, as new chapters and new brothers are welcomed: Delta Mu (William Paterson), Delta Pi (Delaware), Coastal Carolina Colony (University of South Carolina-Coastal Carolina) and numerous others.

But unlike the spirited growth of Greek Letter Societies in the first half of this century, charting Alpha Sigma Phi's growth into the next century takes a more studious and organized approach.

Expansion of the Fraternity—both of existing chapters and on new campuses—figures prominently in the Grand Council's seven key strategies to guide Alpha Sigma Phi's future. Last summer, as part of the Fraternity's advisory structure, a National Advisory Committee on Expansion was formed to develop a tactical plan to meet our ultimate goal of a strong and viable fraternity.

"Alpha Sigma Phi's Third Founding and the more recent generous gift of Howard L. Kleinoeder, Washington '35, Omega '90, gives us the financial base to pursue a truly organized expansion effort," says John R. Chaney, Indiana '67, Executive Vice President. "We may never again be as well positioned for growth as we are now."

While the funds generated from the Endowment do not directly support Alpha Sigma Phi's growth they do free up other financial resources for expansion. The gritty reality of sustaining present chapters and expanding onto virgin campuses requires a redoubling of efforts by the Grand Council, the national staff, and of alumni members around the country.

William F. "Biff" Matthews, Marshall '65, chairs the National Advisory Committee on Expansion and explains that two main goals are the driving force behind Alpha Sigma Phi's growth plans.

"It's as important that we maintain current chapter size at healthy levels while we carefully examine opportunities for new chapters," he says. "Alpha Sigma Phi only wants to be on the campuses where it makes the most sense for us to be—and where we'll be successful."

"That's why it's important for expansion efforts to work closely with chapter services and with the national alumni and volunteer committees to form a cohesive process for growth."

At the heart of this process is alumni involvement.

"There is no doubt in my mind that for a new chapter to be successful, active alumni involvement becomes a key ingredient," Matthews says. "It doesn't matter if the alumni are on the faculty or staff of the college, or if they are living and working in the surrounding community. Alumni members have always played an important role in bolstering the Fraternity's continuation and growth. And that's why our committee so enthusiastically endorses alumni participation as a criterion for expansion."

Six primary recommendations have been presented to the Grand Council by the National Advisory Committee on Expansion—some of which are now in place. These recommendations include:

- Sustaining steady growth of new chapters through the end of this decade, with a target milestone in 1995, Alpha Sigma Phi's sesquicentennial.
- Target a minimum number of members to be maintained in active chapters. This minimum is based on the average number of members of male fraternities on a specific campus.

- Hire an additional chapter leadership consultant and maintain a ratio of one leadership consultant to every 20 chapters and colonies.
- Hire a Director of Expansion.
- Produce a video to "sell" Alpha Sigma Phi.
- Develop a decision matrix of criteria for expansion.

Since the committee's report in 1991, a new Chapter Leadership Consultant has been hired and a Director of Chapter Services/Expansion has been appointed. Jeffery S. Owens, Illinois '87, wears those dual hats, with the expectation that a full-time staff expansion position be in place by July 1, 1993.

An important element to successful expansion is the development of a decision matrix that guides thinking about which campuses to expand to and why.

Neither Matthews or Owens claims that a matrix will be a predictor of chapter success, but once formed, it provides an organized set of measurable criteria against which every opportunity can be assessed.

"The decision matrix ensures that Alpha Sigma Phi's growth will be planned and not be totally reactive to potential opportunities," says Expansion Director Owens. "It provides a framework for growth that distinguishes our efforts to expand from those of other fraternities."

Heading the list of criteria included in the decision matrix are college or university support or approval of Alpha Sigma Phi's activities on campus; and, the opportunity for recruiting a strong chapter or faculty advisor.

"Having strong leadership from a chapter or faculty advisor can make a huge difference in the new chapter's success," says Matthews. He cites Expansion in the 90s; will we soar?

his own chapter—Beta Delta at Marshall University, which after a five year period was reactivated in the early 1980s and now consistently places among the top fraternities on campus. "I firmly believe that the support of chapter and faculty advisors and general alumni support have made significant contributions in the health of that chapter."

Other criteria in the decision matrix include:

- The quality, size and reputation of the institution;
- Having affordable group housing accessible to campus;
- Growing student populations, especially growth among males; and,
- Fitting geographically and logically into Alpha Sigma Phi's existing regional province system.

Executive Vice President Chaney explains that every opportunity for a new chapter is governed by a different set of circumstances making every attempt at gaining a chapter a new experience. "For instance," as he points out, "housing is neither practical nor desirable at all institutions where we might have an expansion interest."

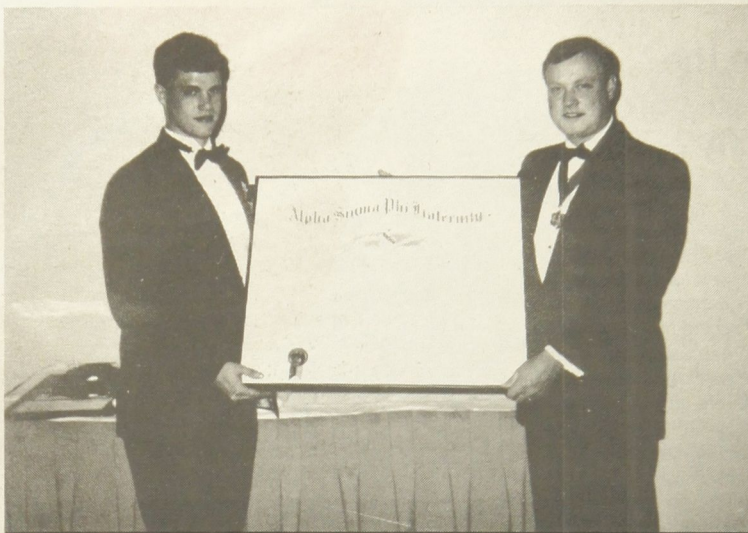

"One of the more exciting aspects of expansion is working with quality young men," Chaney continues. "It's exciting to see their enthusiasm and interest in getting organized, setting up a committee structure, and learning the ins and outs of rush. And it's gratifying to see their hard work pay off in the form of a new Alpha Sigma Phi chapter. I feel a particular affinity to emerging groups because I am the direct product of the 'Old Gals' expansion effort—having been a founder and chapter member of Gamma Chi Chapter at Indiana University," says the Executive Vice President.

