THE COLUMNS

History of the University of Missouri

Halfway between St. Louis and Kansas City is located the oldest university west of the Mississippi river, the University of Missouri. No main lines of railroads are permitted to run through the university town of Columbia, and two branch lines carry the thousands of eager students into the "Athens" of Missouri, a beautiful little town of 20,000. There, nestling protectingly around the scarred and ivy Columns, are the ageing buildings of the Francis Quadrangle. A few hundred yards to the east is the East Campus, where stands the agricultural and science buildings. Connecting the two and rearing its lofty Gothic spires into the skies is the Memorial Tower, dedicated to the University's heroes of the World War.

In 1820 John Scott, Missouri's last territorial delegate and first congressman, drafted in Missouri's first constitution an article for public schools and a state university, and secured the first donation of government land. Two decades later Major James Rollins framed the section that established the University of Missouri.

On July 4, 1840, the corner stone was laid for the first building, and April 14, 1841, forty-eight students enrolled under the presidency of John H. Lathrop, and in 1843 the first class consisting of two members, was graduated. For nearly three decades the institution was meagerly supported by student fees and a small income from a rather poorly investment made from land sales. The University was closed to students during the Civil War and used as barracks for soldiers. In 1865 it was reorganized with John Lathrop again president.

In 1866 Dr. Lathrop died and Dr. Daniel Read of the University of Wisconsin became the new president, and with his coming began a new epoch in the history of the school. Heretofore the state had given the University no aid whatsoever, and it was heavily in debt. The instructors were paid in almost valueless university warrants, the buildings were greatly in need of repair and the president's house was a mass of charred ruins. Dr. Read went before the Missouri Legislature and made so powerful an appeal that a substantial appropriation was made and a definite revenue provided for.

From that time dates a period of expansion. In 1870 the agricultural college and the school of mines were established, the former at Columbia, and the latter at Rolla, where it is today with an enrollment of 538. Women were admitted in 1869 and professional schools added in the '70s and '80s. The University is now comprised of the following colleges and schools: the Graduate School; the College of Arts and Science; the College of Agriculture; the School of Education, the College of Engineering; the School of Business and Public Administration; the School of Journalism; the School of Law; the School of Fine Arts; the School of Medicine; the School of Mines and Metallurgy, and the Extension Service.

The proud and stately Columns is the only reminder of the destruction of the old academic building by fire in 1872. Around these battered Columns new buildings were erected, a larger and more beautiful University constructed. All the Tiger spirit of "Old Mizzou" is centered in these Columns. By their base freshmen are initiated into the mysteries of college life, and in their shadows seniors are ushered out into real life. They symbolize the high idealism of the University of Missouri.

At the death of Dr. Read, Samuel S. Laws of New York City was elected president and under his capable leadership the work begun by Dr. Read was carried on. Following Mr. Laws came Richard Henry Jesse, A. Ross Hill, John C. Jones, Isador Loeb, and President Stratton Duluth Brooks. Under these men the last quarter of a century has been a period of renaissance for the University. Of the total enrollment of 104,960 from 1843 to 1925, 84,333 have entered since 1899. There has been founded under Dean Walter Williams, world famous journalist, the first and one of the best schools of journalism in the world. Other departments have developed until they rank with those of other first class colleges and universities in the United States. A new campus composed of the agricultural and science buildings has been completed and a new law building has been erected on the Francis Quadrangle.

The University of Missouri is a member of the Association of American Universities, of which there are twenty-two members. It was one of the first state universities to be accredited by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Its school of medicine is rated in the highest class by the council on medical education of the American Medical Association. The School of Medicine is likewise a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

The government of the University is vested in a Board of Curators, consisting of nine members, appointed by the Governor. The administration is under the presidency of Stratton D. Brooks, who came to Missouri from a successful career as president of the University of Oklahoma, where he served for thirteen years.

The enrollment from June 1, 1925 to June 1, 1926 was 8028. Of that number 6030 were resident students and 1998 were enrolled in the extension division. There was a Summer Session enrollment in 1926 of approximately 2000. There are fifty departments in the various colleges and schools with a faculty of 409 members. Forty states and eleven foreign countries are represented. The University gives instruction both on the campus and through extension service, which may be a general liberal education, graduate study, basic preparation for professional courses, or technical or professional training for scores of businesses and professions.

Athletics

The history of athletics at the University of Missouri was begun with the inauguration of football as a part of the extra-curricular activities in 1890. Since then athletics has grown until now teams are always maintained in the four major sports: football, track, basketball and baseball.

