Celebrating 150 years of brotherhood

The year was 1845. Almost 150 years ago. In American terms, that's ancient history. James K. Polk was president. The Western Expansion was in full drive. A battle was brewing among Southern and Northern states in the halls of Congress. And the real sounds of war with Mexico were about to begin.

But on a cold December night, three Yale freshmen met to outline the principles and ideals of a new Society. A Society founded to share and perpetuate itself through a unique, exemplary tie that binds its members for life.

It was then that Alpha Sigma Phi was born.
Today, more than 50,000 men have become part of the Mystic Circle, having pledged our honor to the high ethics and secret ideals of our Society.

We live in large cities, and small towns. In rural areas, and some of the most densely populated areas on earth. We live in all 50 states, and many other nations.

But we are all linked as Brothers.

Celebrating the birth of this phenomenon we call Alpha Sigma Phi has posed a challenge as diverse and broadly spread as our members.

For the past two years, a special Sesquicentennial Committee has met to plan how Alpha Sigma Phi should commemorate our anniversary.

And the plans are almost as phenomenal as our Fraternity itself.

"Our goal was to design a celebration in which everyone could participate," says Bob Shaw, American '84, Sesquicentennial chairman. "We wanted to devise a systematic series of celebrations that help us commemorate the 150th anniversary of the National Fraternity, without interfering with the celebrations and traditions of our local chapters."

The committee, comprised of Fraternity alumni, undergraduate members, representatives of the Fraternity Headquarters staff, past Grand Senior Presidents and Executive Secretary Emeritus Ralph Burns, Ohio Wesleyan '32, has developed recommendations to be presented to the Grand Council and this year's National Leadership Conference.

Grand Historian and committee member Bob Kutz, California '67, says that marking the sesquicentennial is a time for all Fraternity members to recognize the uniqueness of our Brotherhood. Brother Kutz is also preparing the 150 year history of the Fraternity for publication.

"We have a rich and diverse history that parallels the growth and history of the United States," he says. "It's a history of which we should be proud — and build upon to make this a better fraternity for future generations of members."

The committee has been careful to outline recommendations to celebrate Alpha Sigma Phi's sesquicentennial that can include all members of the Fraternity — regardless of their proximity to active chapters.

Essentially, the plans for celebration are as follows:

* Commit to an official celebration period from January 1, 1995 through the National Leadership Conference & Convention in the summer of 1996.

* Develop a theme and sesquicentennial logo to be used throughout the celebration period.

* Develop sesquicentennial celebration guides for chapter and alumni organization use.

* Encourage use of the celebration theme in local chapter Founders' Day, Sig Bust and other festivities.

* Hold the 1995 national meeting in Charleston, SC, home of Alpha Sigma Phi founder Louis Manigault.

* Hold the 1996 national meeting in a site to be determined that would be in keeping with the sesquicentennial theme.

* Commemorate Founders' Day on December 6, 1995 at Yale, with a celebration to include a dinner, Black Lantern processional, and to site a marker noting the Fraternity's 150th anniversary.

Details of these events and the development of support materials for them are presently being explored by Sesquicentennial Committee members and Headquarters staff. More information is to be announced at the 1993 National Leadership Conference.

Special efforts are planned during the celebration period to capture in photography and video tape local and national events that incorporate the sesquicentennial theme. A visual collage is to be prepared and shown at the 1996 national meeting as the culmination of the Sesquicentennial.

Brother Kutz believes that the celebration period helps draw attention about how to ensure the quality of Alpha Sigma Phi's next 150 years.

"It's important to look at our past in context with the present and future goals of the Fraternity," he says. "The celebration period can easily launch us into a new era for Alpha Sigma Phi."

The sesquicentennial of Alpha Sigma Phi

Committee Chairman Bob Shaw agrees "Marking 150 years of Alpha Sigma Phi gives us the opportunity to begin its future. Our unofficial theme for the 1996 NLC&C is 'New Directions.'

"It's more than stopping to celebrate a moment in time. It's a time to gather with friends and celebrate life and our Brotherhood. Moreover, it's a time to reinstill the ideals of our Brotherhood. Alpha Sigma Phi is so diverse that we all have different fraternity experiences. The way we interpret its ideals may be different, but we are all bound by the Mystic Circle. The Sesquicentennial celebration is a time to reassess what the Fraternity is all about."

Planning Alpha Sigma Phi's 150th anniversary touches many areas of the Fraternity's life and operations.

To make it successful - and meaningful fundamental operations are being closely examined.

Alumni organizations in cities and communities both accessible and inaccessible to active chapters are being formed. In areas where interest in on-going alumni involvement is not viable, special efforts are being made to encourage celebration of Founders' Day.

Additionally, the promotion of scholarship, updating our membership manual "To Better The Man," starting an aggressive expansion program and launching a major capital campaign are all being studied to see how to best use our Sesquicentennial to set the stage for Alpha Sigma Phi's future.

In session, the Sesquicentennial Committee hammers out details and logistics for the celebration of Alpha Sigma Phi's 150th Anniversary.

And rechartering Alpha Chapter by December 6, 1995 at Yale University has also been a point of discussion at several levels of the Fraternity.

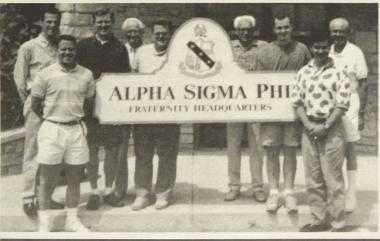

All told, the advent of Alpha Sigma Phi's Sesquicentennial has given rise to a number of issues within the Fraternity — issues that properly discussed and decided upon will directly impact how we march into the next century, and the positive new direction we'll take.

