TO: The Grand Council
FROM: Michael Hovermann
Director of Chapter Development
DATE: June 13, 1997
SUBJECT: Chartering Petition for Epsilon Alpha

Attached to this memo is an addendum to the chartering petition submitted by the Epsilon Alpha Colony at Michigan State University.

The first two items are support letters from student services personnel at Michigan State University. The third item is a copy of their Constitution and By-Laws. They plan on replacing all references to "Phi Sigma Phi" with "Alpha Sigma Phi," and ratifying the new version at their first chapter meeting in the Fall.

Dear Jonathan,

Alpha Sigma Phi is currently registered as a student organization at Michigan State University. The chapter has submitted the appropriate paperwork and documentation, including a current constitution and listing of officers.

Additionally, the Interfraternity Council recognizes Alpha Sigma Phi with full membership. Continued membership in the council requires that member organizations adhere to the policies and procedures of IFC, full implementation of the GAMMA Risk Management Policies, the payment of per member dues to the council, and the payment of assessment charges by the University to fund the Greek life program area in the Department of Student Life. At this time, Alpha Sigma Phi is in good standing with the council.

Attached to this memo is an addendum to the chartering petition submitted by the Epsilon Alpha Colony at Michigan State University.

The first two items are support letters from student services personnel at Michigan State University. The third item is a copy of their Constitution and By-Laws. They plan on replacing all references to "Phi Sigma Phi" with "Alpha Sigma Phi," and ratifying the new version at their first chapter meeting in the Fall.

Description of Institution

-Excerpt from Michigan State University's mission statement-

“Michigan State University holds a unique position in the state’s educational system. As a respected research and teaching university, it is committed to intellectual leadership, and to excellence in both developing new knowledge and conveying that knowledge to it’s students and the public. And as a pioneer land-grant institution , Michigan State University strives to use practical uses for theoretical knowledge, and to speed the diffusion of information to residents of the state, the nation, and the world. In fostering both research and its application, this university will continue to be a catalyst for positive intellectual, social, and technological change.

Founded in 1855 as an autonomous public institution of higher learning by and for the citizens of Michigan, this institution was in 1863 designated the beneficiary of the Morrill Act endowment. It became one of the earliest land-grant institutions in the United States. Since 1863, Michigan State has evolved into an internally-esteemed university offering a comprehensive spectrum of programs and attracting gifted professors, staff members, and students. The University, seeks excellence in all programs and activities and this challenge for high achievement creates a dynamic atmosphere. At Michigan State University, instruction, research, and public service are integrated to make the institution an innovative, responsive public resource.

As the only land-grant institution in the state, Michigan State University is committed to providing equal educational opportunity to all qualified applicants; to extending knowledge to all people in the state; to melding professional and technical instruction with quality liberal education; to expanding knowledge as an end in itself as well as on behalf of society; to emphasizing the applications of information; and to contributing to the understanding and the solution of significant societal problems. Michigan State University’s adherence to academic freedom and open scholarly inquiry supports these essential academic functions.

The university’s land-grant and service mission first originated in the areas of agriculture and the mechanic arts. While these emphases remain essential to the purpose of Michigan State, the land-grant commitment now encompasses fields such as health, human relations, business, communication, education, and government, and extends to urban and international settings. The evolution of this mission reflects the increasing complexity and cultural diversity of society, the world's greater interdependence, changes in both state and national economy, and the explosive growth of knowledge, technology, and communications. Just as the focus on agriculture and the mechanic arts was appropriate when Michigan State University was founded, the wide range of instructional research, and public service commitments that now characterize this university is essential today.

By 1964, the instruction, research, and public service activities at Michigan State University had achieved the high level of excellence necessary for membership in the Association of American Universities (AAU). Innovation and leadership in these three crucial areas, and in the extension of knowledge to the state, the nation, and the world, are the hallmarks of this university. An excellent and diverse faculty insures the superior quality of academic programs, and contributes to the expansion of knowledge and its application in the public interest.

Research and scholarship help preserve and enrich cultural and creative traditions, as well as contribute to the formulation of new knowledge. Graduate programs draw upon and support faculty research, extend the benefits of research, and educate students for professional careers. The established national and international reputation of the university is based upon the quality and distinctiveness of the research and scholarly activity of its faculty and students.

At the undergraduate level, the university offers strong, comprehensive programs in the liberal arts and sciences and in major professional areas which include a significant general education component. Michigan State University provides opportunities for students of varying interests, abilities, backgrounds, and expectations. Underlying all educational programs is the belief that an educated person is one who becomes an effective and productive citizen. Such a person contributes to society intellectually, through analytical abilities and in the insightful use of knowledge; economically, through productive application of skills; socially, through an understanding and appreciation of the world and for individual and group beliefs and traditions; ethically, through sensitivity and faithfulness to examined values; and politically, through the use of reason in affairs of state. Mindful of such purposes, Michigan State University is committed to graduating educated men and women with diverse backgrounds who are active learners, ready to assume the responsibilities of leadership wherever opportunities arise.