The conference formerly included the state universities of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma; the state agricultural colleges of Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa; and three universities privately endowed—Grinnell, Drake, and Washington. This year the conference was changed and now consists of Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Kansas Aggies and Iowa State. Each season teams are played outside the conference—Chicago, Southern California, Tulane, West Virginia, Southern Methodist University, Northwestern—all have met Missouri teams.

Missouri has won more championships than any other member of the conference. In 1924, 1925 and 1926 Tiger elevens won the football championship of the Valley and in 1925 the track championship. She has won the basketball championship three times in succession—1920, '21, '22,—and in the last decade has four times won the baseball championship.

Intramural contests are held each year in various of the major and minor sports, from which much recreational value is received by the students participating.

In September, 1926 the first unit of the giant Memorial Stadium was completed. This stadium is being built entirely by subscriptions from students, alumni and former students. When completed it will seat about 100,000 people and will be one of the best in the United States.

Fraternities

The attitude of the students, the faculty and Board of Curators toward fraternities on the Missouri campus is decidedly favorable. Therefore twenty-three national social fraternities and two locals. Approximately thirty per cent of the men on the campus are in fraternities.

History of Chi Alpha Chi Fraternity

Chi Alpha Chi fraternity was organized in the fall of 1925 with fourteen charter members. Official recognition was secured from the president of the University and from the Dean of Men and an able faculty sponsor was chosen. At the beginning of the second semester the fraternity moved into a house with a membership increased to twenty-three men, in which most of the schools and colleges of the University were represented.

The activities of the fraternity have been varied. In the first few years scholastic standing has been stressed, and that has been obtained, but not to the exclusion of activities. Teams have been entered in intramural athletics, and at present one is training for the spring track meets. Energetic support has been given to campaigns for yearbook subscriptions and to drives for stadium building funds.

Among the alumni Fred Ellerman, football and "M" baseball man of the University, is an instructor of economics in New York University. Robert Landman, Phi Beta Kappa, is in Europe assisting in writing a book on finance. Marion Cracraft is city editor of the Ponca City, Oklahoma, News; Sutton Christian city editor of the Vernon, Texas, News; Robert Speer assistant advertising manager of the Madison, Wisconsin, News-Herald; and A. E. Horst advertising manager of the Midland, Texas, Reporter.

The chapter has men in almost all campus activities. Harmon is a winner of the Stephens Medal for Oratory, a veteran member of the varsity debating squad, a member of Phi Eta Sigma, honorary scholastic fraternity, Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity, and will soon be eligible for Phi Beta Kappa. In a race for the student council last year he proved the most popular of six candidates by a large number of votes. He is now a candidate for the vice-presidency of the student body.

Swan, a charter member of the fraternity, has been debate manager of the University for two years. He has, through intensive publicity, increased the popularity of forensics on the campus and more than trebled the attendance at contests. He is now president of Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity, of the Methodist Student Organization Sunday School, a winner of the John W. Jewell Scholarship for journalists, and an assistant in the School of Journalism.

Falkenhainer is president, drum major and assistant director of the eighty piece University Band, and a member of the University Symphony Orchestra. He was recently initiated into Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity.

Weber is a high point man on the pistol team, having won his letter and several medals in intercollegiate matches. He is being favored for 1928 Cadet Colonel of the R. O. T. C.

Chord was captain of the University pistol team two years ago and won the Board of Curators Medal for the best pistol shot twice. LeGrange is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. He and Swan have completed plans for establishing a newspaper in South Africa. Nebel belongs to Eta Kappa Nu, professional engineering fraternity. Burgess is a member of the Glee Club which has just won the Missouri Valley Championship and which will go to New York soon to enter the national contest, won by Missouri last year.

Watling and Weber are Razzers, Missouri pep-inspiring organization. Swan, Gillette, Thomy, Burgess and Harmon are active in the Athenaeum Literary Society, the oldest student organization west of the Mississippi River. Diemer and Pledge Pyle play in the University orchestra. Thomy and Swan carried leads in the annual Journalism Show. Lathrop is an assistant professor of Photo-Engraving in the School of Journalism.

The fraternity has emphasized for the past three years the value of activities which tend to raise the scholastic standing and has aided in developing men capable of entering any activity demanding intellectual ability. Now the attention is being turned to athletics. Since the inception of the Chi Alpha Chi there have been members in athletics but little organized effort made to get men into that phase of activity. Beginning with this year the emphasis will be transferred to athletics and held there until an even balance is reached. Monsees, a high point man on the Central College teams of the past two years, is training under Coach Gwinn Henry for the dashes. Gillette is developing into a strong cross-country man. Pledge Haring, baseball star of his St. Louis high school, is making a good showing in the spring workouts. The fraternity track team will offer heavy competition in the coming contests.