As plans are finalized, "The Tomahawk" and other Fraternity publications will make the information available

"We want every Brother who wants to participate in our celebration to feel that he has a place where he will be welcome," says Shaw. "Every member has an important role to play in our Sesquicentennial. We should all want to celebrate. If we think about the wars, the economic depressions and the social upheavals through which our Brotherhood has not only survived, but thrived, we should be proud to celebrate.'

And proud to set the stage for our future. By Jeffrey R. Hoffman

Epsilon Chapter at Ohio Wesleyan reborn

On April 24, 1993, Epsilon alumni and undergraduates gathered to celebrate brotherhood and the rebirth of the chapter at Ohio Wesleyan University. The chapter was initially founded in 1863, rechartered in 1963, but had been inactive since 1971.

After enduring twenty-two years without a chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi at their alma mater, Epsilon alumni were highly enthusiastic about the event. This excitement was equalled only by the undergraduate members of Epsilon Chapter whose two-year effort as Brothers of a Social Society (B.O.S.S.) had culminated in the evening's events.

Among the celebration's special guests were George Lord, Ohio Wesleyan '61 (Past Grand Senior President and keynote speaker for the banquet); Ralph F. Burns, Ohio Wesleyan '32, "Mr. Alpha Sigma Phi," who provided special remarks; Dr. Larry Spees, Ohio Wesleyan '57, Grand Secretary, Master of Ceremonies for the banquet and assisted Executive Vice President John R. Chaney, Indiana '67, in presenting the charter; and Richard L. Jackson, Ohio Wesleyan '50, Grand Chapter Advisor of Epsilon Chapter.

This occasion provided a special opportunity for alumni to interact with the undergraduates and actively participate in the ceremony. The brotherhood took part in the senior service honoring graduating seniors and serenading the 1993 Talisman Rose Queen, Laura Williams, with a beautiful rendition of the "Sweetheart Song."

Additionally, the Epsilon alumni gathered for the first meeting of the fledgling Epsilon Alumni Association. Richard Jackson was named President of the Association and was commissioned to insure that everything possible will be done to bring about reconciliation with Ohio Wesleyan University.

Eight of many committed men responsible for Epsilon Chapter's reactivation at Ohio Wesleyan University pose during the formal chartering ceremonies.

Excitement was not limited to Epsilon members alone. Members of the Gamma Pi Chapter at the University of Findlay presented the Epsilon undergraduates with the "Baby Blanket" and the Alpha Badge, both of which are given to the most recently chartered chapter. G. Scott Grissom, Oklahoma '78, made the trip all the way from Oklahoma and presented the chapter with glass etchings of the pledge pin and the crest. Farrell J. "Doc" Gallagher, father of Scott Gallagher, Ohio Wesleyan '93, presented the chapter with a plaque bearing the crest of Alpha Sigma Phi to serve as an annual brotherhood award honoring a graduating senior for exemplary contributions to the chapter.

At the climax of the evening's events was the presentation of two charters to the care of the undergraduates of Epsilon Chapter. The first charter presented was a copy of the original charter from 1863. The second possesses the names of the undergraduates initiated in 1993.

The Epsilon Chapter is proud to be the oldest active chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi. All alumni are encouraged to visit us and Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity Headquarters when you are visiting Central Ohio

Central Michigan charters

After more than years of very hard work and dedication, the brothers of Phi Kappa Colony at Central Michigan University received their charter and were initiated into the Mystic Circle of Alpha Sigma Phi as the Delta Rho Chapter. Fifty brothers were initiated in the ceremony which took place on Thursday, April 29, 1993, and was carried out by Brothers Robert G. Cabello, Eastern Michigan '70; Robert C. Look, Jr., Lawrence Tech '74; Jeffery S. Owens, Illinois '87; Edward W. Lenane, Plattsburgh '88, and brothers from Gamma Zeta Chapter at Bowling Green State University.

The celebration of the chartering ceremony took place on Friday, April 30, at the Mount Pleasant Country Club. The ceremony was done as a traditional Alpha Sig black tie affair. There were many special guests in attendance at this grand affair, including, Grand Marshal Mark Still, Washington '75; Executive Vice President John R. Chaney, Indiana '67; Immediate Past Grand Senior President and Educational Foundation Trustee Charles J. Vohs, Penn State '75, and many of the presidents from the various fraternities and sororities on CMU's campus.

The evening's special guest speakers included Grand Chapter Advisor, Dr. Robert Cabello, and also the campus Greek Advisor, Joe Oravecz. The table was then set and the ceremony's feast was met with a very tasteful prime rib dinner enjoyed by all. Finally, the long awaited unveiling and presentation of the charter was carried out by Brothers Still and Chaney and then the real celebration began.

The men of Central Michigan University are very happy and proud to become the Delta Rho Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi. The brothers would like to extend a very special thanks to everyone who has helped them in any way, especially Chapter Leadership Consultant, Mark Winston, Oregon State '88. They would also like to extend a very special thank you to Grand Chapter Advisor, Dr. Robert Cabello. Bob has been with them since the beginning of this group. Bob's superb guidance and helpfulness has brought them to where they are today.

This group of young men at Central Michigan University proudly accepts the charter designating them as Delta Rho Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Business and bloodlines

The mom and pop store has something in common with McDonnell Douglas, Anheuser-Busch and Marriott Corporation. All of them are family-run businesses and though they make up the backbone of the private enterprise system, some experts believe they are fast going the way of the dinosaur.

