Once every war or so we become very much concerned with the physical fitness of the American people. We become alarmed about draft statistics and the poor physical condition of our recruits entering the Armed Forces. Recent figures show that even one out of four—25.4 per cent to be exact—of our teen-age boys are being rejected, to their deep disappointment. Pressures force people in time of stress to reveal their basic attitudes and conditioned native reactions. Such times test all men. We then come to conclusions, which frequently we abandon later under the hard necessity of various pressures. It is then that we exhibit the experiences that have made us and we disclose the kind of intellectual training we have had.

The period following the last war was sometimes referred to as "The Age of Stadium Building." And as a direct result of the poor physical condition of recruits entering military service during World War I, in that post-war period following, most colleges and universities instituted regular four-year courses in physical education and athletic coaching to develop trained instructors to correct the condition. Within a decade almost every major college and university in the country had such a course. The last war resulted in a tremendous impetus being given to physical education and athletics.

About a generation ago, Germany and Japan tried to copy our American system of sports and actually adopted some of our games. And we must admit they are strong foes. What the Axis could not import in one generation, however, was the American spirit of athletic competition; that spirit of play which engenders champion manpower because it encourages individual brilliance as well as disciplined teamwork. American athletics, conceived in a democratic setting, are still American weapons and although the Axis has sought to make use of them, their full rewards will never be realized under dictatorship.

America lost sight of many of its best interests since the last war. Our enemy in the Pacific, however, certainly aroused us to the need of cultivating our own physical prowess. This war has also definitely brought to our attention our dependence on the world, and the necessity for our best physical being at all times, whether we are at peace or at war.

The athletic and physical development of youngsters is one of the most important investments this nation has; the health and strength of its youth. No fortress the genius of war has been able to develop is in the same class with the fortress of hardy, resourceful manpower made keen by athletic competition. Other nations have attempted to copy the American athletic plan in preparing themselves for conquests of countries that wanted to enjoy life, liberty, and happiness. But the American plan of physical education and athletics—as one can see by the evidence from the Army and Navy programs—continues dynamically in the lead.

I am sorry to say, that with the beginning of this war, we as a nation have had to convert ourselves all over again to believe strongly in athletics and physical fitness. Fortunately, however, many of us now believe that we can achieve physical fitness without doing it at the expense of education as a whole.

Our schools have recognized that we need more time in physical and sports education; that a nation cannot be physically conditioned in two thirty-minute periods a week. Nor can a generation, in order to be made into good soldiers in time of war, be built up enough physically in an army induction center in one month. The compelling fact of the interdependence of man's functions makes it imperative that we seek a total development, and not merely and only a "body building" or "mental education."

While it is true that we have recently been thinking of our athletic or physical education programs in terms of preparation for war, yet normally we think of our games as a preparation for citizenship and normal living in times of peace. Fortunately, the benefits that accrue to a boy who participates in team games help him both for normal living, and also, when and if he joins the Armed Forces. President Roosevelt has said, "Next to active military service itself, there is no higher opportunity for serving our country than helping youth to carry on in their efforts to make themselves physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight, and prepare to help their country to the fullest in time of war as well as in time of peace." (The italics are my own.)

If our foreign policy after the war is going to require maintaining a good sized Army and Navy—and it looks like it will—then we must educate for and depend upon hardy young men of future generations who do not fear bodily contact in order for them to be good soldiers. Any nation must depend upon physical strength to maintain peace. And youth must develop according to Nature's laws. If healthy, they are naturally active, vigorous, aggressive, and ambitious, with the will to win. Also, man is as cultured as his freedom will permit. But a nation cannot live without character and France is a pitiful example. Athletics—games with rules—develop character. The American life and democracy as taught us by our Founding Fathers did not belittle extreme effort, hard work, playing hard, or the will to win in competition, as was taught our sons in the rugged games of contact and skill. The team that doesn't go out to win might just as well stay in its dressing room—and that applies equally as well to life.

Following the last war there was a great deal of interest in sports of various kinds, and I believe physical education and games will receive the same impetus after this war. Our men now in the armed services overseas are intensely interested in the results and happenings in athletic events. To them, it is refreshing; it is fun and a relief, for them to hear over the radio, or read about our sports events. Mr. Fred Corcoran of the Red Cross has reported that the "favorite topic of conversation of American soldiers in England is sports."