Scholastic Standing

Chi Alpha Chi ranks fifth of all the fraternities on the campus scholastically with an average of 223.92. The average of the fraternity men is 204.04, and the average of the entire student body is 200. The grading system is E, S, M, I, and F. E is equal to 400 points; S, 300; M, 200; and I, 100.

Gentlemen:

I wish to commend to you for favorable consideration the application of Chi Alpha Chi, at present a local social fraternity on the Missouri University campus, which is petitioning for a charter from Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. The students are an excellent lot, fine in scholarship, outstanding in various divisions of the University, Arts and Science, Engineering, Journalism, Medicine, Business and Public Administration. I think Alpha Sigma Phi would be well represented at Missouri with such a chapter.

Very sincerely,

Gentlemen:

It has been brought to my attention that the local chapter of Chi Alpha Chi is petitioning your order for admittance as a chapter here at the State University. Entirely through my own desire, out of respect and admiration for the several members of this chapter, I wish to say on behalf of my Chapter and myself, that this petitioning group is worthy of earnest consideration by any national fraternity.

In a scholastic way, in an activity way, and in a social way, these boys have earned and merited considerable attention and their striking progress makes one feel assured of a very good future. And on top of all this, these fellows are known as the right kind, and are regarded as a bunch of "good fellows."

As a member of one of the oldest chapters on the Campus, that of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, I can truly say that all chapters here of all fraternities here, as far as I know, regard these boys as I do. I can only wish them the best of luck, knowing that they have all the attainments and requisites for making a splendid representation of Alpha Sigma Phi on this campus, and sincerely trusting that you gentlemen will, too, recognize their merits. I am only too glad of this opportunity to give them my heartiest approval.

Respectfully yours,

Gentlemen:

I am glad to write you a letter in behalf of the members of Chi Alpha Chi. I have been in their house two or three times, and I know quite a few of the members individually. I am also acquainted with their chaperon who is an exceedingly fine woman in every respect. The members of this fraternity, so far as I know, are all a very high class type. I think this chapter would be a good addition to any national fraternity and I am glad to recommend them.

I should be very glad to answer any specific questions which you care to ask.

Gentlemen:

I have been asked to write you a letter concerning Chi Alpha Chi, a local fraternity, which, I believe, is petitioning for a charter from Alpha Sigma Phi.

Since the establishment of Chi Alpha Chi two years ago, I have known quite intimately many of its members, I have visited the chapter house on several social occasions and therefore feel able to write freely regarding the organization.

Chi Alpha Chi is clearly, in my judgment, a superior group of men. They are earnest, capable, and cooperate well together. They ranked fourth in scholarship last year, and fifth during the first semester of the present year. The organization has an excellent reputation on the campus. I have had occasion during my years of teaching to recommend a number of local fraternities for national charters, but there is none that I recommend more heartily than this one. I feel certain that Chi Alpha Chi would make a superior national fraternity.

Sincerely yours,

Gentlemen:

The Chi Alpha Chi fraternity, an organization of which I have the honor to be sponsor, consists of an unusual group of fine young men who seem to possess all the necessary qualities to make them a fraternity which is bound to give them one of the leading places on the campus. Their scholastic standing is unusually high and combined with a social prestige exceptionally high for so young a group. I feel sure they will be a credit to any national organization.

Gentlemen:

Mr. Joyce Swan of the local fraternity, Chi Alpha Chi, informs me that they are petitioning Alpha Sigma Phi. Mrs. Lynda Meysenburg, their chaperon, is a very fine woman and I trust her judgment. She says the men are a fine group. So far as I know there has been no matter of discipline to come up with any member of Chi Alpha Chi. I do not see any reason why this group could not develop a chapter of which a national might be proud.

Gentlemen:

It has been brought to the attention of the Pan-Hellenic Council of the University of Missouri that a local fraternity, Chi Alpha Chi, is petitioning for a charter in Alpha Sigma Phi. We wish at this time to express our sincere approval of this act.

Chi Alpha Chi has made an enviable record at Missouri as a local, and, and if the boys are granted a charter in your fraternity, you may feel sure of a strong chapter at this University.

Missouri has ample room for more good fraternities. Hundreds of acceptable men are forced every year to go without a fraternity, since the number now in existence is not large enough to accommodate them.

We would welcome a chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi at Missouri. We shall be glad to lend any assistance that would be necessary either to your organization or to the local chapter.