Among other things, family businesses are threatened by divorce, the generation gap, merger mania and exorbitant estate taxes. Many stagnate from lack of fresh ideas; even a greater number wander about aimlessly without benefit of strategic planning.

Today less than one third of successful family businesses make it through the third generation, and less than half of those survive. More and more founders of family enterprises are opting to sell out, collect the fruits of their many years' labor and escape to a comfortable retirement.

In the late 1980s investors in the U.S. and abroad shopped furiously for small family businesses, sometimes with offers that equaled ten to 15 times cash flow.

Family and business don't always mix so well. Families are about people being themselves and feeling accepted for what they are. A business is run on results and performance. Success in family business owner will ever face. To be effective, a succession plan must be done early . . before a crisis precipitates it.

"The timing can be extremely critical," says Al Harris, a managing partner with Deloitte & Touche. "A company can be just a few years old, rapidly growing and needing a new level of younger management to continue that growth; or an older, more established firm may have a founder whose heirs have no interest in the business. In both cases, the future of the company depends on succession planning," he said.

A good succession plan should spell out the distribution of stock to the next generation, establish voting power and decide how the estate taxes will be paid. The plan should also make sure the heir-apparent gets the proper training and grooming for the job. But some owners simply can't bring themselves to do it. Retirement to them is a living death and they can't stand to be away from the business. Many refuse to admit legal battle has broken out. When he dies, that battle will surely become a war that rips apart the company.

Little wonder then that prenuptial agreements in first marriages are starting to come into vogue.

Nepotism - A positive aspect of family businesses is the extraordinary amount of pride and loyalty found in its members. But sometimes this loyalty distorts the perspective and causes one to only consider the family's point-of-view.

Nepotism causes bright, skillful managers who aren't in the family to take their talents elsewhere. Moreover, problems caused by family members can be easily swept under the carpet. Outsiders are hesitant to confront the boss with news that a son, daughter or favorite cousin is falling behind on a crucial project or abusing drugs on the job.

Nepotism can also be a barrier to professionalism. If being a family member always counts more than professional skills and performance, then the company could soon be in serious trouble.

Even if nepotism isn't rampant in a family-run business, owners are usually reluctant to turn over much control to an outsider, no matter how qualified or brilliant.

Lack of Fresh Ideas - Tightly knit family businesses not only tend to keep outsiders from gaining too much power, but lack fresh ideas as well. A good way to ensure a fresh perspective and to create objective feedback is by forming an outside board. Such a board can sharpen a company's focus, serve as an arbiter for any internal squabbles and help evaluate the performance of the company.

"At first, outside direction can be painful for some family members, but it can bring much-needed discipline to a business, especially in budgeting," says Harris. A few years ago one of his clients added outside board members after a partial change of ownership. "As a result, the board has taken a new objectivity and removed some of the emotion from the decision-making process," he said. "Today the company is responding much better to changes in the marketplace."

Taxes - Estate taxes can be extremely heavy - up to 50 percent at the federal level. In fact, after the estate tax is paid or financed, the once thriving business may take on a quite different financial look. Parts of the business might have to be sold to pay off the tax. Indeed, the heirs may very well feel they are now in partnership arrangement with Uncle Sam. While the payments can be extended to 15 years, the interest must still be paid at current value.

DEADLY CHALLENGES

business doesn't mean success as father or mother or wife. The reverse is also true.

Here's a look at the seven most deadly challenges to family businesses:

Sibling Rivalry - The founder of a nationally-known rental firm generously awarded stock to his children over a period of years. Unfortunately, he was a bit too generous. The younger generation used their leverage to boot the old man out of the CEO slot, then began squabbling among themselves.

During the mid-1980s the heirs to a metropolitan newspaper fought so bitterly that the founder threw up his hands and sold the paper to a national syndicate.

Even when succession is clear-cut, the road isn't always so smooth. A serious rift could develop between father and son. In one case, the founder of a $50 million business and his only son clashed over his choice of a wife. For more than 10 years, the father hasn't spoken to the son and gives him as little authority as possible. When the business is eventually passed onto the next generation either by death or disability, the son will be ill-prepared for the task.

Deciding which relative or which of their offspring should run the business after retirement or death is one of the most difficult challenges a the next generation is ready to take on the leadership chores, no matter how long they've been groomed for the job.

Mixing Family & Business Decisions - Too often decisions in family-run companies are made in terms of keeping peace in the family rather than what's right for the business. For example, a president or founder must decide who gets such perks as company cars, credit cards, even company football tickets. To keep everyone happy and avoid hurt feelings, he may issue them to a whole string of relatives.

Divorce - In public corporations the infighting and back-stabbing can be intense, but bloodline feuds over money and inheritance can be especially bitter. A nasty divorce can easily destroy a business. Often it occurs at the worst possible time when sales are sagging or an important expansion is underway. Divorce can weigh heavy on the mind of a company president, distracting the executive from important decisions at hand. A spouse who played an important role in developing the business will fight for a suitable piece of it, badly fragmenting the company.

Some years ago the founder of a large retail chain divorced his wife, disinherited his bickering kids and married an attractive, young socialite. Now, after fathering a new crop of heirs, an ugly

Alcohol use, abuse and management

You are the treasurer of your chapter. You and three other members of your chapter, including the president, allow your apartment to be used for a fraternity party. As the treasurer, you wrote a check from the fraternity account to pay for the alcohol. All members of the fraternity and their guests were invited. Approximately 200 minors (under 21 years of age) attended the party. The party was held in the evening. During the early morning hours of the next day a fraternity member, who was under 21, collided with a pickup truck killing one of the passengers and rendering the other a quadriplegic.