Our returning younger soldiers will need football and other games to relax, and play. They will be used to action, and will require it. We will have problems of morale and rehabilitation. Of morale, Dr. Jay B. Nash of New York University says, "Morale wins wars, wins games on the athletic field, conquers the wilderness, carries us over crises and gives nations vitality to face and solve problems." Morale by itself has no significance, but morale for a purpose is the all-important spirit that makes for victories. In a democracy, morale, as Dr. Nash defines it, is "a religious zeal for the right of people to establish 'self-improved laws' and for the obligation and discipline that gives obedience to these laws." Morale can be maintained by strength of arm, strength of mind, and

Fostering The Spirit

James Cassedy, Middlebury '39, now a lieutenant in the Coast Artillery, sent us a postal card this Summer on which he put the essence of Alpha Sigma Phi: "Fraternity is the boost, that extra encouragement, to countless lonely, weary fighters and workers, dulled by the monotony and strain of their jobs, and the fraternity that fosters this spirit will never die."

Working proof of the idea came to us today in a letter from Michael Koven, Penn. State, a captain in the Troop Carrier service of the Air Force. Brother Koven's letter was more personal and we give part of it to prove that Jim Cassedy was right: "Received your letter and the identification card for which Doc Swift so thoughtfully contributed the necessary funds. It is, undoubtedly, a morale-builder when a soldier knows his fellow fraternity brothers are thinking about him and that small membership card had more effect on me than anything the Special Service department could ever do. After receiving your letter, I just let my mind wander back to my college days and the Fraternity; those problems we had and the democratic way in which we held our Monday night meetings. Those memories and friendships will never be forgotten. One of the things I am looking forward to after this war is those alumni week-ends at State and the Fraternity gatherings."

The Fraternity must keep up this "good work" to justify its existence. The only function it can have now is to prove by actual service the idea set down in its purposes and objects, "to assist in the building of character, promote college loyalties, perpetuate friendships, cement social ties within its membership." We feel we have been doing this so far. Countless letters from members, in this country and overseas, in and out of the services, alumni and undergraduate, have told us that we are doing a good job.

We feel, however, that the job should be spread over a wider field, that it should be more personal. This takes a tremendous amount of time and it also takes money. The financial need was partially met by the drive for alumni contributions this Summer and the alumni and not a few undergraduates contributed handsomely. With the regular sources of revenue to the National Office dried to a mere trickle we are now making plans to carry our appeal for maintenance and the carrying on of this important task direct to the alumni on an annual basis for the duration.

We are not running a U. S. O. canteen at the national office; we are not using our chapters as club rooms for service men on leave. Our chapters have, for the most part, been taken over by the Army and Navy to house student service men on the various campuses—a vastly more practical and, in the long run, helpful part for them to play. Our national office is the nerve-center for the entire Fraternity, and in wartime has come to play a more important role than ever before. We welcome any brothers who are in the city. We delight in their letters. We wish we had more room and more comfortable quarters for them, but we are primarily a very busy clearing-house for the spirit of fraternity—that special spirit which is Alpha Sigma Phi's.

We need support of all kinds. We know the alumni will help us in our morale-building work. We know the undergraduates will help by working as hard as their war-shortened time allows to keep their particular chapters active, despite the lack of houses and the usual peace-time appurtenances of fraternity living. And we wish to say here and now that both the alumni and the undergraduates are already doing a very fine job along these two lines.

Therefore, when your second letter in a year comes asking for contributions to the national Fraternity, we would like to see you answer it with all the fraternity spirit at your command. You will be fostering the "fraternity" that Jim Cassedy spoke of on his card from California and you will be insuring the post-war wish of Michael Koven who wrote from Sicily.

strength of spirit. And morale must be built in childhood, the process must continue through adolescence, and morale involves action. Football and games supply a lot of action, and are ruled by "self-approved laws." One of the finest rehabilitation programs we could outline, particularly for those who have been active, fighting soldiers, would have them start to college or resume educations interrupted by the war. It would hasten them in their readjustments and their return to living normal lives. After the war our government will undoubtedly help finance the educations of many of those service men who interrupted their education, as was done after the last war. And there will be many more of these young men and women this time. A number of our far sighted colleges and universities have already thoughtfully made provisions to help their ex-students in this way on their return from the war.