Chaney and Owens spend much of their time contacting universities and cultivating relationships with administrations and with potential interest groups. "We only wish that our current undergraduate members would notify us of expansion opportunities. We are afraid that these members do not realize how vital they are to our expansion efforts," echoed both Chaney and Owens.

"Sometimes that means talking to an unaffiliated local group who has expressed interest in Alpha Sigma Phi," Owens says, "Other times that's working with a brother who has transferred to the campus or with local alumni who want to start or restart a chapter."

National Advisory Committee on Expansion Chairman Matthews points out that reactivations are also important.

"We're working with a few alumni groups now who are interested in restarting their old chapter," he says. "This provides excellent opportunities for growth because of having a motivated base of support right from the start."

Delta Pi's first HSP, Robert E. Baer, Delaware '91, receives the newly installed chapter's charter from Grand Senior President Charles J. Vohs, Penn State '75, on December 14, 1991 at a black tie ceremony. The chartering culminated three years of effort by the men to secure university recognition which allowed our first charter to be granted in the state of Delaware.

John Chaney indicates that presently, every reasonable opportunity is explored.

"But the framework provided by the National Advisory Committee on Expansion and their leadership ensures a cohesive pattern of growth for Alpha Sigma Phi in the coming years," he says. "Now it's the charge of every member to make it happen."

It's our charge to make it happen because woven throughout the entire process for expansion is an unflagging desire to share the Alpha Sigma Phi experience.

An experience that for an increasing number of men is born not in a chapter house, but in a meeting room, and nurtured by a few dedicated Fraternity staff members and alumni. For those who endure, it's an experience of brotherhood that lasts a lifetime. □

Expansion primer: the jargon

Fraternity expansion has a language and process all its own and can sound a little foreign to anyone from a traditional chapter setting. In the coming years you'll hear more about Alpha Sigma Phi's expansion progress, so we thought it might be helpful to understand the jargon.

An Interest Group is a formal group of at least fifteen or more men, either recruited or already existing on campus that has expressed a desire to become part of Alpha Sigma Phi. This could be a local fraternity with no ties to a national organization. Interest groups are recognized by Alpha Sigma Phi, but do not participate in any fraternity ritual.

A Colony is a group of no fewer than 25 men officially recognized by the host institution and affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi. Colony members are eligible for pledging and are taught about Alpha Sigma Phi's mission, "To Better The Man." Colonies have up to two years to meet standards for chapter status before a charter is granted.

A Reactivation is a re-chartering of an inactive chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi.

A Chartering is the ceremony of opening and formally recognizing a new group at an accredited host institution. A charter recognizes a chapter as having fulfilled all requirements imposed on it as a colony. Members are fully initiated in conjunction with a chartering ceremony. A charter allows the chapter full control of its plans and destiny so long as it operates within the framework of the National Constitution and By-Laws. A charter is requested via a comprehensive petition from the colony to the Grand Council.

Normally, 50 regularly enrolled undergraduate members of the colony must request the charter.

The National Advisory Committee on Expansion is one of seven key national advisory committees formed by the Grand Council to chart the course of the Fraternity's future. The National Advisory Committee on Expansion is responsible for providing guidance for new chapter growth, and by working with other elements of the Fraternity, to encourage the membership growth of existing chapters. The present chairman is William F. "Biff" Matthews, Marshall '65. The Director of Expansion is a fulltime Fraternity staff position dedicated to implementing expansion policy. This position is slated to be filled in 1993. Presently the function is handled by Jeffery S. Owens, Illinois '87, who also serves as Director of Chapter Services.

Brothers wishing to participate in expansion programs, or who have suggestions for good expansion opportunities are encouraged to contact Brother Chaney or Brother Owens at Fraternity Headquarters. □

Expansion, like brotherhood, is lifetime experience

— By Jeffrey R. Hoffman,
N.C. State '76

For me, expansion and Alpha Sigma Phi are forever entwined.

Unlike the vast majority of our brotherhood who enjoy traditional fraternity experiences, mine has always been part of the helter-skelter world of expansion. Yet it is through that experience, that the limitless spirit of Alpha Sigma Phi became more apparent than I ever imagined.

In the fall of 1974, the last vestiges of the Social Revolution were dying. The smoke was clearing from the long national nightmares of Vietnam and Watergate. And as young collegians, we were taught to distrust the institutions of this nation. Anti-establishment feelings were numbed by the Disco Revolution; and the Me-ism of the 1970s was in full swing.

Against this backdrop I was introduced to the ideals of Alpha Sigma Phi one evening by Evin C. Varner, Presbyterian '58, Omega '85. I was a freshman at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and a high school friend, Randy Lee, Wake Forest '74, had given Evin my name.

Membership in Alpha Sigma Phi—like in all fraternities—was at an all time low. A number of chapters had closed. Times were tough.

But a renewed interest in expanding the Fraternity was developing at the national level. While the Grand Council formulated an expansion policy, Evin Varner, then volunteer editor of The Tomahawk, in his typical fashion, attacked expansion with a vigor born only from his love of the Brotherhood.

UNCC became the first colony to be recognized by Alpha Sigma Phi in years and became the cornerstone for the expansion drive of the last quarter of this century.

From UNCC, Varner took the message of Alpha Sigma Phi to North Carolina State University, where another high school friend, Gary Gourley, NC State '77, spearheaded another new colony. After my freshman year, I left UNCC for NCSU and, though not yet a brother, maintained my ties to Alpha Sigma Phi.

For more than three years, UNCC and NCSU maintained colony status. We were not recognized by the Greek communities on campus as full fledged fraternities, but received marginal recognition as we competed for scholastic and athletic honors.