The fraternity party described above is surprisingly common at some universities. The fact pattern was also the subject of an actual case known as Frasset v. Delta Kappa Epsilon, 807 F.2d 1150 (3rd Cri. 1986). In the Fasset case, EVERY member of the chapter was sued. Everyone who provided substantial assistance was held civilly liable for the injuries suffered, including the treasurer, even though he did not attend the party, and various other members of the chapter.

What is needed is some creative legal counsel which can then be carried out before the business founder dies or turns over the reins. Careful planning by a skilled attorney can go a long way in easing the burden of estate taxes.

Lack of Strategic Planning- Every business, family-run or not, needs a mission statement and strategic planning to survive the tough world of the '90s. It will keep the firm from drifting year to year, focusing only on keeping up sales and market share, or moving away from what the company does best. Vision is usually found in a company founder's head, but after that person is gone, it may be lost.

A strategic plan with a mission statement is a formula for success. It will allow family members to evaluate their own feelings about the business and its future and prevent legal battles and turffighting ahead.

So, what can a family-run business do to keep healthy and profitable generation after generation? In short, they should develop a succession plan, make sure the successor is properly trained, install an outside board of directors, draft a mission statement and strategic plan and don't be afraid to staff talented outsiders.

None of these are easy to do but once accomplished, they can allow a family-run business to be as professional and accountable as a public corporation while enjoying all the freedom of a private company.

Because fraternities usually do not make a profit by selling alcohol, fraternities are considered social hosts. Most states have determined that social hosts ARE liable for injuries caused by intoxicated minors. This is known as "social host liability." In most social host liability cases, any person or organization can be held liable if they substantially contribute to or create an unreasonable risk of intoxicating minor quests. Simply put, because alcohol consumption by minors is a criminal offense, anyone who contributes to that consumption is posing an unreasonable risk on society. Therefore, the substantial contributor can be held personally liable for all injuries incurred because of his unreasonable actions.

It should be noted that although most states limits their social host liability to injuries caused by intoxicated minors, some courts, and indeed a growing number, have extended the social host liability to injuries caused by intoxicated adults. In these cases, courts have held that serving an intoxicated adult is unreasonable, wanton and reckless. See Koval v. Hofher, 181 Conn. 355 (1980) for a case holding a social host liable for the actions of an intoxicated adult.

Fraternities should be cautioned. Due to the growing trend to find responsible parties, I believe that more states will try to extend their social host liability cases to accidents involving intoxicated adults. Therefore, proper and responsible supervision of all party attendees is required.

How does a fraternity, who still wants to have parties where alcohol is served, limit its liability? The answer is simple: USE COMMON SENSE. Each chapter should establish procedures whereby all attendees at the party are checked for their age. Those who are of age should be given some type of designation, i.e., a colored wrist band or waterproof stamp. Only those with the appropriate designation should be allowed to consume alcohol. Unless the fraternity chapter contracts with a bar or bartender who assumes liability and has adequate liability insurance, all parties should be conducted on a bring-your-own basis. This reduces the fraternity's exposure since the chapter did not purchase the alcohol—the injury-causing substance. All minors who are in attendance should be carefully monitored to ensure that they consume no alcohol. All adults should be carefully monitored throughout the party to make sure that they do not become intoxicated. In addition, nonalcoholic beverages and nonsalty snack foods should be provided. When attendees leave the party, the fraternity should make sure that appropriate transportation is provided, including a fraternity sponsored shuttle service by a driver who did not consume alcohol the entire evening. Each of these actions are reasonable steps that will reduce the likelihood of an intoxicated attendee injuring an innocent third party.

The key to alcohol management is to have a controlled (specific invitation only) party where 1) only those who meet the state minimum age are allowed to drink, 2) alcohol consumption is monitored throughout the duration of the party, and 3) each attendee is checked before departing the party to ensure that safe transportation will be used. Not only may these procedures protect you, your chapter, and our national organization from a multi-million dollar lawsuit, but one of the lives that it saves may be your own.

Bill Lubbers puts his money where his heart is

Sit down and talk with A. William "Bill" Lubbers, Lehigh '31, and his wife, Doris, and they'll make you feel like a part of a caring and interested family.

And in fact, you are: The Lubbers' version of the Alpha Sigma Phi family.

Lubbers is a solid, straight-forward man, who like his wife, Doris, a long-time American Red Cross volunteer, believes in giving something back.

"The Fraternity has always been a great interest," Lubbers says. "The people I lived with, I kept as friends."

Without hesitation, Lubbers recalls his pledge class by name and where each brother is today. And it's because of those friendships and because of Alpha Sigma Phi's mission, that he established the $50,000 A. William and Doris M. Lubbers Beta Epsilon Chapter Endowment Fund Established under the guidelines of the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation, the Lubbers not only enjoy perpetuating Fraternity benefits, but enjoy certain financial benefits as well.

Lubbers established the Fund as a charitable remainder trust to benefit educational efforts of future members of our Lehigh Chapter.

A charitable remainder trust allows the giver to irrevocably contribute an asset to the trust while retaining the right to receive any investment income from the asset for life.

In the case of Bill and Doris Lubbers, their gift of $50,000 in IBM stock produces double the income they would have received from regular dividends if they had retained the stock—income they will receive as long as they live. The remaining asset is then passed to the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation to establish their named fund.