So I think we need not be concerned about the future of football, athletics, or physical education after this war. Most of our schools and colleges are already equipped with fine gymnasia, stadia, and athletic fields worth hundreds of millions of dollars, and they will be used.

I feel assured that we will continue to be concerned with the educational values in physical education, and we will preserve sports for the American boy and girl. I will not say football will be "bigger and better than ever." That is not the point. Right now, winning the war is the important thing, but after this war I believe we as a nation can get militant about these aspects of athletics and physical fitness, and stay that way this time for at least twenty years. If not, we will fumble the ball and make no more progress as a result of this emergency than we made as a result of the last war.

Wentworth F. Gantt and Kate are happy to announce the arrival of Barbara Bromley Gantt on October 7.

Harry G. Pollard is officer in charge of auxiliary facilities at the Naval Air Station, Brunswick, Maine. This is a far cry from his 1942 berth in San Diego, but there's nothing like a Maine winter to make one appreciate California oranges. Brother Pollard is now a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

George E. Gilchrist, Yale '21, is minister of a church in Quincy, Mass., a "hectic defense community," and calls it a "tough job, but lots of fun, too." He complained of one of G.J.P. Ed Shotwell's unpredictable visits at 6:30 in the morning!

Walter Farnham is working with the Board of Economic Warfare in Washington. Lt. Allan T. Kitchell, Jr., Yale '36, graduated from the Quonset School in October 1942, and is now in charge of maintenance in the A. & R. office at the Naval Air Station in Norman, Oklahoma.

Lt. R. C. Carroll, Jr., who has been in the Army since 1941, is now in the Coast Artillery at Camp Pendleton, Va. William G. Metzger is a corporal at Fort Benning where he is with a Signal Photographic outfit.

Lawrence W. Shenfield is a private first class in the Air Corps. He is now in the Air Force Technical Training Command communications school. Blake Flint is taking basic training in anti-aircraft artillery at Fort Eustis, Va.

Lt. Charles E. Gilbert is at Fort Myers, Fla., expecting overseas assignment with a fighter unit. D. I. Knowles is a lieutenant in the Navy.

Sidney K. Tully is a lieutenant commander aboard the U. S. S. Norman Scott and his brother, Francis W. Tully, Jr., is a lieutenant on the staff of the commander of the South Pacific force.

Kenner McConnell is building some sort of a record with three sons in the service, one a lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps, one in officers' training in Quantico with the Marines and one a Naval Air Cadet.

John L. Brickwede, '10, is still practicing medicine and holding down the home front. Glenver McConnell, '09, tells us that Dane Wallace, called on him recently. Dane is connected with the Lew Wentz Oil Company in Ponca City, Okla.

Gerald Cubelli is an instructor of flying fundamentals to Army cadets. Brother Cubelli received his training through the Civilian Pilot Training program (now the War Training Service) and is now at Gettysburg, Pa., instructing cadets.

Norman A. Thomas is a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

Ned R. Hickel is reported to be a captain stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia. Ned was drafted in 1942 and came up from the ranks. More power to him!

Capt. Louis E. Miller, a test pilot in the Army Air Forces at Dayton, Ohio, lost his life on July 9, 1943, as the result of a plane collision in mid-air. Seven men lost their lives in the crash which involved five men in each of the two planes. Brother Miller had been severely injured several weeks before when he was compelled to make a forced landing and was only flying a few days before the flight which resulted in his death.

Brother Miller, while at Wright Field, flew practically every type of Air Forces plane and several models of British planes.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ruby Ann Tefft of Marietta, one daughter, Carolyn, six months old, his father, mother and one sister.

Lt. Col. George E. Bush has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on Guadalcanal. Brother Bush is in the Marine Corps, in command of a battalion of infantry in operations which eliminated Japanese resistance on that island at the time.

Brother Bush was at Scofield Barracks, Hawaii, when the Japs flew over his quarters on December 7 and although machine gun bullets strafed the neighborhood, he and his wife and daughter escaped injury. Mrs. Bush and their daughter, Helen Jane, are now in this country.