Alpha Sigma Phi represented, for most of us, an opportunity to shape history; to touch the lives of the men who would follow. But mostly, it was the first time that so many of us participated in something much larger than we.

Brotherhood developed a different meaning for us from that of probably most fraternity members. The first pledge classes at UNCC and NCSU were initiated at Gamma Lambda Chapter—then Atlantic Christian College—now Barton College. Alumni like Evin Varner and Mahlon Aycock, Barton '68, taught our classes and introduced us to the concept of lifetime brotherhood. And we learned to depend on each other as we struggled to find a way to Alpha Sigma Phi's unique niche on each campus.

But our first exposure to the universality of Alpha Sigma Phi came at a leadership conference held at Eta Chapter at the University of Illinois. There we pie-eyed boys from North Carolina saw how the Fraternity's ideals cross lines of race, religion, social status and wealth. We knew there could never be another fraternity as great as Alpha Sigma Phi.

My college career caused me to transfer once again—as a junior—to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Not yet initiated as a brother in Alpha Sigma Phi, I was given the option to end my relationship with hearty thanks and the freedom to pursue membership in another fraternity.

I chose the Mystic Circle. And during the early winter of 1976, I traveled to Wake Forest University for initiation ceremonies. At the time, neither UNCC or NCSU had received their charters and I joined the rare ranks of Member-at-Large.

Chapel Hill, with its imposing Greek system, proved to be too tough to crack for becoming involved in a third colony.

Alpha Sigma Phi's expansion policy became focused, with a stronger vision for growth. The Grand Council, with George Lord, Ohio Wesleyan '61, and, later, Richard Dexter, Oregon State '60, at the helm, added the position of expansion consultant to the professional staff. Three key policies were developed to guide expansion, including looking for appropriate opportunities, concentrating on reactivations, and focusing the majority of our efforts in the southeastern United States.

After graduation, I became the second expansion consultant with fulltime responsibilities to evaluate where, when and how Alpha Sigma Phi would grow. During the next two years I visited more than 60 campuses around the country—a few in the role as chapter consultant—and almost all looking for ways to expand.

Frequently, I was dropped onto a campus with the job of courting the administration and with organizing the initial group that would one day become Alpha Sigma Phi.

From information booths in student unions, to knocking cold on dorm room doors, the message of Alpha Sigma Phi was sold to exceptional young men, possessing the intangible quality to understand the intangibles of fraternity—of something greater than themselves.

Radford, Longwood, Tulane, Miami, Missouri, Marshall, East Carolina, UCLA, Berkeley, all became part of or were re-chartered into Alpha Sigma Phi as a result of a massive mobilization of Fraternity staff, the Grand Council and alumni volunteers during these early years of expansion.

With Gary Anderson, Westminster '71, Omega '86; Kevin Garvey, Westminster '75; and Rob Sheehan, Westminster '76, acting as executive directors for the fraternity staff; with the effort of Richard Gibbs, Oklahoma '51; Stan Miller, Purdue '64; and Peter Tourtellot, American '57, and with Bob Cabello, Eastern Michigan '70; Bob Kutz, California '67; Garrett Riegg, California '66; Don Blevins, Marshall '70, and countless others, the continuance of Alpha Sigma Phi was ensured.

And the ideals of our national brotherhood remain intact. □

Chapter leadership consultants hired for 1992-93

David C. Gatzke
U.C.L.A. '89

Mark R. Winston
Oregon State '88

Two Chapter Leadership Consultants have been hired for the 1992-93 school year. After an extensive search and interviewing process, Brothers David C. Gatzke, U.C.L.A. '89 and Mark R. Winston, Oregon State '88 will join America's Premier Fraternity's professional staff in the next year.

Dave, a history major who graduated in June with a GPA of 3.64, has been involved in his chapter as well as on the U.C.L.A. campus. For his chapter, he has served as Vice President, Rush Chairman, Black & White Chairman, and as the delegate to the 1989 National Leadership Conference. He also served as a National Leadership Conference Coordinator in 1990.

His activities on campus are equally impressive. He has written as a columnist for the Daily Bruin, the student newspaper, has been involved in U.C.L.A. Partners in Learning, and has been a U.C.L.A. Student Recruiter. Dave has also served as IFC Second Vice President (Programming), IFC Risk Management Educational Conference Chairman, and as an Intern for the UCLA Office of Fraternity and Sorority Relations. As you can see, Dave will be bringing a wealth of knowledge and experience to your Fraternity's staff.

Mark graduated in December with a degree in Business Management and a minor in Speech Communications. His GPA was 3.13. He, too, was very active in his chapter and on his campus at Oregon State. He served Psi Chapter as President, Vice-President, Informal Rush Chairman, Marshal, IFC Representative, Song Chairman, and Pledge Class President. His activities on campus included membership in Thanos (men's sophomore service honorary), and Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma academic honoraries. He also acted as Greek Week Activities Chairman for Comedy Night. Mark will be a tremendous asset and addition to the professional staff of your fraternity.

Mark and Dave will travel, along with Brother Ed Lenane, SUNY-Plattsburgh '88, during the next school year. They will go through an intensive development program in the summer that will prepare them for visiting chapters, and they will also assist in the execution of the upcoming National Leadership Conference & Convention this August in Charlotte, NC. □

Mystic Circle welcomes Delta Pi

"After three long years of hard work trying to work within the Greek system we have received full recognition at the University of Delaware."

This is an excerpt from a note that Mark Robinson, my predecessor in the job of HSP, sent me last spring just before I was elected. It was easy to see from the relaxed appearance of his handwriting that he was relieved that the goal he had set for us in the beginning of his term had been realized. This is the same feeling I had on December 14, 1991. The group of men that had naively begun their journey toward initiating the changes they saw necessary in the Greek system were recognized and installed as the Delta Pi Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi. For the alumni and brothers of this chapter it is a night that they will each remember forever.