Hoping that your decision on this charter will be favorable to Chi Alpha Chi, and again assuring you of our co-operation and assistance whenever and wherever needed, we are,

Sincerely yours,

Pan-Hellenic Council of Missouri

Activities

The policy of Chi Alpha Chi stresses grades as of first importance and activities of next highest importance. Every man is expected to keep his grades up to average or above and then take part in at least one campus-wide activity. The pledges are asked as to what their interests are. Then, every effort is made to help them to get into this desired type of work. The pledge captain checks every week upon their work in this outside interest. This supervision of the pledge captain continues for one semester regardless of whether the man is initiated before that time or not. As soon as this supervision is relaxed, the influence of chapter meeting checks is added. Once every two months the men are required to report in the chapter meeting as to their progress in their various activities. This allows the application of compulsion and moral suasion upon the pledges and follows it up by the force of chapter opinion regularly focused upon the individual.

As a result of this policy, every man of the fraternity, regardless of whether he holds an office in the house or not, is in at least one activity of campus significance. There is one Freshman ranking in upper three on the annual staff of ten; one on the student paper staff; one Freshman in the pistol club; one Freshman who made two letters in high school out for track; one Freshman out for baseball; one Freshman who made his numeral in football last fall; three Freshmen in the Athenaeon Society, (debating); one Freshman who has consistently rated first on the debate staff; two Freshmen in the University Band; two Freshmen in Glee Club; two Freshmen out for swimming; one Freshman in the Y. M. C. A.; one Freshman in the American Society of Civil Engineers; two Freshmen in the Engineers Club; one Freshman in the University Orchestra; and one Freshman associate member to the dramatic organization of the Campus, (Workshop). Also there is one Freshman in each of the three strongest student's religious organizations of the Campus as well as the Y. M. C. A. Every one of the seven Freshmen is doing work that rates high in at least two activities and three of them are doing excellent work in four activities.

Of the older men, Voigt, a Sophomore, is Captain of the cross country team; two men are out for track; two men who made numerals as Freshmen are out for baseball; six men are in the Engineers club; two men are in the orchestra, two men are in the University Band, one of them being drum major; one man is director of the Glee Club; four men are in the Athenaeon Society (debating and campus politics); one man is president of the Y. M. C. A.; one man is president of the Presbyterian Student's organization; four men hold offices in the four largest student religious organizations of the campus; one man is forensic publicity manager for the Student Body; two men are on the varsity debating squad, one of them being captain; one man is in the German Club; one man is in the French club; four men are in the advanced corps of the R. O. T. C. (one Junior a lieutenant, two captains and one major); three men are in Workshop (dramatics), one of them having taken part in three of the four major productions of the campus for the year; one man is in the honorary chemical society; two men are in Alpha Pi Zeta, honorary social science society with fifteen student members; two men are in the University pep organization; one man is in A. S. C. E.; two men are in the polo club; one man is on the pistol team; one man is on the rifle team (which has won two national championships); two men are on the Student Council of 16, one of them being Vice-President of the Student Body; one man is athletic editor of the yearbook; one man is business manager of the Outlaw, student humorous publication; three men are members of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity, and one is writing a history for the national; one man is advertising manager of the Outlaw; two men are on the committee to determine speakers for University Convocation; one man is on the board of control of the Students Religious Council; one man is member of the senior honor society of ten; and one man is member of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity which has only two student members.

The highest honors such as Athletic Editor of the yearbook, Vice President of the Student Body, captain of the debate squad, student director of the band and glee club, leading parts in the four major productions in dramatics, and membership in senior honor society are distributed among four members, two of which expect to be back next year.

To give you an idea of the distribution, it might be well to add that the activities are distributed from sophomores to seniors. Eight men have two each, seven men have about four each and six men, including one junior, have six each.

Every school on the campus is represented in the fraternity excepting Education and Agriculture. Pains have been taken to see that the members do not date at only a part of the sorority houses. The fraternity sees that some member dates at every sorority house.

The fraternity as a group has entered all intramural contests this year and has not defaulted a single game in any of them which is more than some nationals and any local has done. It was one of the first locals to secure representation on the Pan Hellenic or inter-fraternity council.

This is a fairly complete resume of the activities. It gives the range of activities entered by the members, both as to type and importance, and shows that the house as a unit also is taking part in all inter-fraternity competition.

H. S. Honors: baseball, four year; football three years, last year on state championship team; dramatic; glee club.

College Honors: Freshman football and baseball numerals; Episcopal Student's Ass'n; middle-weight boxing champion, sporting editor of Savitar for two years; columnist, Missouri Magazine; Advertising manager Outlaw; Business Manager Outlaw; Captain R. O. T. C.; Varsity Baseball Squad. Scholastic average 215.