Charitable remainder trusts are fully approved by the Internal Revenue Service and encourage good people like the Lubbers to contribute to charitable organizations while they are still alive.

"It's a way everyone can win," says Foundation Vice President for Development Steven V. Zizzo, Illinois '84. "The Lubbers get to share their good fortune with Alpha Sigma Phi for generations, while receiving substantially more income because their asset is now invested over a variety of opportunities, not just a single stock—and they avoid the bite of capital gains taxes."

Bill Lubbers agrees. "If we had sold the stock, we would have taken a terrible rap," he says.

Any person who would like to establish similar funds are encouraged to contact Brother Zizzo. Under the Chapter Endowment Fund program a chapter fund can be created or added to with a minimum contribution of $500. To establish a named fund, an initial commitment of $10,000 is necessary."

"It's an individual decision with which one should be comfortable," says Lubbers. "If a Fraternity brother says he's going to do something for charity, I'd ask 'What about Alpha Sigma Phi?' But it's up to the individual to initiate the process because giving in this manner is so personal."

It's that personal touch and generosity of Bill and Doris Lubbers that ensure future Alpha Sigs the enjoyment of our Fraternity experience. An experience that lasts a lifetime.

MANTLE OF HEROISM

Tarawa and the Struggle for the Gilberts, November 1943

Michael B. Graham with a foreword by Ken Hechler

Fifty years ago, American troops came perilously close to disaster on the Pacific's remote Gilbert Islands. Just before dawn on Sunday, November 20, 1943, Operation Galvanic was launched—the first major amphibious operation against Japanese-held islands. Over 100,000 men and the largest assembly of warships in history were in place off islands shielded by razor-sharp barrier reefs. An easy and "glorious" victory was anticipated in this battle, the symbolic first step toward Tokyo.

Confidence was high as the Americans boarded their landing craft. It seemed impossible that any living thing could have survived the intensity of the naval and air bombardment that had been aimed at these small spits of land for the past few days. But the Japanese had prepared well. Just a few hours later, at Tarawa Atoll, the confidence changed to horror as the amphibious vehicles were torn apart by murderous fire, and the Marines, forced to wade ashore, were cut down by enemy machine guns. The few survivors who made it to the beach huddled behind a seawall amid piles of bodies and hideously twisted wreckage, numbed by the ferocity of the resistance.

Based on careful research of all published and unpublished sources—the first such synthesis of all available material—Michael Graham has written one of the most readable pieces of military history to be published in many years. The capture of Tarawa and Makin atolls was billed as a stunning victory, but the cost is questioned to this day.

Michael Graham, Marshall '80 is a U.S. government foreign affairs officer specializing in the Middle East and South Asia. Graham holds a BA in journalism, an MA in international relations from Marshall University, and is a graduate of the Foreign Service Institute postgraduate school of area studies. He has edited a book on international relations and authored or edited articles on topics ranging from foreign affairs to the American Civil War. Graham lives in Maryland, just outside of Washington, D.C.

Expansion a priority

Alpha Sigma Phi is embarking on a bold period of expansion! D. Todd Harris, UCLA '92 has joined the staff and is charged with expanding the number of undergraduate chapters. Todd is working to develop chapters using a strategic plan developed by Fraternity volunteers and staff. But, we realize that some very important opportunities may be overlooked if we rely solely on our plan.

Because of our past success in using students who transfer to another school or knowledge of highly qualified and motivated students at schools without an Alpha Sig Chapter or insight into a particular institution's situation, we continue to rely on your ideas, leads and networking for expansion opportunities. Should you want to assist with expansion or provide expansion leads, please contact Todd Harris at the Fraternity Headquarters.

(The TOMAHAWK does not assume responsibility for the accuracy of Omega listings. Information from various sources is printed as it is reported to the National Headquarters for recordkeeping purposes. Ongoing efforts to locate brothers without mailable addresses often reveal names of those who have entered Omega. Some listings therefore are of brothers who have been deceased for some time, but are included for informational purposes and in tribute.)

Chapters welcome your visit in person. Check the directory in this issue for chapters near you. Give them a call and attend a meeting.

You can assist as a volunteer in the Fraternity's Province Program. Write Alpha Sigma Phi, 12 Lexington Boulevard, P. O. Box 838, Delaware, Ohio 43015-0838 for more information, or use the Volunteer form on page 14.

Alpha Pi Purdue University

Our most noteworthy event this year was our sucessful Anchor Splash Philantrophy. The DG's participated in this event with us.

During this past year we qualified second for the Purdue Grand Prix. We were involved, however, in an accident on lap 30 and was unable to complete the race. Joe Balitewitcz won the Friends of Rho Award at last year's National Leadership Conference & Convention. This year nine of our members will be attending the conference. Rush was a great success this year. We have 29 new members. Our house occupancy will be going up next year. With our G.P.A. improving from 4.49 to 4.588, our house has gone from 30th to 15th! Our Alumni Board gave us $3,075 for scholastic achievement. We are planning to have another strong rush, keep improiving our G.P.A., and have less defaulting in intramurals, in addition to improving our standings, this coming year.

Beta Omicron Tri-State University

This past year the brothers put extra effort in everything that they did for the house. Much of this effort was directed toward becoming more organized and to make sure that everyone did their part for the house. Many things were done for the community such as a food drive, helping the Red Cross and providing a free "Haunted House" for the children of Angola. In other areas, we had seven new members join the house. This is due to the extra rushing directed by the Rush Committee. The Rush Committee is also working now to have a pledge class in the fall for the first time in several years. These new members are much needed since several brothers are graduating within the next year. Many improvements have been made to the house this past year. The "Old Gal" received a new heater, stove, tile and carpet. We would like to thank the alumni for the financial help that went to benefit the house. Also, it was wonderful to see all of you back for this year's Spring Frolic.