The chartering banquet was a huge success and we thank all of those brothers who were able to return for this momentous occasion. Held on December 14, 1991 at the Wilmington, Delaware Radisson, the entire night was highlighted by the entertaining and wacky antics of Brother Christopher Sharkey, the master of ceremonies for the evening. Present were representatives from area chapters and Fraternity Headquarters. Among them were Grand Senior President Charles J. Vohs, Penn State '75, Executive Vice President John R. Chaney, Indiana '67, Chapter Leadership Consultant Thomas W. Stroffolino, William Paterson '89, and Grand Province Chief Craig Snyder, Penn State '85. Among the four representatives from Delta Lambda Chapter at Stockton State was Grand Chapter Advisor John H. Luckenbill, Stockton State '84. The night included dinner, dancing, and of course, the presentation of the charter.

Before we received our charter I had been warned about this phenomena called the post-chartering-blues that targets new chapters while they are still enjoying the fruits of their labor. My answer to this—"It'll never happen while I'm in charge." While it is good to be confident in your abilities it is also wise to heed fair warning. You can probably guess what happened next. Yep! Early in the spring semester, not even a full sixty days past chartering, the dreaded post-chartering-blues hit and they hit hard. Luckily, we woke up from our chartering slumber and realized what was going on. For the last year we had not done anything but work toward this charter. The word fraternity had become synonymous with hard work and at the same time distanced itself with the words fun and social. We set new goals for ourselves such as obtaining a house and strengthening our brotherhood through socials and brotherhood programs. We put the fun back into the word fraternity.

Since this early spring turn around, our brotherhood has flourished and is quickly on its way to becoming a leading force in the Greek system at the University of Delaware. We have just finished an impressive first performance in the Greek Games and are in the planning stages of our fall rush as well as our Second Annual Racquet Ball for Cancer philanthropy project which we plan to double the size of this year.

Grand Senior President offers his "Message" of Fraternity

I think it is a fair statement to say that the fraternity world is engaged in a bit of soul searching. A main theme at last December's National Interfraternity Conference in Atlanta centered around the question, "What is the message of fraternity?" In general, the answer seemed to be friendship. Well yes, but not really. I'd say a lukewarm answer at best. Does anyone need fraternity to have friendship? Or is there something much deeper and more profound than that?

For the uninitiated, friendship is a good beginning. But fraternity really has to be much more than that to be viable. Friendship implies a caring relationship with one or more individuals. Fraternity needs to be a caring relationship with individuals in a community, a community with common values, morals, ethics and standards for the way we live. Fraternity is lifestyle, just as it is handed down to us from our founders through ritual.

Being fraternity in today's world of menu morality and ethical ambiguity isn't easy. Our founders lived during a time when values were more homogenized, life more intimate, mortality more real. Being in a fraternity then was like recreating the family left back home, bringing forward the comfort of being surrounded by the love of people who cared about you, people who challenged you to grow, people who believed in you, people who reminded you of what was most important in life. Fraternity then was family, bolstering the discovery of self and of others, expanding the mind, building confidence. Ritual expressed these values brought the long distance from home, values deemed to be timeless, life giving, essential.

Good fraternities offer friendship, excellent fraternities offer family. Alpha Sigma Phi is a family. Family is formative, fraternity is no less. Alpha Sigma Phi is a sanctuary where many of us may discover for the first time what our founders already knew when they arrived at Yale, what they enshrined for future generations in ritual. As pledges and then as brothers each of us brings to fraternity our former experiences of family. Whatever those experiences may be, Alpha Sigma Phi must be a home where diverse brothers can be themselves, free to express their thoughts and feelings, a place where beliefs and attitudes are not knocked, where we treat each other gently, with respect. We should be free to come forward and talk frankly to each other when we are afraid that behavior is present which may be harmful to ourselves or to others. We need to see that we care about each other, listen to each other and try hard to understand each other. It is amazing at how often someone else's way of looking at things can change us. We should feel good being with each other, always having someone around to help us, to confide in, to bounce something off of, to cheer us on, someone always including us in their plans. We very often learn something new every time we are with a brother. We never need to feel lonely. Brothers need to love each other, and not be afraid to show it. Because of brothers, we needn't feel so afraid of the world. We can feel more confident being around other people, and more ready to deal with whatever the future may bring.

Family should bring peace of mind, sense of self and the security of knowing we are valuable, unique and needed. Family should be personal growth and development, working together to meet the needs of the individual. Family is taking responsibility for each other, being intimate and unified. Everything we do to foster an environment for this magic to happen is good. Anything we do to hinder it is tragic. After all, what do we mean when we say we are the fraternity "To Better The Man?"

Yes, fraternity is family. Alpha Sigma Phi is family. One day the rest of the world may catch on. Wouldn't that be a great revelation? ☐

THE TOMAHAWK

From The Tommy Archives

From time to time The Tomahawk will take a look back at some of the interesting features from Fraternity publications done by previous editors. This is second in that series.

May 1917

Xi Chapter's new house at Nebraska was the lead story. Wayne Montgomery Musgrave's presentation to the Washington Continental Guard entitled "Socialism in its Relation to American Ideals" was also included.

An editorial discussed "The Great Crisis" and the "patriotic response to the action of Congress in declaring a state of war between this country and Germany . . ." It was noted that many colleges would be compelled to close their doors at the end of the year due to the large percentage of male students who were offering their services to the country.

The Mystic Circle featured news from all 18 chapters of the fraternity as well as the Detroit, Cleveland, and Akron Alumni Councils.

The Quarterly of Phi Pi Phi (Spring Edition 1927)

The feature was "California Then And Now" and discussed the state's institutions of higher education. An article discussing new selection methods for pledging men to various fraternities included the following quote by Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men at the University of Illinois, "I have always claimed that if some member of each organization, with nothing else to occupy his time, should be sent to a cross street with the buttons (pledge pins) in his pocket and should pledge the first dozen freshmen who came his way, he would run in a better bunch scholastically and socially than is done by the present complicated process."