Michigan State University fulfills the fundamental purposes of all major institutions of higher education: to seek, to teach and to preserve knowledge. As a land-grant institution, this university meets these objectives in all its formal and informal educational programs, in basic and applied research, and in public service. As an AAU institution, this university meets these commitments through its instructional and research programs. Through the excellence of its academic programs, the strength of its support services, and the range of its student activities, the university provides opportunities for the fullest possible development of the potential of each student and each citizen served, and enhances the quality of life and economic viability of Michigan. Education of its citizens is the state's best investment in its future. Michigan State University has honored, and will continue to honor, this public trust."

There are more than 31,000 undergraduates at Michigan State. Michigan State University grants degrees in the following areas: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Landscape Architecture, Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Nursing, Master of Arts, Master of Arts for Teachers, Master of Business Administration.

Greek Conditions

Michigan State University provides opportunities for students to learn in both academic and extra-circular arenas. One of the best opportunities for education outside of the formal university is Michigan State University's Greek System. With 32 fraternities and 16 sororities, the Greek system is strong and diverse. A student interested can choose from houses with numbers ranging from twenty to ninety men. Further, many fraternities exist which do not conform to traditional stereotypes. Just as Michigan State University prides itself on diversity of its students, so too do many fraternities. By interacting with the those different, one can learn great amounts about himself.

The Greek system at Michigan State University has traditionally been a strong contributor to local and national philanthropies. Local programs of interest include Into the Streets, Baker Street Exchange, the Kappa Alpha Theta Children's carnival, and many more. While every distinct chapter on campus has an annual philanthropy event, once a year the entire system dedicates a week to Special Olympics. What we call Greek Week is a week-long fund raiser compiled of individual games, group competitions, and an entire day providing a good-spirited competition for members of the Special Olympics. Ticket sales by the system totaled over $50,000 dollars last year. It's fair to say that each chapter anticipates Greek Week as the pinnacle of the year, both in competition and spirit.

As the community and the university have evolved, so too has the Greek system. Lead by the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils, the entire system is auditing the manner in which they conduct themselves. Several incidents within the system during the past year have brought such safety issues to the forefront of discussion. Hence, both fraternities and sororities are adapting to the changing tides of legal issues in an effort to protect their security. While in the past hazing and other unacceptable practices were common, current efforts to reform the system are proving successful. Perhaps the strongest example of progress is the Greek system's involvement in Gamma. Gamma's responsibility is to patrol social functions and enforce the rules created by representatives of each chapter. These rules include mandatory safe rides, emergency provisions, guest lists, and prohibition of common sources of alcohol. In this age of uncertainty, such provisions are necessary to ensure that the Greek System at Michigan State University remains a place where men and women can further their education outside of the classroom.

Applying Body, Organization, and History

The gentlemen that are taking part in this petition have a rich and diverse history. All petitioning members come from different backgrounds with different beliefs, but one hold one thing common among all; the belief in a strong brotherhood . Most, if not all, of the members had a general dislike of the Greek system before coming through rush. The main reason for becoming part of this organization was to try and foster a tradition of breaking the typical stereotypes of many of the Greek organizations.

The history of our chapter has ties back to 1910 with Phi Sigma Epsilon. Phi Sigma Epsilon was prospering for many years and then suffered on hard times. In the mid 1980's, after suffering through a difficult time in the Greek system, Phi Sigma Epsilon was approached by Phi Sigma Kappa to discuss the possibility of a merger between the two fraternities. A heated and emotional debate followed at the National Conclave, which in the end resulted in the approval of the merger. Several members of the National Council, as well as members of Alumni Chapters, decided to form a new organization. A long legal battle ensued, which did not end until 1987 when both sides agreed to cease litigation. On July 30, 1988 a new name for the organization, that being Phi Sigma Phi.

This chapter was the first to be colonized by this new organization, led by a transfer student from Eastern Michigan University, John Taylor. The reason for the chapter name of Epsilon Alpha is as follows: Epsilon, signifying our ties back to Phi Sigma Epsilon, and Alpha, signifying this was the first new addition to this new national organization.

This organization has become one of the premier fraternities on this campus. We have succeeded in setting standards in many aspects including, social, philanthropic, and brotherhood. The dedication and diversity of our brotherhood leaves an impression that is virtually impossible to find at other houses. Hopefully, we will not only try to continue to meet our past standards but rather exceed those standards. Our future will not rest on our past accomplishments, but on the accomplishments of those brothers who will follow us.

Financial Statement

As of February 1, 1997 this organization had both a checking and savings account open at Citizens Bank, 100 W. Grand River, East Lansing, Michigan. The checking account currently has a balance of $2833.44 and the savings account has a balance of $3000.00. These amounts were accumulated over the past few years under Phi Sigma Phi and have now carried over to Alpha Sigma Phi.

Dwelling

The house that we live in is located at 336 Oakhill Avenue, East Lansing, MI 48823. Our landlord is John Reynolds. The house has 11 bedrooms, 2 kitchens, 5 bathrooms, and a sauna. We have finished a brotherhood room, game room, and we are working on other projects as well.

Our weekly meetings are held at the MSU student union building because we don't have the space to meet at the house. The meeting rooms are large and are set up for business meetings.

The house manager at Epsilon Alpha is a position that is elected for a term of one year. The house manager is an undergraduate member of the fraternity. He makes all decisions concerning the house. His duties include collecting rent, acting as a liaison to the landlord, paying bills, and making sure the house is safe and comfortable for all brothers.