Beta Rho University of Toledo

This spring has definitely been a great one for the Sigs at the University of Toledo. Things really got moving after a fabulous initiation of 15 new brothers, bringing the active chapter to over 70 brothers strong. The activation was quickly followed by a Black Lantern Processional, the first in over two years. We also are enjoying a packed social calendar with our annual blow-out, Mouse to the Moon, as the highlight. Our sports teams are preforming tremendously and having a great time doing so. The Phoenix is definitely rising at Beta Rho and with a brotherhood as strong as ours, it will continue for a long time to come.

Alpha Psi Presbyterian College

Our past HSP, Clay Gunter, was recently inducted into Pi Gamma Mu, the international honor society for social sciences. He graduated with honors and was selected as a member of Who's Who Among College Students. He received the Big Brother/Little Brother Award, the Academic Excellence Award for Highest G.P.A. and for the second year in a row, the Phoenix Leadership Award.

Alpha Psi Chapter, with its second place finish in softball won the overall B-league championship at Presbyterian College.

Congratulations to Mike Crawford and Shamba Worlick who were elected HSP and HJP respectively for 1993-94.

Many thanks are given to our young Alumni Advisor, Roger Cobb; Chapter Advisor, William Prickett; and Faculty Advisor, Ray Bell, for their help with Alpha Psi Chapter during the past year.

Beta Mu Wake Forest University

We here at Beta Mu are about to enter a year of transition. This year we had very little trouble finding new brothers to take the place of our graduating seniors. However, next year, we need to initiate around 25 new brothers to make up for the deficit. This is something the Fraternity has not done since the mid-80's (due to many internal and external factors). If any other chapters have any ideas or suggestions to help us with next year's rush, please send them to us. Any help will be greatly appreciated. On a much lighter side, Beta Mu had a pretty good year. We took second place in our Greek Week out of 13 fraternities. We initiated nine new brothers into the Mystic Circle. We entertained Brian Regan (world famous comedian, who can be seen regularly on the comedy channel) in our house one evening after he performed on our campus. Seven of our brothers were instrumental in Wake Forest's first bowl victory since World War II. We also got involved in the local Head start program and threw Valentine and Easter parties for underprivileged youth. Next year we would like to host either our district's conclave or a SigBust, hopefully with help from the Fraternity Headquarters and other chapters in our area. We can provide accommodations for most brothers who plan to join us. Everyone is welcome. Have a nice summer.

Alpha Tau Stevens Institute of Technology

This has been a busy semester for the brothers of Alpha Tau. This year we tried a spring rush for the first time. Although not as successful as we had hoped, it proved an invaluable learning experience for the chapter. Four fine men were initiated into the Mystic Circle on April 18, 1993. They are Jim Celauro, Omar Delgado, Howard Smith and Edward Wrocenski. Included in the festivities was our Black Lantern Processional which was especially memorable with the participation of the brothers of Alpha Rho from N.J.I.T.

Service Chairman James Nichols organized a campus team for the MS Walkathon, an annual event which helps to raise money for multiple sclerosis research. Several brothers participated int he event. We applaud everyone involved, especially James, for his diligence and hard work On April 2, we held our annual Talisman Ball. As always, it brought undergrads and alumni together in a social atmosphere. Alumni attendance was down from last year, but their support remains as strong as ever as seen by the house improvement donations. Our thanks to everyone involved who made the event a success.

Last year we revived our Parent's Day barbecue, which had been dormant for some years. Everyone had a great time, and it allowed parents to learn more about the brotherhood and our chapter. The day was so successful, we decided to continue the tradition. On April 25, we held another one which was even abetter received that last year.

We would like to wish our graduating seniors the best of luck in their pursuits as the remaining undergraduates look forward to the fall semester.

Brothers attending a Province IV activity are having fun while learning. The activity was held at the University of Toledo and focused on brotherhood and leadership development.

Brothers from Iowa State University enjoy a good discussion while standing on their front porch.

Below is a letter from an Alpha Sig who has poignantly recorded his experience with the "Great Flood of 1993." As stated, this story has been repeated all along the Mississippi River and he lists several relief organizations where donations can be sent. The cleanup will take months if you can help, please do so.

I'm sure you have heard about the Great Flood of '93 by now. Well, I'm still in little old Carrollton, Illinois where we are high and dry but just eight miles west to Eldred, Illinois, traveling north and south of Eldred are miles of destruction caused by the flood. The many battles of the "war" are all over except for one levee that is holding on by a thread.

Only 22 miles from me is Hardin, Illinois in Calhoun County, Illinois. The Illinois River is its east boundary, the Mississippi River is its boundary on the west with the rivers meeting at its southern tip. To get there now is a 100 mile trip around, traveling on dirt country roads part of the way. Mail and UPS are carried over by boat, helicopters bring supplies in daily and gas is rationed.

I spent a lot of evenings and days working on various levees. At one they said we had 800 National Guards over in Greene County and over 3,000 meals a day were being made at a small (the only church in Eldred) church's fellowship hall.