April 1942

The College Fraternity and the War, a special report of the War Committee from the National Interfraternity Conference was featured. "The declaration of war by the United States against Japan, Germany and Italy brought new and serious problems to North America's 2,500 fraternity chapters. Brother Ray Eliot, Illinois '38, head football coach at his alma mater, dined at the chapter house. Brother John Trutter, Illinois '39 was Toast Master for the evening.

Alpha Sigma Phi headquarters moved the national offices to 42 Broadway in the heart of New York City's financial district.

The Alpha of Alpha Kappa Pi (April 1942)

The all AKPi basketball team was announced. The demise of fraternities which once flourished was discussed. Grand Treasurer Frank J. Krebs, Mount Union '29 wrote an article which outlined "The Fraternity Dollar." The initiation fee was $18 and represented 62 percent of the total income. A National Interfraternity Conference released survey showed that "fraternity men rank higher in scholarship than non-fraternity men in the United States for the twelfth consecutive year." Twenty-nine active chapters were listed on the AKPi rolls.

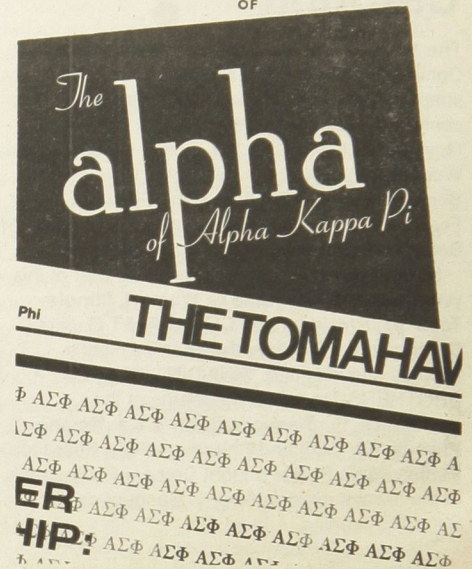

April 1967

"Education for Excellence" was announced as the theme of the 1967 National Education Conference at Purdue University. Brother Lowell Riley, Ohio Wesleyan '32 was congratulated for arranging and directing the new album, "Songs of Alpha Sigma Phi" which was offered at $5.00.

Spring 1982

"Seeking the greater circle" was the theme for the 1982 National Convention held at Bethany College, West Virginia. Keynote speaker for the event was Brother Robert Sheen, Lehigh '30. The return of Alpha Kappa Pi's old Alpha Chapter as our Alpha Rho Chapter at NJIT was featured.

Also included was an article about Mr. Albert Hughes Wilson, an interfraternal Sigma Nu brother who "helped build Alpha Sigma Phi." Grand Senior President Richard Gibbs, Oklahoma '51 and his lady Ann travelled more than 50,000 miles on behalf of the "old gal" during his tenure. An article featuring Brother Willard Scott, American '53 and his entry into broadcasting with Brother Ed Walker, American '53, "the joy boys" was of interest. The fraternity's quiz asked, other than Delta Chapter which has been in continuous operation since 1860, what is the second oldest chapter in continuous existence. Solicitation of alumni gifts was made in order to publish the Fraternity's much heralded membership manual, To Better The Man.

The headline banner read "Volunteer Leadership: the heart of the 'Old Gal' and various articles detailed our role model volunteers. The Evin C. Varner Society at Illinois State was officially recognized as a colony. □

The Delta Beta Xi Key, a replica of the Delta Beta Xi badge worn by Alpha Chapter from 1864 to 1875, recognizes outstanding service to the Fraternity. It may be worn only by award recipients of Delta Beta Xi. No more than 10 men are named to Delta Beta Xi each year by the Grand Council, based on nominations by chapters.

Outstanding service awards; Delta Beta Xi Class of 1991

In 1938, the special award of Delta Beta Xi was created by the Grand Council to recognize and honor those men who have given outstanding service to the Fraternity. This unusual and signal honor recalls the period from 1864 to 1875. Members of Delta Beta Xi in those days secretly pledged their allegiance to Alpha Sigma Phi. Their courage kept the traditions of the Fraternity alive. Meet the 1991 recipients of Delta Beta Xi:

Dr. Douglas E. Collins, Penn State '64, Upsilon Corporation volunteer for 18 years.

Douglas E. Collins, Penn State '64, is an oral and maxillofacial surgeon in State College, Pennsylvania and is richly deserving of the honor of Delta Beta Xi. He has served two years as President of the Upsilon Alumni Corporation Board and a member of the board for a total of 18 years. He was President and founding member of the Penn State Alumni Interfraternity Council and Vice President and founding member of the Nittany Lion's Fraternity Association. Consistently a tremendous financial supporter of Upsilon Chapter, Brother Collins has given numerous presentations to the undergraduate membership on the effects of drugs and alcohol and the results of their use as seen through his experiences as a surgeon.

Brother Collins became the nineteenth brother from Upsilon Chapter to receive the Delta Beta Xi Award on December 4, 1991 at a special Founders' Day Celebration Dinner in State College, PA.

James M. Cordi, U.C.L.A. '64, received his Delta Beta Xi award on January 21, 1992. Brother Cordi, Deputy Attorney General of the State of California, had been a major participant in maintaining the Alpha Zeta Corporation as an ongoing organization during the inactivity of Alpha Zeta Corporation from 1971 to 1984. He served for many years prior to 1980 as secretary of the Alpha Zeta Corporation Board of Directors. From 1980 through 1990, he has served continuously as either president or treasurer of the board.

Brother Cordi was active in the recolonization effort at U.C.L.A., including presiding officer of many pledge ceremonies and participant in the initiation of the charter members of the 1984 rechartering class. Brother Cordi has also served as Grand Chapter Advisor or Co-Grand Chapter Advisor from the rechartering through 1990. He is the twentieth recipient of Delta Beta Xi from the U.C.L.A. chapter.