He was commissioned lieutenant colonel in June 1942 while still in Hawaii and since that time his whereabouts were unknown until the Army gave notice of the Silver Star award and citation. Brother Bush is now executive officer and second in command of the infantry regiment which he accompanied to Guadalcanal.

Brother Lester T. Miller, who was in command at Wright Field in Ohio, has been promoted from the rank of brigadier general to that of major general and has been reported, unofficially, to be transferred to overseas duty.

Bill Moore is working with the psychological department of the Armed Forces Induction Center in Akron, Ohio. Brother Moore interviews inductees who are classified as to their lack of education and administers various tests which are graded progressively lower in difficulty and which evidently drive Brother Moore quietly crazy. But he likes it, he says, and at least can still write coherent letters.

Since writing the foregoing, we have heard that Bill has been transferred to Ashford General Hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. From the confusion of psychological exams to the luxury of the Greenbrier!

Courtney L. Faught is a lieutenant in the Air Transport Command, flying supplies to China, and is the proud papa of a son born in June of this year. We hope that by this time "Snuffy" knows he is a father. At the last we heard, his wife, Mary Ann, was not sure he had heard the good news.

The three Nevada boys are doing a good bit of "war work" these days. Charles Nevada of the Promotion Department of the Milwaukee Journal writes to say that A. Jay Nevada is a physical training instructor with the Army Air Forces, stationed at Faribault, Minnesota. Julius C. Nevada is a classification officer in the adjutant general's department at Camp Croft. And Eugene P. Nevada, just inducted, is temporarily at Fort Thomas, Kentucky. A. Jay and Julius are lieutenants and Eugene is a private.

David B. Gustafson was married on August 23 to the former Miss Irene Eleanor (Polly) Wyckoff of Poughkeepsie, New York. Brother Gustafson, a private first class in the Army, is stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Dick Chenoweth, now an ensign in the Navy, is stationed with the amphibious forces at San Diego, California.

Bruce T. Cunningham is an ensign in the Naval Reserve, training at Quonset Point, Rhode Island. He tells us that Theodore C. Lash, Epsilon '42, married Dr. Elizabeth Workman in Mount Vernon, Ohio. Best wishes to the Lash's.

Donald Clute is taking pre-flight courses at the University of Vermont under the new Army program. He expects to be sent to Maxwell Field.

George A. McGarrity is assistant superintendent of the production planning department of the Homestead Steel Works, part of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation. Charles M. Beeghly, Ohio Wesleyan '27, is a captain stationed at the headquarters of the Army Air Forces in Washington.

W. W. Sargeant informs us that for the past 16 years he has been associated with the Land Title Guarantee & Trust Company in Cleveland, Ohio. Ralph W. McGill is assistant headmaster of Western Reserve Academy at Hudson, Ohio.

Lew Wallace Potts is a corporal in the medical division of the Army Air Corps and is taking laboratory schooling in Lawson General Hospital in Atlanta, Ga.

Eddie McCullough is an aviation cadet at Berkely Field, Colorado. J. B. Ferguson is in V-12 at Colorado Springs, Colorado. Bob Hyde is in the OCS at Ft. Benning, Georgia. Earl Ostmeyer is at Ft. Belvoir, Va., in the OCS. Henry Buthman is a marine at Northwestern. Bob Rispler is in Omaha. Harvey Stoltzman is in V-12.

Jim Sandall is in the Army, studying meteorology at St. Louis. George Fenger, Dave Buthman, Dick Peterson and Allen Hanson are in the Army. Elden Jagger is in the Navy. Stanley Scott is a cadet at Indiana University. Byron W. Hunter is a lieutenant-commander in the Navy. Harold A. Hanson and Stanley R. Hall are army lieutenants. Elmer Dunn is in the Naval Educational Program and is attending school while awaiting call.—H. Felton.

Warren Dunn is a sergeant in the Air Forces, now located at Drew Field in Tampa, Fla.

Chuck Aldrich is with Republic Aviation on Long Island and is one of the engineers who helped design the new Thunderbolt. Chuck graduated in 1936 and studied aeronautical engineering in California.

Robert "Squire" Aldrich is a technical-corporal at Fort Crook. Before his induction, Brother Aldrich was with the United Press in Washington and since his graduation he has had about a dozen short stories published, following in the footsteps of his mother, authoress Bess Streeter Aldrich.