Every levee had to have sandbags loaded into small boats, taken where they were needed, unloaded and then started on the levee. Every evening we worked until it was too dark to see, at least 10:00 p.m. Once a truck was unloaded another was waiting, giving little time to catch a break. Sandbags are made of burlap or some biodegradable poly something. Neither one is easy to grab and both are hard on your hands. My wife, Sandy, is at the bagging area, either holding or shoveling. I bagged only one day when they would not let civilians at the levee because it was too dangerous. My brother-in-law, two other people and I make quick work of 11/2 state trucks full of sand. One Sunday, with temperatures in the high '90's, I was back on the levee. I was luckier than some of the farmers working there that day. The night before we were fighting just two to three inches of water to go. Most thought that levee would go in a day or so, it lasted 12 more days. We were short of people that night so we had to carry the bags where they were needed, too dark for boats and too narrow for four wheelers. When we had finished that small breach at about 11 p.m., I left. Some were still there talking when another breach occurred. These people carried bags in the dark until 6:00 a.m. and were back the next day.

The last days were anxious. Finally on a Friday, the call went out for anyone and everyone to help. My brother-in-law and I went to the levee in one place driving by two nice houses and two large machine sheds. We had to drive through about a foot of water to get there. The place was unbelievable, sandbags coming by truck and helicopter. There is not enough boats so we load them to the point of being one or two inches above the water line. A large breach is north of us about 70 yards wide, close enough to see water is leaking all over the place. That breach is closed only to have another one to the south, then a larger one to the north. Guardsmen are chest deep kneeling in the breach to keep the sandbags left in place. We work as hard as we can. I'm waist deep in the water at times. The sun going down, we are running out of time and light and then sandbags. Another breach to the north is reported. Radio reception is bad in that valley. Evacuation orders come in-everyone off the levee. Two boats go to the south, we go north to get people, hoping to return with sandbags. When we get to the loading zone, there are no bags on top and a major breach is reported to the south. Back we go to get the rest but our boat motor quits. After a few minutes and the possibility of a helicopter ride, we finally get it to run, pick up the rest and get out of there. By 6 p.m. on Saturday, one of the houses and one of the machine sheds are gone, the other two have the tops of their roofs sticking out. Most people at the bagging area were just like us, too tired to cry, we'll do that later. Two more levees north of Eldred are lost Sunday bringing 30,000 acres under water.

Cleanup will take until, well, months. How much damage is done, no one knows for sure. The help has come from everywhere. If you want to help, donations can be sent to my area to the Eldred Flood Relief Fund, Eldred, IL 62027; Hillview Flood Relief Fund, Hillview, IL 62050; Calhoun County Flood Relief, Hardin, IL 62047; any chapter of the Red Cross in Greene County (in care of Sandy Gross), Scott County, Calhoun County or Jersey County; or to the American Red Cross. Any help would be appreciated, the destruction is unbelievable. St. Louis, just 60 miles away, has been hit hard as has many other places. Your thoughts and prayers are also appreciated. It is late and another day awaits.

Former Bulldog All-American named to assistant soccer post

Former Barton College All-American D. J. Grisewood, Barton '92, has been named assistant soccer coach for the Bulldogs for the 1993 season, head coach and athletic director Gary Hall announced.

Brother Grisewood, a native of Decatur, Georgia, plans to finish requirements for his degree at Barton in December. He netted 31 goals in his four-year playing career, making him one of the top scorers in the program's history.

In his junior season, he was a first team NAIA All-American as he led the Carolinas Conference in scoring and helped the Bulldogs to a share of the regular season title. Also in 1991, he was chosen to the NAIA All-South and Area VIII first teams.

He was an All-Carolinas Conference and All-District 26 honoree in both his junior and senior seasons and was selected to three post-season all-tournament teams. Last year, his high school, Shamrock in Decatur, retired his soccer jersey. Grisewood has hopes to play on the professional level after completing his career at Barton. He is currently in the draft pool of players for the new Atlanta franchise on the Continental Indoor Soccer League (CISL). Atlanta will field its first team in the spring of 1994.

"I am very excited about having D.J. work in our program," Hall said. "He will be a tremendous asset to us and we plan for him to be involved in all phases of the program. Since he has been with me as a player for four years, he will be able to step right in and accept a great deal of responsibility immediately.

"He understands the game very well and his experience should be valuable to our younger players. He will be continuing to train as he pursues possibilities as a player on the professional level. He has the ability to be an outstanding coach."

Alpha Sigma Phi announces new cutting-edge program for undergraduate presidents

Alpha Sigma Phi is proud to announce the inaugural Presidents' Academy of Leadership (PAL) for undergraduate chapter and colony presidents. PAL will be held January 21–23, 1994, in Pittsburgh, PA.

The academy is designed for chapter and colony leaders who desire to seek a deeper awareness of understanding of themselves and their actions in order to achieve extraordinary results within their brotherhood.

The program is NOT a "how-to" workshop which covers chapter functions like rush, new member education, and scholarship. Instead, the Presidents' Academy of Leadership promises to give participants the critical thinking and leadership skills they need to produce effective results in all chapter and personal situations.

Participants in PAL will gain skills which will not only help them as chapter leaders now, but will also give them invaluable skills in other future endeavors. The PAL curriculum is designed to focus on leadership skills development.

Participation in PAL will have extraordinary results for the individual participants, for their chapters, and for Alpha Sigma Phi.

Send us your stuff . . .

You're going through your attic and you find a program from your chapter's 50 year anniversary in 1958, but you're not sure what to do with it. The Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity Headquarters has an offer—we'll take it.

Paraphernalia, pictures, plaques, programs, pennants. If you aren't able to store it anywhere, let us put it in the Fraternity archives.