John B. Gibson, Jr., Indiana '85, was surprised during Homecoming 1991 festivities, becoming only the fifth Gamma Chi Brother to receive the Delta Beta Xi Award. Brother Gibson, an account executive with Indiana Bell, has been an unlimited resource for Gamma Chi Chapter. Upon his graduation from college, Brother Gibson worked for the Fraternity Headquarters for one year before returning to Indianapolis. He quickly became Grand Chapter Advisor for Gamma Chi Chapter and held that position for two years. Brother Gibson then became more involved in the operations of the Alumni Corporation as a director. He was constantly involved in improving programs provided by the board for the undergraduate chapter and remained in close contact. In 1990, Brother Gibson became President of the newly formed Indiana Alumni Association, and in 1991 he was appointed chairman of the national advisory committee for undergraduate housing.

Brother Gibson has offered his expertise at every National Leadership Conference since his graduation from college with presentations on everything from improving chapter programming and rush to public relations. Brother Gibson, with many other Gamma Chi Brothers, was instrumental in the plan to build the new $1.8 million chapter house for Gamma Chi Chapter.

Howard Kidd, Rutgers '54, was nominated as the most outstanding alumnus that Beta Theta Chapter has ever seen. He became alumni corporation treasurer immediately upon his graduation in 1957. Since then he has faithfully served as treasurer for nearly 35 years and remains in that position today. He attends all alumni corporation meetings and also represents Beta Theta Chapter at all Alumni Interfraternity Council Meetings.

Among many other things, Brother Kidd was responsible for the addition and renovation for the chapter house which doubled its capacity. He has been there for the chapter through good times and bad. After the chapter strayed from the fraternity's meaning two years ago, Brother Kidd helped put them back on the right track, on their current road to success.

Brother Kidd was very surprised on November 9, 1991 when unbeknownst to him, Ralph F. Burns, Ohio Wesleyan '32, stood up to give general comments about the fraternity and proceeded to present the Delta Beta Xi Award. He is only the fourth recipient of Delta Beta Xi from Beta Theta Chapter.

Jeffrey L. Lewis, Rio Grande '77, is the essence of Delta Epsilon Chapter. He fills many roles with the undergraduates and alumni. If there is one brother that everyone knows at Rio Grande it is Brother Jeff Lewis.

He attends all chapter meetings and ceremonies, supporting the undergraduates with his advice. He participates in chapter philanthropies and is always there for the chapter or for individuals whenever he is needed. Brother Lewis is like a father, counselor, role model, contributor, educator and advisor. He became the second brother from Delta Epsilon Chapter to receive the Delta Beta Xi Award which was presented to him on December 8, 1991.

Robert N. Sum, Purdue '52, has found plenty of time for Alpha Sigma Phi throughout the years—even though he is a father of five sons. He has been a member of the Alpha Pi Alumni Corporation for over 25 years and almost never missed a meeting, driving three and one half hours to campus each time. When it was decided that a new chapter house was needed in the 1960's Brother Sum was instrumental on the building committee to develop those plans, work with the contractors, and ensure that a quality home would be built for future Alpha Sigs. Brother Sum, along with Robert Allen, Purdue '43, also spearheaded the fundraising efforts for the new chapter house. They exceeded their goal for funding the new house and a manageable mortgage became possible.

Brother Sum served three terms as corporation president including the one when the chapter house was being built. It was through his leadership, insight, organizational ability and dedication to the Fraternity that the alumni board is as well positioned as it is today.

Brother Sum is the twelfth Alpha Pi brother to receive Delta Beta Xi.

Robert A. Wade, Bowling Green '83, is currently an attorney with Jones, Day, Reavis & Pogue in Columbus, Ohio. He came to Zeta Chapter at Ohio State to become Grand Chapter Advisor immediately after graduating from law school. After his first year as the advisor, it was determined that a chapter reorganization was necessary. With one member remaining, the challenge was underway, requiring him to sometimes be at the chapter house nearly every day.

Today, Zeta Chapter at Ohio State boasts a membership that is one of the strongest in its history and is continually growing. Brother Wade has served as a member of the National Committee on Scholarship and as a presenter at the National Leadership Conference on the all important topic of risk management. Brother Wade was surprised to receive the Delta Beta Xi Award on November 24, 1991, at a special meeting of the chapter's alumni association and

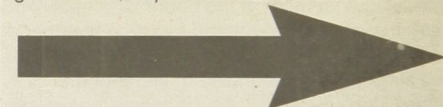

Alpha Sig Connections provides brothers assistance

Brothers currently looking for positions are listed below according to position desired. Please review categories that may be similar to positions you are wishing to fill. If you find a potential candidate, contact the Fraternity Headquarters for a copy of the person's resume, without obligation. If further information beyond the resume is desired, then you may contact the candidate directly.

Any brothers with position openings are asked to forward the information to the Headquarters so that it may be passed along to potential Alpha Sig candidates.

Brothers wishing to participate in the listings should contact the Fraternity headquarters for the proper forms to be filed. Alpha Sigma Phi does not charge any fees for the program. housing corporation, making him recipient number four from the Bowling Green Chapter. It was a day never to be forgotten.

The special award of Delta Beta Xi honors those men who have given outstanding service to the fraternity. Each year the Grand Council may select up to ten brothers to receive the award. Nominations for the 1992 award of Delta Beta Xi may be sent to the Fraternity Headquarters no later than July 1, 1992. □

THE TOMAHAWK SIG-POSIUM

From time to time brothers write to Headquarters to express the impact Alpha Sigma Phi has made on their lives. Some letters have been edited due to space limitations. All letters are personally answered by the editor. We welcome hearing from our Brothers and encourage you to write.

Mr. Charles J. Vohs
Grand Senior President

Brother Vohs,

Greetings from New England and a hopeful wish that your holidays were memorable. Although my chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi (Gamma, University of Massachusetts) was "disbanded" shortly after I graduated in 1966 due to a lack of facility, I still fondly cherish the memories and experiences of my brotherhood there. Although I keep in very close contact with a few select brothers, I miss the opportunity to go to my class reunions and meet with those brothers I am no longer in touch with. Consequently, I read The Tomahawk with a bit of nostalgia and I was very excited to read about the premier National Leadership Conference.