Alumni Secretary—A. Gordon Miesse
P. O. Box 323, Mahwah, N. J.

The undergraduate members of Alpha Delta voted on May 3 on the various measures necessary to chapter affairs for the duration of the war.

The necessity of this step is borne out by the fact that only two civilian Alpha Sigs are on the campus this Fall and no fraternity activity among the naval personnel is permitted by the Navy authorities. The property and records were turned over to a committee of three alumni custodians whose appointment already had been approved by the Grand Council. This committee consists of "Cap" Wiley, Ames T. Barber and A. Gordon Miesse.

The furniture was put in storage, the records in safe-keeping and the chapter funds were either put in War Bonds or the savings account by this committee. Everything is "ship-shape" until Alpha Delta is ready to resume its place of leadership at Middlebury.

Early in September, Cap Wiley was granted a six months leave of absence from the college to enter USO work. Arthur M. Bauckham writes from Honolulu that there is a large number of Alpha Sigs there now, among them Capt. Perry W. Parker, Capt. M. E. Clark, Norman Guthrie, Harvey Hammond, Tom Renson and that Frank Knox passed through recently. Brother Parker is doing censorship work and Arthur Bauckman is vice-president and general manager of the Territorial Motors Ltd. He is a member of the Business Men's Military Training Corps and has three sons, all of whom were born in Hawaii.

Herb Mitchell has been re-transferred from the swamps of Louisiana to Astoria, N. Y., where he is again working on the educational films which the Army produces for its personnel. On the day we saw him, he was in an expansive mood and offered a story for the Tommy and we are going to take him up on it.

To Whom It May Concern (especially Alpha Nu Alumni)—12:30 a. m.—Freshman Week
—We just got in from a little prayer meeting

—praying for rain at the girls' dorms. And did we get it? Could be! After that cooling off some of these freshmen aren't such hot stuff any more. Tribunal Saturday! 'Nuff said.

Well, here at Westminster things are beginning to settle down a little. The Alpha Sigma Phi's are out a house, but we actives, all eight of us, expect to have a chapter room in the very near future.

Rush season this Summer was very satisfactory, considering the number of eligible freshmen. Alpha Nu pledged three freshmen: Harry Gilbert, a cousin of Glen Toty, Alpha Delta; Bruce Foster, son of a former chapter member, and Gil Schwindler, heir apparent of the head of the physical department of Westminster. New officers elected this summer were Jim Caruso, H.S.P.; Norm Cochran, H.J.P.; Wick Hutchinson, H.C.S.; Paul Musser, H.S.; and Gail Schuler, pledge master.

As you may already know Alpha Nu lost one of its most active members in a plane crash in Mississippi just recently. Lt. Dale Dunmire, ex-'43, was killed instantly when the Flying Fortress which he was piloting exploded in mid-air, killing all the crew instantly.

"Smokey" will be long remembered as one of Westminster's outstanding basketball players, and was high scorer in his sophomore year on the Titan five.

Harvey Mercer, Alpha Nu alumnus, has just received his commission as an ensign in the United States Navy and expects to report October 15 for his basic training. Also, John Truxal, '43, just received his bar and star from the boys in blue, and was on campus the other day to visit friends.

Well, time to sign off. The rain tonight woke me up to the fact that the Tomahawk is coming out soon.

Until our next.—George Hart, Associate Editor.

THE SPIRIT OF GIVING

Our Christian history lends precedence and dignity to the spirit of giving gifts to those we love.

This year especially, with so many of our friends serving in the armed forces in the far, lonesome places of the earth, a fine gift—a token of our remembrance, will be the finest contribution we can make to keep up their morale.

Frequent letters are our moral obligation, but our Christmas gifts should have a special significance this year.

FINE GIFTS IN

1944 BALFOUR BLUE BOOK

Fraternity men and women have the added privilege of individualizing their gifts with their organization coat of arms. In this way they share the prestige of their fraternity with those they honor.

The BALFOUR BLUE BOOK illustrates many choice gifts—rings, bracelets, locket, cigarette cases, military and naval billfolds, fine leather. MAIL POST CARD FOR YOUR FREE COPY!

Note: A copy of the BLUE BOOK will also be sent to your parents if you include their address on your post-card request.