If you'd like to contribute a piece of fraternity history, no matter how large or small, please send it to Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity, 12 Lexington Boulevard, P. O. Box 838, Delaware, OH 43015-0838.

From The Tommy Archives

75 years ago May 1918

Past Grand Senior President Colonel Homer Baxter Sprague's passing to Omega Chapter was the feature story. Though decimated by war, all chapters Alpha through Upsilon submitted comprehensive reports of activity to the editor. Official Alpha Sigma Phi hat bands were being offered at 75 cents and ties at $1.50.

50 years ago June 1943

An air cadet on the cover represented more than 815 known Alpha Sigs engaged in the war effort. Among the many members featured was Brother Carroll E. Dilley, Ohio Wesleyan '42, a future editor of The Tomahawk. A feature article written by Brother John T. Trutter, Illinois '39, was a tribute to Mrs. C.F. Propst, the official grandmother of all Eta men. Regulation style hat bands were being offered for $1.00.

The Alpha of Alpha Kappa Pi. No corresponding issue was published.

25 years ago Summer 1968

Brother Donald J. Gonzales, Nebraska '36, Williamsburg home was said to be the "house full of history" in the feature article. Among the alumni receiving the Delta Beta Xi award was Brother Otto Sonder, American '47. Other prominent alumni mentioned included future Grand Senior President George B. Trubow, Michigan '53, and his recent appointment to the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice for Maryland. n Alpha Sigma Phi · · · Dear

June 15, 1993 Dear AΣΦ.

Enclosed please find a Cashier's Check in the amount of $1,090.67 payable to the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation Delta Rho Endowment. As discussed, these were remaining funds from the Gamma Sigma Chapter at Detroit Tech

It would be appreciated if you would see to it that the funds are used appropriately by the Delta Rho Chapter at Central Michigan University.

Fraternally, Joseph C. Coccia Detroit Tech '68

Dear Mr. Chaney,

College is a very exciting and challenging period in my life. As a double major in physics and astrophysics at U.C. Berkeley, I am constantly being challenged by new problems and concepts. Yet, I find the art of dealing with people as hard to master as any conceptual idea in physics. In addition, the financial struggle of paying for college has always been dark clouds in the horizon. Alpha Sigma Phi has give me the opportunity to succeed in both the areas of interpersonal skills, personal growth and the financial part of the college life.

As a recipient of the 1992-93 Grant-In-Aid Award for the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation, I have been able to better afford college. I am fortunate to receive the $1,000. While $1,000 is 1/12 of my yearly college expenses, its effect on my financial situation has been immeasurable. The scholarship money has enabled me to pay the house my rent ahead of time. I can hardly describe the relief one feel when one's rent is paid off for the next two months. This would never have been possible without the generous support of the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation. As a future alumnus, I plan to support the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation. I hope that there will be large sums of scholarship money available for those brothers who show the merit and the need

The scholarship which I received not only helped my financial situation, but it also enabled me to be a better brother. For being a financial responsible brother is a very important quality in a brother. By having the financial backing of the scholarship I am able to be a more responsible and accountable brother. I can truly say that the past two years, as a brother in the Mystic Circle of Alpha Sigma Phi, has effected my personality and outlook on life in a way that no other period has. By being a brother in Nu Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi I have learned more about life than from what I have actually studied at Berkeley. In addition, I have just been elected HSP for the fall semester of 1993. I am truly honored and grateful for the opportunity to excel at life as a brother and as a recipient of the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation scholarship.

Sincerely yours, Oren Levy California '91

IN MEMORIAM RALPH FRANK BURNS May 12, 1912—September 25, 1993

Brother Ralph F. Burns, initiated February 21, 1932, by Epsilon Chapter, Ohio Wesleyan University, joined Omega Chapter Saturday evening, September 25, 1993, while attending a joint meeting of the Fraternity Grand Council and the Educational Foundation Trustees in Pittsburgh, PA.

From his initiation, "Mr. Alpha Sigma Phi" exemplified the finest in the Fraternity. He served Epsilon Chapter as an undergraduate holding many offices and in 1936 was appointed Executive Secretary of Alpha Sigma Phi. During his forty years in this position, he always focused on the undergraduate, never losing sight of the all important Brotherhood.

During Ralph's tenure as Executive Secretary he coordinated the Fraternity's three mergers and saw over 29,000 brothers initiated into the Fraternity. Upon his retirement in 1976, Ralph remained active within the Fraternity serving as Secretary of the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation. He also maintained many volunteer commitments in his Fraternity, community, and at his alma mater.

In 1938, he was a founding recipient of the Delta Beta Xi Award for service to his Fraternity. He received the Distinguished Merit Award in 1976; and in 1980, the Evin C. Varner, Jr. Distinguished Service Award. In 1984, the Grand Council named him an honorary "Third Founder" during the kickoff of the Educational Foundation's Third Founding Endowment Campaign.

He had served as President of the Fraternity Executives Association, as President of the College Fraternity Editors Association; and as chairman of various committees in the interfraternity world. He was a recipient of the NIC Gold Medal Award and received the Fraternity Executives Association's Distinguished Service Award in 1985.

Brother Burns is survived by his wife Joanna and his two Alpha Sig sons Bruce and Jonathan. Memorial Contributions may be made to the Alpha Sigma Phi Educational Foundation for the Ralph F. Burns Fund. "The Cause is Hidden, the Results Well Known." The Winter issue of The Tomahawk will carry a special memorial piece celebrating Brother Burns' life.