I am an airline pilot, formerly with Eastern Airlines and now with the (USAir) Shuttle where I direct the company's program on Cockpit Resource Management. Few people are aware that over the last three decades, over 70% of all airline accidents were due either primarily or in part to the inability of the crew to function as an effective team. Consequently, the FAA has mandated training in the softer issues of Human Factors including how to be a more effective leader/manager and follower.

I feel that what I teach is right up the alley of what the Leadership Conference is all about and I am writing to see what the possibility is for me to be one of the speakers at the next Conference. I could certainly adapt my knowledge to the level of college students.

Over the years, I have truly benefitted from the "Old Gal's" goal "To Better The Man." I had some incredibly good times, but I also learned a lot more about life than I learned at the campus. This would be a nice opportunity to pay back some fond debts. Looking forward to hearing from you.

Fraternally,

Dear Alpha Sigma Phi Headquarters,

I am writing this letter to thank you for the recognition bestowed upon myself as Alpha Sigma Phi Scholar of the Year. This award has served as an immense source of inspiration, recognition and pride for myself and the Brothers at Beta Xi. While I realize I am thanking you much after the fact, do not for one moment believe we take the award for granted. In fact, we are quite thankful and impressed at all of the effort invested by National into its members and brotherly relations with National. While the award itself is not to be overlooked, I have realized the true great accomplishment in my life has been participation in Alpha Sigma Phi. Thank you again.

Fraternally yours,

Sanjay Pyare

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following three submissions were received in response to a call for letters of impression concerning a recent Grand Council session from our appointed undergraduate representatives to our body. Brother Warren Smith is the representative to the Alumni Operations Committee, Brother Ray Hutchison serves on the Undergraduate Operations Committee and Brother Kevin Gates is on the Finance Committee.)

From Brother Hutchison:

I am Raymond Hutchison of the Delta Mu Chapter at William Paterson College. I was recently appointed to the Undergraduate Operations Committee of the Grand Council. As part of this committee, my purpose is to give an undergraduate point of view of the Fraternity's operations to the Grand Council. I give the Grand Council a different viewpoint to consider before they make decisions concerning undergraduates.

Before the first meetings on January 31-February 2, 1992, I did not know what the Grand Council was really all about. I thought the Grand Council was a group of "older" brothers who ran the Fraternity the way that they saw fit, far apart from the undergraduate input at all. Needless to say, I was very misinformed. On that weekend I met a group of brothers who, in my eyes, defined the Fraternity in every way. These men are gentlemen and scholars who are filled with brotherly love.

Over the last weekend in January, I brought many grievances from a few different chapters and hoped that they might be addressed. As I made these grievances known to the members of the Grand Council, I saw genuine concern and empathy in their eyes and through their subsequent actions I saw they really cared and were concerned.

The only downfall I saw about the Grand Council in the short time I met with them is that they have a very bad identity crisis. Meaning, they need to convey to the undergraduates and all the brothers the same attributes I saw. Rather than being known as the group of old men who yell when undergraduates do something wrong, they deserve the more empathetic and caring image that they truly have. I also feel that the undergraduates need to go to the conference this summer and meet the Grand Council for themselves—meet them halfway and form your own opinion.

I truly think that my position is a very valuable asset to all the undergraduates, and if there are any issues that you or your chapter would like addressed to the Grand Council, please go to the conference or let me know.

—Raymond H. Hutchison,
William Paterson '90

From Brother Gates:

My position on the Grand Council is the Undergraduate Representative to the Finance Committee. During the weekend, the committee dealt with a number of issues. We looked at the current budget and the proposed budget for next year. We discussed chapters with outstanding debts as well as properties that the corporation currently owns. Two of the major issues were publications and the lease of a new headquarters. We voted to stand behind the undergraduates' wishes and avoided a budget deficit. Moving expenses would have put us in that position, and we sent the budget back to staff for some options. Insurance was another topic that was discussed. We favored the idea of an incentive program; reward chapters with good risk management policies by giving them lower rates. The committee also agreed on having a chapter responsible for the first one thousand dollars of a claim. This is an effort to avoid frivolous claims and encourage chapters to enforce risk management policies.

On Saturday night, my room had the honor of being the hospitality suite. This is where I really got to know the rest of the Grand Council and the Foundation Trustees. We listened to Bob Cabello's tale of a student at his college, and we heard some of the horror stories of consultant travel.

THE TOMAHAWK SIG-POSIUM

A group of us were talking about the different awards that are handed out, and a question came up about one of them. No one had the answer but we knew that it was in the To Better The Man. Steve Zizzo, Vice President for Development, started asking people if they had their copy with them. Everyone laughed and said that they forgot to pack theirs until he asked Al Wise, an Educational Foundation Trustee. Al said that he always had his To Better The Man with him. We were all shocked and Steve asked to see it. Al said that his To Better The Man was right here and proceeded to point to his heart. I guess that is the best way to describe the members of the Grand Council. They truly represent all the ideals and principles of the Fraternity. The To Better The Man is not a manual to them, it is a way of life. They have problems just like the chapters do. We may deal with risk management and date rape while they battle mortgage payments and hair loss. They understand what we are going through because they have been there before and they want to help us in any way they can.

— Kevin Gates,
N.J.I.T. '88

From Brother Smith:

Out of all my offices held, contacts made and committees served, my weekend in Columbus serving the Grand Council has meant the most to me. This was a great honor and it was something I will never forget. As an undergraduate and before my experiences with the Grand Council, I saw the Grand Council as a group of men who were the ones that put undergraduates on probation, took charters away, and a group of men who came from perfect chapters. By the end of the weekend I saw the Grand Council as my friends, my brothers and the Governing Body of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

My personal input during our Joint Alumni Operations Committee Meeting was very minimal due to the respect that I had for the others on my committee. This first meeting was a learning experience for me, but you better believe, I will have some input at the next Grand Council meeting.

In an overview of the whole weekend, I felt some of the meetings were a little long. Maybe a Prudential Committee of some sort should be set up: who knows? The only thing that disappointed me was that I did not get a chance to see the city of Columbus or The Ohio State University which I understand is one of the biggest schools in the nation. As an athlete I do a lot of traveling but never get to "see the city" which I thought I might be able to do during that weekend.

In conclusion, the weekend was wonderful and I can't tell you in words how much it meant to me. That weekend definitely brought me one step closer to being all I can be as a member of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Update on board actions

Between the biennial sessions of the Convention, the Fraternity's affairs are presided over by the Grand Council. In an endeavor to keep our constituency abreast of the actions of the Grand Council, the following are major actions undertaken by your Fraternity's officers during the past several months.

Grand Council:

- Granted a re-charter request from the Gamma Pi Colony at the University of Findlay.
- Granted colony status to the University of South Carolina—Coastal Carolina College.
- Revoked the Gamma Omicron Chapter at Tulane charter for lack of compliance with requirements.
- Dropped SUNY-Buffalo Colony for failure to attain required standards.
- Required three chapters to address perceived image problems and/or drug related issues or face subsequent sanctions.
- Notified one chapter to return to their campus in the fall with 30 undergraduate members or submit a plan to address their membership problem.

- Required colonies to meet chartering standards within two years or be dropped as a recognized colony.

- Amended the 50 undergraduate member requirement for colonies to be approved for charter to include an exception if the Chief Student Affairs Officer supports a request for a lower membership number or if the average fraternity chapter size on the campus is below 50. In no case, can a colony become chartered with less than 30 undergraduate members.
- Approved a lease in order to move the national headquarters and readjusted the budget to support it.
- Requested a resolution to return The Tomahawk as a life-time entitlement for all members, including those initiated after September 1, 1980 who were only guaranteed seven years free subscription.
- Approved required financial actions submitted by the Educational Foundation.

Educational Foundation

- Reviewed written information and reports submitted by three investment managers.
- Reviewed mid-year financial statements.
- Previewed 1992-93 budgets.
- Interviewed and selected fundraising counsel.
- Donated $500 to support C.H.U.C.K. (Eileen Stevens' Committee to Halt Useless College Killings educational program) and $1,000 to support the National Interfraternity Foundation's educational programs.

Alumni News & Notes

Welcome back, Gamma Pi!

The Gamma Pi Chapter at the University of Findlay held its re-chartering banquet on Sunday, March 29, at the Student Union on campus. It was a great success as it was attended by dozens of alumni and guests in addition to Executive Vice President John R. Chaney, Indiana '67 and Grand Secretary Robert G. Cabello, Eastern Michigan '70.

It was a very emotional experience for the members of the chapter as they were presented with the charter, baby blanket and Alpha badge. It was also an emotional time for the alumni as they witnessed the reopening of their chapter, which had been closed since 1982.

The banquet capped off an eventful weekend for Gamma Pi. There was a reception at the house Saturday afternoon which was followed by a social gathering at the Findlay Inn. The alumni-sponsored gathering lasted well into the night. Events picked up again early on Sunday morning as the 38 members went through the initiation ceremony conducted with a 21 member Gamma Pi alumni ritual team which was augmented by chapter representatives from Bowling Green and Rio Grande. Bowling Green's HA, John Asendorf, ensured that the ceremony, from a ritualistic breakfast through the various scenes was performed in a flawless and most impressive manner. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the chapter house.

The undergraduate brothers of the Gamma Pi Chapter wish to express their great appreciation to all of those who aided in the process of their re-chartering. It was a process which required much hard work by the members but would still never have been possible without all of the outside support.

In conclusion, the 17 month period from conception, to interest group and colony recognition, to the chartering resulted in an unsurpassable sense of total accomplishment. □

(Left) HSP Barry D. Alspach, Findlay '92, displays the Alpha Sig "baby blanket" presented at the recent re-chartering of the Gamma Pi Chapter, University of Findlay. The baby blanket was passed from the Delta Pi Chapter, University of Delaware, to commemorate Gamma Pi's status as our newest chapter. (Below) Members of the Gamma Pi Chapter show some of the chartering paraphernalia. In addition to the charter, the new chapter was also presented with the "Alpha Badge," a direct lineage to the Yale mother chapter, which will remain in their possession until a new chapter is installed.

The Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation has received two bequests from brothers in the past school year. Unfortunately, the arrangements for the gifts were not known prior to these brothers entering Omega Chapter, and Alpha Sigma Phi did not have the opportunity to personally thank these brothers for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

Laurence Meredith Ackley, Chicago '20, Omega '91, left a gift of $1,000 upon his passing into Omega Chapter. Brother Ackley was originally from Rock Island, Illinois, attained his degree in Business from the University of Chicago in 1923. As a student, he served as a member of the freshman council, three quarters club, and reporter for the school newspaper. His last place of residence was Atlanta, Georgia. He was the brother of Robert Eugene Ackley, Chicago '21. His gift will be added to the general endowment of the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation for the benefit of generations of brothers to come.

John V. Feeney, Penn State '33, Omega '91, made a bequest for the Upsilon Chapter Endowment fund in the amount of $2,000. Brother Feeney was from Ralston, Pennsylvania and graduated from Canton High School in 1931 with the highest grade point to that date. After a year at Bucknell University, he transferred to Penn State in 1932, joined Alpha Sigma Phi in 1933, and graduated in 1935. He went back to Ralston to teach at the Ralston High School until 1938 when he was appointed statistician for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation and then on to Harrisburg, PA, with the Department of Labor & Industry, Bureau of Research and Statistics. He retired in 1978 as Employment Security Executive in Marketing Systems. He was the husband of the late Hazel McCowan of Williamsport.

These two brothers will forever be recognized as brothers of the Manigault Society, Alpha Sigma Phi's recognition society for those brothers who make a planned gift to the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation through a bequest, life insurance policy, trust arrangement, or any other form of planned gift. It is unfortunate that we were unable to thank them during their lifetime. Any brothers wishing information on the Manigault Society or who have already included Alpha Sigma Phi in their planned giving arrangements should contact the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation at P. O. Box 838, Delaware, OH 43015 or call (614)363-1911. □
